Deadlock at JU continues

JU CORRESPONDENT

The Jahangirnagar University (JU) authorities failed to resume academic activities on Thursday due to agitation by the Students Unity for Resistance to Rapists (SURR).

SURR-enforced indefinite strike stretched into 64th day on Thursday.

The JU authorities could not yet reach any solution to bring an end to the two-month deadlock.

Meanwhile, SURR announced yesterday that they would intensify their action programme if the authorities do not take immediate step to meet its seven-point demands.

Earlier, the university authorities postponed all examinations till October 31 due to SURR agitation. Heads of different departments, deans and provosts decided in a meeting with VC, Pro-VC and Registrar that they would resume academic activities on November 1.

But they failed to do so as the authorities did not take any initiative to hold talks with the SURR activists during this period.

As the deadlock continues, only few students turned up to the campus after Durga puja vacation.

When contacted, VC Prof Abdul Bayes did not make any comment on the prevailing situation.

"We will stick to our previous decision", he said.
