Bangla Academy held a cultural programme at the fair premises in the evening yesterday which presented recitation and songs. Tribal artists took part in the cultural show. Meanwhile different non government organisations are making their presence felt at this year's Ekushey Boi Mela this year. The different organisations are active with their different social campaigns through their different and variety of publications at the month-long affair. Intermediate Technology development Group (ITDG), one of the organisations is campaigning for employment and is distributing various booklets regarding agro-processing, food production, manufacturing and small enterprise development at the fair premises.

The organisation provides technical assistance, based on the principles of the appropriate technology, to small scale producers and NGO or the government organisations staff through training, information, research exploration of market opportunities, policy advocacy and information dissemination. It published some 75 booklets on food processing, fisheries, textiles and health. The publications include Tomato Ketchup Toiri, Screen Print, Block Printing, Golap Jol Toiri, Shemai Toiri, Shelai, Small Enterprise Unit Generating Income for the Poor, Sugar Processing Technology, Food, Livelihood and Fresh Water Ecology The Significance of Small Indigenous Fish Species, Environment Impact Assessment of Small Metal Workshops, Small-scale Handmade Paper Making Technology, and Sanitary Protection Addressing the Problems. Manosh has on display various publications focusing on their anti-tobacco movement. The organisation was awarded by World Health Organisation (WHO) in 1998 for its anti-tobacco campaign.
