Campaign launched to protect wild birds

Leading ornithologists, ecologists and intellectuals yesterday joined hands with amateur bird watchers in a campaign to protect dwindling wild birds as 41 resident birds across the country have been earmarked by international experts as 'endangered species,' reports BSS.

Bangladesh Bird Club organised a seminar titled, 'People's role in saving bird' at the National Press Club yesterday.

Poet Shamsur Rahman, distinguished ornithologist Professor Kazi Zaker Hossain, artist Hashem Khan, journalist Faezul Karim, writer Mizanur Rahman, Dijen Swarna and amateur bird watcher Wing Commander (ret'd) Enam Ul Haque, among others, spoke on the occasion.

Poet Shamsur Rahman urged all to establish a non-violent society to ensure safety of the wild birds across the country. He observed that basic human values were eroding from the society and scores of people are being killed by terrorists almost everyday.

Referring to his love for birds, the poet said that he had symbiotic relation with a duck when he was 12. But one day after returning from school, he found the duck was served as midday meal on the dining table. "I was about to vomit..." Shamsur Rahman said, adding that he has crossed 70 years and never tasted wild ducks.

Shamsur Rahman said that unfortunately birds in the country are not safe in the hands of law enforcers as most of them are fond of duck roast.

The poet said people in this part of the world is battered by poverty and many consider the amateur bird watchers as crazy people. He said most of the creative individuals including the poets have deep sympathy for birds, which symbolizes freedom, liberty and peace across the world.

Professor Kazi Zaker Hossain said wildlife conservation acts in Bangladesh are unique laws considering its texts. But saddest reality is that the affluent citizens are fond of roasts of wild birds, he added.

He said it is the moral force that could restrict the violators of the conservation act. Terminating bird hunting as most cruel sport, he said the dynamics of the conflict of interest between men and animals have been changed over the decades.

Amateur bird watcher Enam Ul Haque said wild birds are fast disappearing from the neighborhood. Doves are hardly available in the adjoining areas of the capital and cranes are available not in the waterbeds but in the hands of the vendors on crossroads in Moghlabazar of Elephant road area.

Poet Shamsur Rahman and others later released some wild parrots from the cages at the National Press Club premises, marking the inauguration of bird protection campaign. The poet on November 1 inaugurated a fortnight-long signature campaign of Bangladesh Bird Club to protect endangered wild birds.

Khaleda seeks support of Hindu community

By Staff Correspondent

BNP Chairperson and Leader of the Opposition in Parliament Khaleda Zia yesterday called upon the members of the Hindu community to support BNP for ensuring their development and establishing their rights.

She said the Awami League had used Hindu community as its vote bank but after coming to power, it has resorted to repression on them.

Khaleda was addressing a ceremony at her 29 Minto Road official residence where Major General (ret'd) Mahabub Khan Chowdhury joined the BNP. Some local people from Mokshapur of Gopalganj district also joined the party with him.

The Leader of the Opposition alleged that the AL had occupied lands and property belonging to the members of the Hindu community, evicting them from their own houses.

She said every citizen of the country has the right to enjoy all facilities equally.

BNP secretary general Abdul Mannan Bhuiyan, Khandaker Mahabuddin Ahmed and local BNP leaders also addressed the function.
