Xiao Hui Wang's exhibition opens at Goethe Institut

By Fayza Haq

THE exhibition of black and white portraits done by Chinese-German photographer Xiao Hui Wang opened at the Goethe Institut yesterday.

Born in China Xiao Hui has been living in Germany for 14 years now. It is said about her that she is "already 100 years of age" and that "she lives seven interest in intensive travels over four continents to help her bring back some happiness in her life.

Her photographs have appeared in various exhibitions and publications both in Germany and elsewhere. She has participated in workshops and presentation at various universities and other institutions. In '94 she got an award for her film production work in Germany and also served as artistic supervisor on Hong Kong/Japan co-lives at the same time".

She came to the Federal Republic of Germany as an architect in '86. She later began teaching at the College for Architecture in Munich. She held her first exhibition of photography in '87 and in '91 took classes in film direction at the Munich Academy of Film and since then has been taken up in several film projects as advisor and director's assistant.

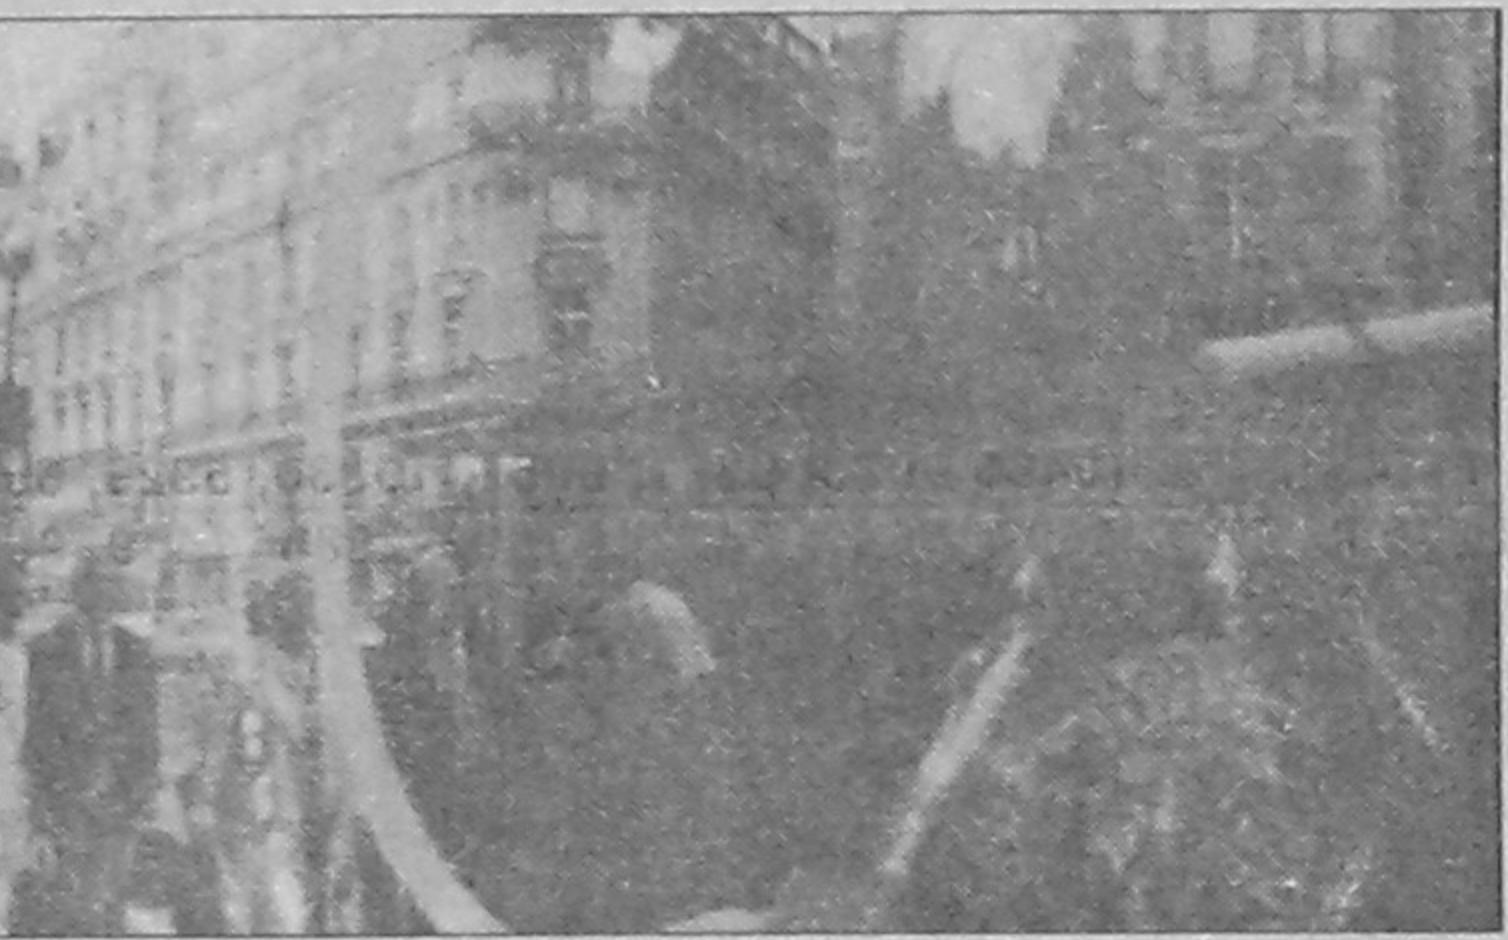

With the death of her husband in a car accident, a new phase in her life began and she took more production movie.

She now spends her time in photography, writing, publishing, exhibitions and workshops.

In '90 she got the prize "The Advanced Artist"; in '92 wrote film script for a series produced by German TV; in '93 received the award by "Bayerische Filmförderung" for the script "The Broken Moon"; in '96 published the film script "Burnt Out Blue Candle" and a documentary "The Peking Opera Man" shown on TV in six countries.

From '89 she published six
