

In praise of the paralysed

Bihongo premiered at Balaka

FAYZA HAQ

BIHONGO written by Elspeth Walde and directed by award winning film director Abdullah Al-Mamun includes stars like Ferdousi Mojumdar, Ishita, Shomy Kaisar, Zahid Hassan, Shaidduzzaman Selim, Shahidul Islam Sachedu, Tropa Majumdar, Ks Firoz, Diba Nargis and Fazlur Rahman Babu. For a long time the well-loved TV actresses had been pressurized to come into films but it was only

"Bihongo" that could finally do this. This is a full length feature film with a purpose. The carefully written script bears an important message that the paralyzed are not to be frowned upon or misunderstood. This contains all the elements of drawing a large audience with its moments of tragedy, excitement, laughter and love. The music too is pleasant enough although it could have been more subtle at times. The film deals with the problem of the attitude of the people around them that is faced by the disabled people. Ignorance and fear unnecessarily overwhelm and demoralize those combating to overcome physical disabilities causes by paralysis and other types of disabilities. Lack of training, absence of unemployment facilities and shortage of access are caused by adverse social attitudes. The helpless are blamed for their own disabilities. The plot consists of the story of Moni (played by Ishita), a simple village girl, who becomes severely paralyzed as a result of an accident although it is not quite clear what this mishap is. Moni's brothers and sisters are kept by her evil uncle who hounds her for money and even steals her paintings which were put up at an exhibition. After an exciting car chase, the uncle almost capsizes in a boat on a river. Moni struggles back into society so that she is not only financially secure but can also look after her family. As to what happens to her parents remains a mystery. As we follow Moni from her happy childhood days to her mature life when she has to support her family, we see the damage done by ignorance, superstition and prejudice and the sheer absurdity of some of these attitudes. One sees how each of us can help in the rehabilitation of the handicapped and also respect these "differently abled"

the CRP premises meets the pretty and lively handicapped worker Neela who is a boon for those around her. He begins his courting with a bunch of roses and ends up in proposing marriage which Neela accepts amidst tears and smiles. Sachchu, as the villain of the piece is wonderful indeed. He looms around the scenes from beginning to end making the sets come alive. While others are all goody-goodyies, almost like angels residing or visiting CRP, he is scheming and intriguing, to make the story come alive. He looks up the visiting social work who comes on behalf of Moni, goes and threatens and intimidates Moni so as to draw money out of her and finally escapes to the river, having stolen Moni's paintings.

The film presents the triumph of human spirit as Moni overcomes her financial handicaps and Neela wins herself not only an admirer but a husband. The two overcome the adversities of human circumstances. Technically too the film promises to be one of the best to have been produced in Bangladesh. Saiful Islam Badal, the cameraman, has been assisted by a world class crew from Bombay who have used the latest equipment.

Shomy and Zahid in a cosy scene

More interesting than anything else, "Bihongo" has been written, directed, performed and produced in a spirit of total conviction. Many of those involved have rendered their services either voluntarily or at a very reduced rate. They have been deeply inspired by the immensely gifted and spirited people of CRP (Centre for the Rehabilitation of the Paralyzed). Also, not to be overlooked, is the fact that Valerie Taylor, who founded the CRP has been the guiding spirit behind this film.

"Bihongo" is dedicated to Madhab Chandra Banik, who died on 30th December 1999. Madhab had been a major part of CRP over the last 20 years, involving himself in all that went on. He became a tetraplegic at the age of 15 after falling from a mango tree. He inspired many people. Both able bodied and disabled, with whom he came into contact. Though he had no sensation or muscle power below his shoulders, he was a well-known painter.
