

Arsenicosis claims 7 lives in Bogra

People of Bogra, Barguna, Patuakhali and Bhola districts are now passing their days in fear of arsenic, report agencies.

Arsenicosis has so far claimed seven lives and affected 106 others in Bogra district owing to intake of arsenic contaminated water.

Government and other sources said the total number of tube-wells throughout the districts is over one lakh. Of them, 30,175 were installed by the government.

Department of Public Health Engineering (DPHE) sources said till last November they had tested waters of 1,063 tube-wells and detected arsenic contamination beyond the permissible limit in 143 tube-wells. They also listed 57 as worst affected.

Local sources said five people died at Meghnagachha village in Sadar upazila and two at Shilkoir in Kahalu upazila. Besides, 50 were affected at Meghnagachha, 22 at Shilkoir, 27 at Ulipur village in Gabtali upazila and seven at Hindukandi in Shariakandi upazila.

When contacted (DPHE) officials said they knew nothing about arsenic-related death and affliction.

The official concerned claimed that cent per cent pure water is available in the district and they found no arsenic contamination in Bogra town.

"As part of the arsenic-mitigated water supply programme across the country the first phase detection work in Sadar, Sariakandi and Gabtali upazilas has already been started in Bogra," said one official.

Local elite expressed doubt about the success of the multi-million-taka project as no programme was taken under it to treat arsenic patients.

Meanwhile, arsenic is being found in the shallow tube-wells water in Barguna, Patuakhali and Bhola districts.

The NGO Forum has been examining water of the tubewells in these areas.

Cent per cent arsenic contamination water was found in the shallow tube-wells of the districts of Barisal, Pirojpur and Jhalakati. The highest quantity of arsenic 1.70 milligrams has been found in Jagua, Ullania and Barisal Sadar of Barisal district and Nazirpur Upazila of Pirojpur district. DPHE has marked these tubewells with green colour in the meantime.

Arsenic contaminated water affects breathing system, digesting system, nervous system and blood circulation system of human bodies. It may turn into a cancer in the long run. Arsenic is also responsible for high blood pressure and diabetes.

Fifty-nine arsenic stricken people were found in Barisal Sadar, 11 in Mehendigonj Upazila and two in Agailjhara Upazila till now. Meanwhile, 14 people died of the disease in Barisal district.

The NGO Forum has taken up different programmes and technology for the distribution of safe water among the people of arsenic stricken areas. These projects included Rain Water Harvesting Plant (RWHP), Pond-sand-filters and Arsenic Removal System.

Meanwhile, 11 RWHPs have been set up here in 11 upazilas of Patharghata, Agailjhara, Bhabanipur, Mehendigonj, Ullania, Rajapur, Jhalakathi, Muladi, Babugonj and Saestabad. About 4,000 people of the region have been getting pure drinking water from these plants.

A total of 18 Pond-sand-filters have been set up in eight upazilas of Patharghata, Agailjhara, Mathbaria, Bhabanipur, Mehendigonj, Ullania, Kathalia, and Babugonj upazilas of the southern region. About 3,000 people of the upazilas have been taking pure drinking water from the filters now.

Besides 2,550 families have been getting arsenic free pure drinking water from Arsenic Removal System, set up in 13 upazilas of Jhalakathi, Nazirpur, Pirojpur, Wazirpur, Amirgonj, Mehendigonj, Ullania, Bhabanipur, Agailjhara, Mathbaria, Babugonj, Bakergonj and Muladi.

The NGOs like Sangram, BSUS, BVDO, ASUK, Kashara, CSC, BDS, BUK, PISI, Speed Trust Foundation, Annesa, Sardo, ATM, RTO and AVAS, have been trying to prepare arsenic free water in different processes here in the division.

The NGOs have been taking steps to set up a hospital for the arsenic stricken people of this division soon.

Winter is not the season of hilsa. Even then there has been a glut of the delicious fish in the markets of Chandpur situated on the confluence of the rivers Padma and Meghna, surprising the fish traders. Hilsa price has unexpectedly declined across the district. However, the size of the fish is small and the weight varies from 500 to 1,200 grams. —Star photo by AKMMohsin

RU resident students take substandard food

From RU Correspondent

RAJSHAHI UNIVERSITY, 19 Jan: Residents students of the university are forced to take unhygienic and substandard food due to massive irregularities in dining halls of their dormitories.

Many students of ten male and four female dormitories have been suffering from intestinal diseases like chronic dysentery and diarrhoea.

Besides, the students have no other options. There is no hygienic canteen or restaurant in and around the dormitories.

The students can have two meals a day from the dining halls, run by the dining workers who are appointed by the hall authorities on contract basis.

Students have to pay Tk 8.5 in cash per meal at the dining halls. Any non-resident student or outsider can also avail the chance of taking meal.

The rice served in the dining halls is the lowest in quality, students said. "Almost every day, we get pieces of stone and brick in the rice as the workers do not clean and wash the rice before cooking. And we have to swallow the rice," said Akhter Hossain, a resident student of Suhrawardy Hall.

Fishes the authorities serve are very small in size and immature. Beef and mutton are also of low quality. "I cannot take fish-curry, because the fishes are not properly washed. If you attempt to take fish, your appetite will be vanished", said Sarwar Zahan of Syed Amir Ali Hall.

"If you take gura (small) fish bowl, it will be a horrible experience, I never dare to take the fish since I found several times small snails and boiled insects mixed with it", said a student of Marketing Department.

"I do believe what they said beef is actually meat of buffaloes", he added.

Seldom they serve mutton or chicken. But taking mutton is considered risky. Seven dining workers of Madar Bux Hall were sacked after they were found guilty of serving jackal's meat in the name of mutton in the dining hall on September 27 last year.

Punishments were awarded to two more dining workers of Shahid Habibur Rahman Hall in October last year after a leech was found in cooked vegetable.

During a recent visit by this correspondent to Shahid Habibur Rahman Hall he found the sliced vegetables were literally littered on the muddy floors of two kitchens and flies and other insects were roaming. When asked, one of the dining workers Nuru said, "We will wash later".

The drinking water is not safe. Running water is served from the dirty overhead-tanks, which are seldom washed. There are a good number of tube-wells at every hall, but the workers do not cater it to the students.

The plastic glasses and porcelain plates have turned reddish-yellow, as they are not washed properly.

Some students, who are also armed cadres of some student organisations, are too contributing a lot to the dismal situation in dining halls. The cadres seldom pay. In return, they back the dining workers who are engaged in massive irregularities.

The dining workers often dare to call strike. During strikes, the students have to cook foods in their respective rooms.

Resident students allege the teachers who are also house tutors do not pay attention to the problem.

When contacted, Prof Abul Kashem, provost of Habibur Rahman Hall, denied the allegation and said the house tutors regularly monitor the situation in the dining.

When contacted, Vice Chancellor Prof Sayeedur Rahman Khan said, "We know the problem and we are trying to work out a solution. I have already talked to provosts, student leaders and workers".

But all-out co-operation from all concerned is needed to solve the problem, he added.

Dacoities in Sundarbans increase alarmingly

SATKHIRA, Jan 19: Dacoities in the Sundarbans area have increased alarmingly in recent times, reports BSS.

About 25 armed groups of dacoits who control the entire Satkhira forest range of the Sundarbans making over thousands fishermen and bawallies hostage. These small and big groups were collecting extortion and also looting fish, fishing nets and other goods from the fishermen and bawallies using several kinds of fire arms including country-made light gun. Of the total groups at least 10 groups were come from Indian side, according to local people.

These armed dacoit groups have tightened their grip and exaggerated their torture to the fishermen and bawallies in different parts of the Sundarbans area to leave their ancestral profession. There are also allegations that Indian fishermen intrude into Bangladesh waters crossing the border river Kalindi everyday and catch fishes indiscriminately driving out the local fishermen.

A large number of fishermen and bawallies from the entire Satkhira forest range of the Sundarbans were coming back to their own villages for fear of the dacoits torture. Of them Daud Molla, Arsad Gazi, Ismail Morol of village Bichat under Assassuni upazila, Sawkat Gazi, Moniruddin of Patuakhali village, Tazul Islam and Mizanur of Katulia village under Shymnagar upazila returned from the Sundarbans recently. They informed that several groups of armed dacoits were usually torturing the fishermen and bawallies and collecting extortion at the rate of Taka 100 to 500 per boat.

The Indian dacoits often abduct Bangladeshi fishermen for ransom and release them after payment at an amount of Taka 5,000-10,000. As a result, local fishermen are gradually losing their interest in fishing and some of them have already switched over to other profession.

According to the fishermen and bawallies, there are over 25 groups of armed dacoits who were controlling the entire Satkhira forest range in the Sundarbans. The dacoit groups were known to the fishermen and bawallies as Mujib Bahini, Aziz Bahini, Mozam Bahini, Sawkat Bahini, Shounnashi Bahini, Mejho Bahni Party and Lathimara party of Bangladeshi groups and Mohon Bahini, Tetul Bahini, Giren Bahini, Boro Bhai Party, Mama Bhagne Party and Kala Party of Indian groups. The dacoit groups were known according to the name of their gang leader.

Most of the Indian dacoits were inhabitants of villages Shomshernagar and Kumirmari under Goshaba thana of South 24 Pargona district, West Bengal. Bangladeshi dacoits were inhabitants of several villages under Shymnagar upazila of Satkhira district, Koyra, Paikgachha upazila under Khulna district, Rampal, Fakirhat and Mongla of Bagerhat district and Mothabari upazila of Pirojpur district with some other upazilas.

Local fishermen said, the dacoit groups possessed of country made gun, cut rifle, short gun with other modern arms and ammunition. The small groups are committing dacoity with sticks and torch light, so that they are called Lathimara Party. The fishermen, who entered into the Sundarbans for catching fish and fish fry take weekly pass from the Forest Range Office. They were forced to give Taka 100 per boat to the dacoits. The fishermen give extortion to more than 3 to 4 groups per week. If any fisherman failed to pay the extortion the dacoits became angry and abducted them and released after taking 5 to 10 thousands taka as ransom.

Police sources said the policemen of Satkhira were engaged in several gunfights with the dacoits in the Sundarbans area during the last two years. Police arrested about 50 dacoits and also recovered about 20 firearms from their possession.

Last year, the Indian dacoits killed three fishermen and a fish trader on revenue for arrest of Tetul dacoit. They were identified as Abdul Aziz, 35, of village Shora, Sukur Ali, 40, of village Taranipur, Nesab Ali, 35, of village Patuakhali under Shymnagar upazila and Mokul, 25, of village Bichat under Assassuni upazila of Satkhira district.

While contacted with Police Suber Aminul Islam informed that the police personnel of the district are patrolling every day in different areas of the Sundarbans in Satkhira range to arrest the dacoits and resist all kinds of terrorist activities in the Sundarbans.

Sumi murder: Autopsy report submitted

From Our Correspondent

SIRAJGANJ, Jan 19: The autopsy report of murdered Sumi Roy, 20, was handed over to Sirajganj police on Wednesday, after four days of her murder.

All the accused persons went underground following submission of the report by a seven-member board constituting seven physicians. The local Civil Surgeon formed the board.

Meanwhile, many clients who deposited money at "Shila Jewellers" situated at Mujib Sarak in the district town for purchasing ornaments, feared that they had lost all their money for good. Because, they feared, the owners would never come back home again who had already gone to India, shutting down their business here. The clients suspected that some local wealthy traders helped them flee the country.

Sumi Roy, beautiful wife of Subir Roy and a second year student of HSC class of Roshiduzzoha Government Women's College here was murdered by her husband and his relatives following torture on her on January 12 night.

Sumi, the only daughter of Gopinath Roy, an wealthy person in Tangail was married to Subir Roy.

It has been alleged that the 'murderers tried to convert the case as an Unnatural Death (UD) case in exchange of a good amount of money as bribe, but in vain. They also tried to bury the dead hurriedly, but failed.

Collection, transportation of sand

A photo feature by Kamran Reza Chowdhury

Sand is an essential ingredient for construction works. It is usually collected from the shoal areas of rivers. Thousands of workers are involved in this work.
