

RU Press Club polls uncertain

Some members demand resignation of EC

From RU Correspondent

RAJSHAHI UNIVERSITY, Nov 27: As a section of members of Rajshahi University Press Club are demanding resignation of election commissioner (EC) for his alleged 'partisan attitude', annual election of the club looks uncertain.

The members, loyal to Azad-Faruk panel, in a memorandum submitted to the chief advisor of the club, Prof AEM Moniruzzaman, demanded resignation of Election Commissioner Prof Abdur Rahman Siddiqui who what they said postponed the election, which was scheduled for November 23, without informing them (the members).

They said that they went to the club on the scheduled day to cast vote, but found the club closed. They (supporters of Azad-Faruk panel) said most members were ready to cast votes. They also said Azad-Faruk panel should be declared elected.

Meanwhile, the election commissioner dismissed the demand terming it as 'childlike'. He defended the postponement saying the decision came after consultation with the chief advisor of the club.

AEM Moniruzzaman and Vice Chancellor of the university were for avoiding untoward incident, he said. He also dismissed the members' claim of polls postponement without prior notice. He said the postponement notice was sent to the club where most of the members were present at about 8.00 pm on November 22.

Earlier, Kamruzzaman Korban, the aspirant for the presidency, lodged a complaint with the election commissioner that one of the members of Korban-Mahbub panel, Farzana Islam Neela, was 'intimidated and evicted' by supporters of rival panel. He also alleged that few days back Khaleque Mithu of Korban-Mahbub panel was manhandled by his rival. He also appealed to Prof Siddiqui to postpone the election because of the incidents.

However, supporters of Azad-Faruk panel denied the allegation, saying Neela left Rajshahi for personal reason.

Prof Siddiqui, however, on Saturday dismissed the resignation demand and said the election will be held at a convenient time.

Two panels were vying for 13-member executive committee of the club. Shamsuzzaman Azad of UNB news agency and Faruque Hossain Chowdhury of the Pratham Alo are leading Azad-Faruk panel while Kamruzzaman Korban of the Inquilab and Mahbub of the Sonali Sangbad are leading the other panel.

Students of Rajshahi University recently brought out a procession on the university campus demanding cancellation of the result of 20th BCS Examination.

Where have all the fishes gone!

From Akhteruzzaman Bablu

SIRAJGANJ, Nov 27: Where have all the fishes gone? Not very long ago, the Jamuna abounded with so much fish during rainy season that it could feed a large population of the country. More over, Jamuna fishes enjoyed a vast market in neighbouring India.

During rainy season, papda, bapataari, shorputi, raikhe, boal, bagreire, rita, kol, khoisha, katal, bailla, tengra, kawna, khoshalla, aire, hilsa and many other species could be caught in tons. These fishes would also swarm the low-lying areas along the river where villagers would catch them during festivals.

The pressure of population and over fishing has taken toll on the river resources. Whatever catches reach the markets are destined to the kitchens of the rich people. The poor are simply content with the money to buy rice for their families.

Laheri Mohanpur, Dilapashar areas at the estuary of the Jamuna are two exceptions where fishermen are reportedly catching schools of fishes. But hard-earned fishermen can hardly afford to sell their catches at the local markets. Instead, they look for buyers from the cities.

Experts say that fishes would return to the Jamuna with the cycle of lean period ending soon. During the prolonged deluge of 1988, an unusual number of fishes were caught along the rivers and other areas of the district. The following years there was no flood and experts said that in the coming year the river will again be busy with happy fishermen.

Storm damages crops worth Tk 60cr in Barisal

BARISAL, Nov 27: Farmers of six districts of the division could not celebrate 'Nabanna' a traditional festival of farmers in the current Bengali month of Agrayahan, reports UNB.

They could not observe the traditional festival as the crops worth about Tk 60 crore were damaged in the last month's storm.

The cyclonic storm with heavy downpour hit the districts on October 27-28 damaging standing Aman and vegetables on 4.12 lakh hectares of land.

Of the total, standing Aman on 31,419 hectares of land worth about Tk 26 crore was damaged during the storm.

Agricultural Extension Department sources said in Barisal standing Aman crops, vegetables and betel leaf on 42,409 hectares of land were damaged. Of the total, Aman crops on 9,082 hectares of land worth about Tk 3.39 crore were damaged.

Robbery in Ctg market

From Our Correspondent CHITTAGONG, Nov 27: Robbers raided a market in Chandanish here early Wednesday and looted cash and valuables worth about Tk 17 lakh.

Local people said some 70 to 80 robbers armed with firearms encircled Yunus Market in front of the local union parishad office on the bank of the River Shankha and decamped with valuables, including gold ornaments, worth over Tk 16 lakh and Tk one lakh in cash.

The robbers, who created panic in the area by firing in the air, tied up tow night guards of the market.

tion many private clinics have been established in the region with a view to serving the people.

According to local people, most doctors serving in the hospitals are connected with the clinics or in some cases they have their own clinics.

It is alleged that the doctors on duty in many hospitals suggest the patients to go to their clinics from the hospital for better treatment. As a result, the solvent patients are being benefited but the poor patients are deprived of proper medicare for want of money. In the case of heart patients, treatment is needed at clinics. But poor patients cannot think of going to such clinics.

Moreover, comparatively solvent patients are going abroad for treatment as they do not get treatment from the clinics up to their expectation.

At present, the Upazila Health Complexes and Health Subcentres at union level are facing shortage of specialist physicians and medicines. As a result, the poor patients including the heart patients are not getting proper treatment locally.

Statistics show that most of the patients who come to the local health complexes are suffering from heart disease. The number of such patients is increasing overwhelmingly in the region in recent years.

A source of Benapole Border Checkpost of the region informed that about half of the people going to India daily are heart patients. Local elite said the concerned ministry and the directorate should take measures to ensure proper medicare services in the country.

Luttu murder: Relatives under pressure

From Our Correspondent

RAJSHAHI, Nov 27: Accused in the sensational Luttu murder case are allegedly putting pressure on the family members of the victim to withdraw the case.

Ehsan Ali Luttu, a young engineer, was brutally killed on January 9 this year at Beldar Para in the city.

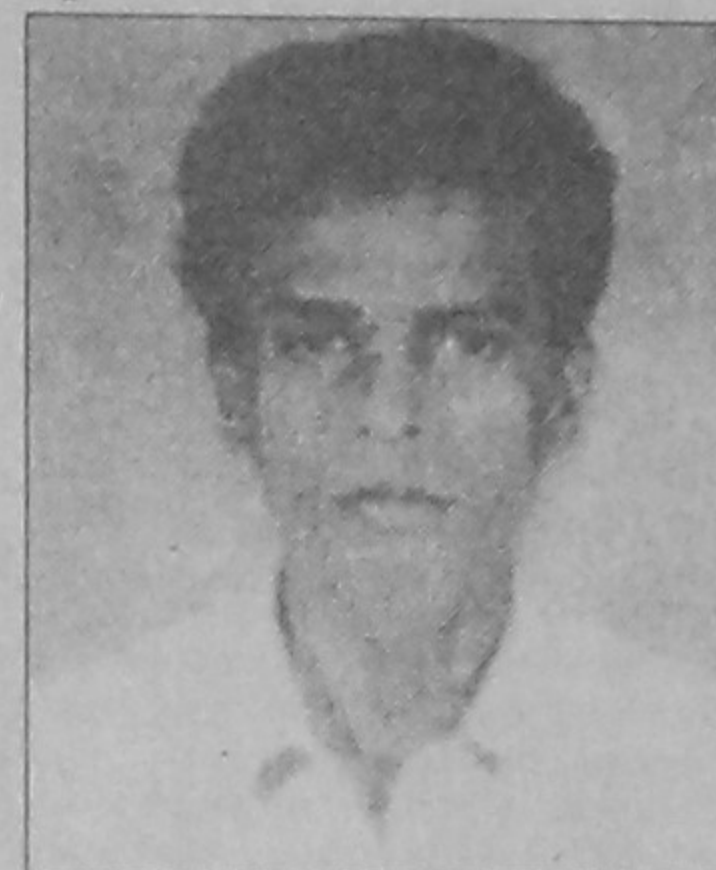

Fear and grief still hunt us as we are under pressure to withdraw the case, said Sohrab Hossain, father of the slain engineer, at a press conference held here last week.

Main accused of the murder case, Javed, was recently released on bail.

Javed, a known extortionist, demanded money from Luttu, family members of the victim said. On the night of January 9, accused Javed visited Luttu at his residence and called him out.

Later the victim was found injured on the road. Locals rushed the injured to Rajshahi Medical College Hospital where doctors declared him dead.

Javed confessed to the crime before court. He was released on Ehsan Ali Luttu August 7 this year on bail.

Sohrab Hossain alleged that an influential quarter backed by the ruling Awami League is trying to protect Javed. He demanded immediate cancellation of the bail and arrest of the accused.

'We want nothing but justice and security of our lives', Sohrab Hossain, a trader, added.

Guest birds arriving in three hill dists

RANGAMATI, Nov 27: With the advent of winter a large number of guest birds are arriving in the three hill districts, including Rangamati from the Siberian region, reports UNB.

But the amateur hunters are catching the guest birds indiscriminately and selling in the market openly before the very nose of the law enforcers.

There is a strict law on preserving wild animals and prohibiting the killing of birds in the country with a maximum punishment of seven years' imprisonment to a violator. But it could not be implemented due to the indifference of the law enforcers.

A section of people in the region took the guest bird hunting as their profession and is engaged in hunting birds throughout the day.

In the evening they sell these birds at high prices to the well off section of the society, visitors and tourists.

About 50 youths in eight points including Assam Basti Bazaar in the town took up the bird hunting as their profession. Some of them are seen going to the doorsteps of buyers.

Besides they have developed a strong network in the three hill districts. A group hunts the birds from the river, canal and other water bodies and then supplies to their agents in the district headquarters.

Though there is a special force of the government to preserve the wild animal and guest birds but no activities of such force were visible in the hill districts.

Date juice extraction begins in Madaripur

MADARIPUR, Nov 27: Collection of date juice has begun throughout the district, reports BSS.

With the onset of winter, preparation for extraction of juice from the date-trees usually starts in Madaripur and its adjoining districts. The date-juice collectors move from village to village and in the town areas for selling juice.

Winter brings a festive mood among the rural people. Farmers carry home new Aus paddy from the fields. They are full of joy with the smell of new paddy. Wives of the farmers husk paddy to get rice with much enthusiasm.

They arrange 'nabanna' festival on the first day of Bengali month Agrayahan. The housewives prepare various kinds of cakes with rice powder.

Preparation of various cakes can not be thought of without molasses of date juice. The solid molasses is locally known as patali. The molasses is prepared by boiling date juice.

Madaripur and its adjoining districts are famous for date juice. Date trees grow abundantly in these areas due to favourable climate.

A survey conducted by International Project for Rural Advancement (IPRA), an NGO, revealed that there are about 25,000 date trees in the district. About 300 tons of molasses are produced from the juice extracted from these trees annually.

Netrakona tribals are no more backward

From Jahangir Alam

NETRAKONA, Nov 27: Here is a success story of a non-governmental organisation (NGO) which has changed the educational, cultural, health, economical and social condition of the people of the bordering Durgapur and Kalmakanda upazilas. The organisation is World Vision Bangladesh, which came here in 1972 to improve the living condition of the tribal people in the bordering areas here.

From 1972 till now many development activities have been done by World Vision in the fields of economical, educational, public health and communication which changed radically the living condition of poor people in this border belt.

Previously 95 per cent tribals here were illiterate, uneducated, uncultured and insolvent. World Vision came here as a conductor of the tribals.

World Vision gives sufficient grant to many poor tribal students who have no capacity to run their education. With the help of this NGO many tribal young men and women have become educated and many of them already got jobs in government and non-governmental organisation. Now the percentage of educated people in this tribal society is 80. This miracle has become possible due to help of World Vision.

In the arena of communication, World Vision played an important role by building culvert, dam, road repairing and such other work. This NGO has developed the communication system of the bordering area.

Previously the tribal people had no idea about health care. World Vision has made them consciousness about health care.

The NGO renders free health care service. It distributes medicine, sanitary latrine and grant to the tribals for major treatment and
