Jessore hospitals in disarray

Poor patients suffer as many posts of doctors remain vacant

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Jessore

The poor patients in the district are nowadays deprived of required medical weapons when he was returning facilities since many posts of doctors in different hospitals and health complexes including the local general hospital remain vacant for long.

According to reports, 12 posts of doctors are lying vacant in the local general hospital alone while 15 other health sub-centres in the rural areas are virtually facing shutdown due to lack of medical officers.

When contacted, the civil surgeon of Jessore told this correspondent that in the General Hospital, the posts of a junior consultant in pathology, one junior consultant in anaesthesia, four medical officers' in the emergency section and six assistant registrars are left unfilled.

He also said that in Ihikergachha Upazila Health Complex, posts for two medical officers and one junior consultant in anaesthesia were vacant. Same the case with Monirampur Upazila where posts of a junior consultant in anaesthesia, a medical officer, one dental surgeon, one upazila family plan-A man was slaughtered in Baultali ning officer and a residential medical officer (RMO) are lying vacant.

According to another source, the situation in Chowgachha Upazila Health Complex is no better due to lack of doctors. The X-ray machinery supplied for the complex earlier still remains uninstalled for reasons unknown. Besides, a radiologist to operate the X-ray machine and prepare reports has not been appointed.

Dr Abdur Rajjak, who was earlier transferred to the rural Sakpukuria Health Sub-centre, has recently been called back to the local Upazila Health Complex to work on deputation, which has left the sub-centre in disorder.

Besides, the medical officers' posts at Narayanpur and Jogodishpur Health sub-centres are lying vacant. The civil surgeon said that the issue to fill these vacant posts immediately had been taken up with the director general of health services on a number of occasions, but all went in vain.

He expressed his surprise that all their reminders and requests fell on deaf ears of the higher authorities, thus throwing the district health services into further disarray and making services pretty inaccessible for the suffering

Acute water crisis Bumper wheat in Chuadanga hits Barisal

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Barisal

With the advent of the scorching summer, people in the Barisal divisional headquarters have been subjected to an acute crisis of water supply and resultant sufferings.

The Barisal municipality, recently declared a city corporation, has been supplying only about 50 lakh gallons of water against a normal demand for 90 lakh gallons for the town-dwellers, thus failing to serve the majority people with safe water.

The Barisal Pourasava has only 24 pumps to lift water for about 4.5 lakh people here, sources said, adding that seven of the pumps remain almost inoperative for a long time. This compels a good number of people, particularly the poor, to use polluted water from different ponds and pearby canals. resulting in the outbreak of various water-borne diseases like diarrhoca.

To address the severe water supply dearth, 12 more pumps were installed under the 5-district Water Supply Project some years ago, but these failed to help ease the crisis due to the project's shortcomings. Most of the pumps installed under the project are now inoperative due to their faulty installation and use of low-quality materials by the contractors, it is alleged.

Besides, the operative pumps cannot lift water as per their capacity due to lack of degeneration, refilling and overhauling of the pumps from time to time. Besides, almost one third of the 150-kilometre water pipeline in the town have became unusable and over 200 water taps out of a thousand are out of order due to lack of maintenance. According to sources, the municipality authorities here have to pay more money as bills to the Power Development Board (PDB) for its slow water-lifting capacity. On an average, the pumps are now lifting nearly 5,000 gallons of water per hour, because of the fall in water level. Besides, 8,400 subscribers owe the municipality about Tk 85 lakh as outstanding water bills. Local people allege that the Pourasava authorities on different occasions assured the city-dwellers of moves to solve the water crisis, but they failed to implement any project like installation of an water treatment plant in the last ten years. The people want the authorities concerned to take immediate
