Hearing of 3 share scam cases resumes

COURT CORRESPONDENT

Almost a year after the Appellate Division passed its judgement, the three share scam cases involving Beximco Pharmaceuticals, Shineeupur Holdings and Doha Securities finally came up for hearing in the Second Additional Metropolitan Sessions Judge's Court yesterday.

Judge Hossain Shahid Ahmed after hearing both sides fixed May 27 for delivering order on charge framing.

The accused in the cases are Sohail F Rahman, Salman F Rahman, and A B M Siddique Rahman of Shineeupur, Sohail F Rahman, Salman F Rahman and D H Khan of Beximco Pharmaceuticals, and A K M Shamsuddoha of Doha Securities.

The prosecution lawyers led by Barrister M Zahir opened the arguments stating the findings of a probe committee report, which was formed to identify the manipulators in the 1996 share scam.

In his arguments, Zahir said that Shineeupur Holdings had inflated its share prices by giving false disclosures on November 11, 1996 that it would open a new cement company which pushed its share prices from Tk 250 to Tk

Falu who spent 22 yrs in jail without trial breaths his last

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Falu Miah, who had spent about 22 years in Dhaka Central Jail without trial, died at Uttara in the city in the early hours yesterday at the age of 64.

Falu, who spent the prime time of his life in prison, left behind his second wife, childless Monira Begum. She had been looking after him ever since he contacted tuberculosis a few years back. His first wife was pregnant when she left Falu, thinking that he would never come out of jail.

Savar police had implicated Falu in a false case. He was sent to Dhaka Central Jail in 1972. It was later learnt that due to negligence of the police officer concerned, documents of the case were "missing", not to be found in 22 years.

After confinement for 21 years and eight months since 1972, Falu was released in 1993 when he was found innocent as the Bangladesh Society for Enforcement of Human Rights (BSEHR) took up his case.

The BSEHR later filed a suit with the District and Sessions Judge's Court, Dhaka against the government, claiming Tk 10 lakh as compensation for human rights violation.

Falu made deposition twice through an advocate commission as he was sick but the government prayed for time delaying the process. Falu died in extreme hardship.

Indian sarees, cigarette papers worth Tk 2 cr seized

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Customs intelligence teams yesterday seized Indian sarees and cigarette papers worth about Tk two crore in two separate incidents.

Acting on a tip-off, a team of customs intelligence seized a truck on North South Road in the city and recovered 12,630 pieces of Indian sarees from 68 sacks.

The value of the goods would be more than Tk one crore, according to customs officials.

The driver and helper of the truck (bearing number Bogra-Ta-3129) fled away when customs officials tried to intercept it near Fulbaria in the early hours of yesterday.

In a separate drive, another team of customs intelligence seized cigarette papers loaded in five trucks near Kunchpur Bridge in early hours of yesterday.

The officials seized those trucks on the basis of secret information that those goods were being carried to Chittagong on forged documents. The trucks were carrying cigarette papers worth about Tk one crore.

Two separate departmental cases were filed in this regard.

'Bangladeshi migrants' to get work permit in Assam?

PALLAB BHATTACHARYA, New Delhi

As the campaign for assembly elections in five Indian states, including Assam and West Bengal, reaches its crescendo, some issues raised by political parties have generated more heat than others.

Prime Minister Atal Behari Vajpayee's remark at an election meeting in Assam early this week that his government was considering a proposal to issue work permits to Bangladeshi migrants in the north-eastern state has come under fire from the Congress and BJP's ally Shiv Sena, albeit for different reasons.

Congress spokesman S Jaipal Reddy told reporters Monday evening that while his party was ready to consider work permits for Bangladeshi migrants, the prime minister's remark at a meeting just three days before the assembly polls on May 10 was "violative" of the electoral code of conduct.

Vajpayee's remark was an "electoral carrot," Reddy said adding the party would lodge a complaint with the Election Commission in this regard. Vajpayee's remark also came as a surprise to the majority in BJP rank and file, since the party's known stand has been for deportation of "Bangladeshi migrants" from India.

However, BJP spokesman Vijay Kumar Malhotra told reporters that the prime minister's remark was one practical option to detect Bangladeshi "migrants" as throwing them out is difficult. He said granting them work permit would also help disenfranchisement of these "migrants".

Within BJP, however, leaders are not able to explain how work permit system would be implemented. Senior BJP leader from Delhi Madan Lal Khurana himself admitted that he did not understand what the prime minister had meant by work permit and said he would express his views only after consulting the party top brass.

BJP leaders privately admit that deportation has not met with success. A couple of ears back, when BJP-Shiv Sena coalition government was in power in the western state of Maharashtra, police tried to deport some Bangladeshi migrants. But it triggered fierce con-

Upcoming polls crucial for Bangladesh, says US envoy

UNB, Dhaka

US Ambassador Mary Ann Peters yesterday offered a set of measures for the Bangladesh government, Election Commission and political parties to ensure fair and credible parliamentary polls and unimpeachable democratic process.

In her proposals she suggests that no party should impose preconditions on its joining the electoral process, a pre-election pledge be made by each party to take seat in parliament, win or lose, and they should avoid violence and allow voters to vote without intimidation.

Delivering a keynote speech at a roundtable discussion at CIDAP on Parliamentary Election: A Critical Challenge for Bangladesh's Developing Democracy, the US envoy said voting procedure should be clear, voter list accessible and polling officials unbiased to ensure a free and fair election.

She also proposed equal media coverage of campaigners and nomination to more women candidates for general seats.

"This year Bangladesh is facing a particularly crucial parliamentary election. This election will be a true test for Bangladesh's democratic institutions. It will have far-reaching effects that go far beyond this year," she told her audience.

Finance Minister S A M S Kibria chaired the discussion organised by Bangladesh Institute of Law and International Affairs (BILIA). Politicians, diplomats, donors, members of civil society and NGO took part in discussions on the most vital question the nation is now faced with.

Peters said the United States would do all to support the election process in Bangladesh and had pledged $ 1.5 million for this purpose.

Appreciating Bangladeshi people's commitment to democracy and franchise, she observed that after an intense political struggle ten years ago people forced the military to cede power, step down and allow democratic elections.

"Today, your military remains consciously neutral in the nation's political affairs; its role is to protect the country and the country's democracy," said the US envoy.

She said she thought Bangladesh has some real advantages in the upcoming general election when people cherish their right to vote, with excellent record of voter turnout and equal numbers of men and women voters.

The US Ambassador discouraged violence and hatred as part of democratic culture saying that enforcing hatred with intimidation is not democratic, it hurts local economy and Bangladesh's image.

"The eyes of the whole world will be on Bangladesh as you enter this campaign, and the whole

Credit card for rural poor

M SHAMSUR RAHMAN

Credit cards have so far been regarded as the rich urban consumer's tool, but the Grameen Bank is set to break away from the trend by introducing 'smart cards' for its rural microcredit recipients.

Last week, the Grameen Software Limited, a sister concern of Grameen Bank, signed an MOU with a local IT firm, Information Technology Consultants Limited, to introduce smart cards for the most destitute of the society in different parts of the country.

"We will initially introduce point of sale (POS) terminals in different villages where Grameen family members are located. These terminals will enable transactions similar to credit cards used in the cities," said ITCL chief executive officer Kazi Saifuddin.

He said the card would have a computer chip similar to the ones

Second phase of Meghnaghat plant Marubeni proposal goes to Cabinet body next week

SHARIEF KHAN

The Ministry of Energy and Mineral Resources will send the Marubeni proposal for setting up of the second phase 450 megawatt Meghnaghat Power Plant to the Cabinet Purchase Committee next week.

The proposal, which grossly violates the government's power policy, breaches an earlier understanding that the second phase would be set up as per the terms and conditions of the first phase AES plant. The Japanese company's proposal is a drastically modified version of the AES one.

Sources say the proposal virtually deprives the country of free electricity worth more than 30 million dollars and burdens the government with huge liability.

However, the Power Development Board (PDB), which is dealing with the project, feels that Marubeni proposal is "better than Meghnaghat phase 1 AES project".

According to sources, the PDB is pursuing a Build, Operate, Own and Transfer (BOOT) policy to implement the power project, whereas the government wants it done on Build, Own and Operate (BOO) basis.

Since losing out on the first phase Meghnaghat project in 1997 to AES, Marubeni has been strongly lobbying to get the second phase of the project.

In 1998, it proposed to the government that if awarded the contract, it would develop the second phase as per AES terms and conditions, and tariff pricing.

Accordingly, the Cabinet Purchase Committee green-signalled the PDB to go for the second phase Meghnaghat with Marubeni.

Marubeni began unsolicited negotiations for the second phase late October last year. However, instead of providing free electricity during the Initial Operating Period (IOP) of the plant worth 35 million dollars in line with the AES terms and conditions, Marubeni offered free electricity worth five million dollars towards the end of its 22-year contract.

Marubeni later offered a complex package of benefits to PDB just to avoid free electricity during IOP and said it would give 1,395,632.250 kWh free electricity on the 22nd year of operation.

In its bid to convince PDB about the superiority of its proposal, Marubeni said it would take 35 acres of land for the project -

Hearing on Yasmeen murder case begins State attorney for upholding death penalty of 3 cops

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

A Death Reference Bench of High Court yesterday began hearing on the sensational Yasmeen rape and murder case with the state attorney pleading for upholding the capital punishment to three policemen found guilty by the trial court.

Seventeen-year-old Yasmeen was raped and murdered by police in Dinajpur in 1975. She was going to her village home in Dinajpur from Dhaka late at night. Patrol police in Dinajpur town took her in their vehicle by offering a lift, raped and killed her and left the body in a rice field at Doshmille near the town. Yasmeen worked as a domestic help at a house in Dhaka.

The incident sparked off massive protests across the country. Seven people were killed in clashes with police in Dinajpur.

Three policemen -- SI Manirul Haq and constables Amrita Lal Barman and Abdus Sattar -- were sentenced to death in the case.

The then SP of Dinajpur Abdul Mutalib and a doctor who performed her first autopsy were acquitted.

As the hearing began, the Division Bench comprising Justice Abdul Matin and Justice Marziul Haq invited Deputy Attorney General Shamsuddin Choudhury Manik to make an opening statement.

Makin said, "It (the incident) remains the blackest part in the nation's history. It shattered pub-
