DCC's 'obsession' with neon signs

Not necessarily a pointer to happy power scenario... electric hoardings such as these make a mockery of the power crisis the capital is perennially in.

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

While the capital reels under acute power shortage, the Dhaka City Corporation (DCC) keeps allocating hundreds of electric hoardings without authorisation from the Dhaka Electric Supply Authority (DESA).

According to sources, such an illegal practice translates into huge energy and revenue loss for the DESA. Even worse, the DCC does not bother to pay electricity bills and, as of June last year, its overdue bills stand at Tk three crore, an official disclosed.

For all electric poles and new connections, the DESA has central meters. Over the years, the DCC has not only dismantled the meters but also ignored DESA's estimated bills. Now, it is installing new connections without even asking the DESA, let alone paying the bills, an official said.

Stirring the hornet's nest Gunfight at Karwan Bazar feared as DCC plans clean-up drive

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Dhaka City Corporation's planned May 22 drive to evict illegal traders from Karwan Bazar in the city has stirred the underworld in the area as they fear loss of toll from several thousand illegal businesses.

Sources said that at least two notorious armed gangs of the city are now moving in the area, trying to establish control on toll collection. Genuine traders and leaders of their association fear that a bloody gunfight may break out any moment.

Genuine traders say they have become 'targets' of the terrorists because they wrote letters to police, National Security Intelligence, Defense Forces Intelligence, City

Special Branch and the Dhaka City Corporation (DCC) to help them run their businesses in the area peacefully.

Talking to this correspondent, DCC's Chief Estate Officer Fazle Elahi said they are planning to remove 'illegal structures' in Karwan Bazar on May 22, except those which have court injunctions.

Elahi said DCC's demolition and eviction drive will not touch the car parking area, Children's Park, the road known as Abdul Ali Foot beside the vegetable wholesale market and the fish wholesale market, on which there are court injunctions.

According to the traders and their leaders, some corrupt official of DCC's Estate Department helped the illegal occupiers to grab the public places.

In addition to four legal markets with hundreds of shops of different categories, there are several thousand illegal shops in Karwan Bazar area, from which lakhs of taka are realised by notorious gangs everyday. These shops use electricity, water, gas and all other facilities in exchange for toll paid to the gangs. Five major thoroughfares, in addition to other public places, have been totally taken over by the unauthorised traders.

Some genuine tax-paying traders said they have 'proof' that the 'black money' generated in Karwan Bazar goes to high-ups in the government.

The gangs operating in the area comprise notorious criminals like Picchi Hannan, Delu Sardar, Gazi Abbas, Anwar, Kala Jahangir, Saidul, Litu, Sobhan, Nabi Solaiman and Samir.

"The problem started in 1985 when Rajuk handed over the open areas to DCC for maintenance. DCC

Kibria tells UN confce in Brussels

LDCs need more investment, aid to fight poverty

UNB, Brussels

Bangladesh yesterday urged the rich nations to complement efforts of the least developed countries (LDCs) to come out of poverty trap with more aid and investment, market access and debt relief.

"The prosperity of the world is meaningless if the gap cannot be reduced and the misery of the large population be redressed," said Finance Minister Shah AMS Kibria presenting the country statement at the third UN conference on LDCs in the Belgian capital.

About 75 per cent of LDCs' 600 million people have less than $2 per-capita income a day, he told the world meet, urging the developed countries to take note of the phenomenon and take urgent steps to address it.

Dhaka, a spokesman for the LDCs, demanded debt write-off for non-HIPC (heavily indebted poor countries), which are more conservative in external borrowings, to help them save money to invest in social sector.

Stating market access a critical issue, Kibria thanked EU for offering free access to "everything but arms" and sought for other LDCs the similar trade facilities US extended to Caribbean and some African states.

The existing rules of origin remain a major impediment to boosting exports from LDCs he pointed out, urging the developed countries to relax the stringent rules.

The minister reminded the developed countries of their unmet pledge of contributing 0.2 per cent of their GNP as aid to poor countries.

"On the contrary, the share declined. New and ever-increasing conditionalities constrain access to aid," he noted.

Kibria listed Bangladesh's successes in economy and social sectors, which he said have defied all negative predictions about its development potential.

"As a lead performed among the league of LDCs Bangladesh offers some successful examples of economic recovery, social uplift and disaster management," Kibria told the audience.

Bangladesh achieved a steady GDP growth of around 6 per cent

Hazari won't take on Khaleda in coming polls

NAZRUL ISLAM, back from Feni

Despite launching a premature election campaign, ruling party lawmaker Joynal Abedin Hazari has abandoned his plan to contest the upcoming general election from Feni-1 constituency now held by opposition leader Khaleda Zia.

Dengue at the door

Experts fear a severe outbreak, sound alarm

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The current spate of dengue viral infection in the city may assume epidemic proportions if immediate preventive measures are not taken, experts warned.

A WHO report last year had warned Bangladesh against a potentially severe dengue outbreak anytime.

Since the onset of dengue infection in the city in early May this year, four persons have been hospitalised, three in Dhaka Shishu Hospital and one in Dhaka Medical College Hospital, sources at the Directorate of Health said yesterday.

Unofficially, at least 15 people have been hospitalised so far in different private clinics. Three of them are now said to be in critical condition.

Doctors in most government hospitals and private clinics said most of the infected patients are wrongly diagnosed for common jaundice or typhoid. "This is even more dangerous since the strong antibiotics harmfully interact with the dengue virus," said one doctor.

Some experts, requesting anonymity, have warned that the early sporadic rains in the city this year created a perfect breeding environment for the
