British Airways has re-opened its First class lounge for premium passengers at London's Heathrow Terminal 4 ensuring unrivalled comfort and luxury on the ground and in the air, says a press release.

It follows the launch earlier this year of the new First class cabin on long-haul aircraft, created by leading British interior designer, Kelly Hoppen.

A new Concorde Room has also been opened in the airline's Lounge Pavilion at Terminal 4 Heathrow, designed by Sir Terence Conran, in anticipation of a resumption of supersonic services later this spring.

The First lounge, created by FutureBrand, offers an environment that is elegant, calm and welcoming, a home-from-home space that features deep, luxurious furniture. Tan leather recliners and vast sofas in burnt plum are offset by light reflective linen textured wallpaper.

Dark bronze curtains contrast with pale honey carpeting bordered in slate grey and blue. The 'heartland' of the new lounge is an area of calm and space. Low square coffee tables front onto a wall of limestone, illuminating tall arrangements of bamboo and exotic leaves.
