Bangladesh Muktijuddho Smriti Jadughar organised video show of 'Concert for Bangladesh' held at its auditorium as a mark of respect to 'Quite Beatle' George Harrison

AZIZ AMIRUL

My friend came to me With sadness in his eyes Told me that he wanted help Before his country dies

Although I couldn't feel the pain knew I had to try Now I'm asking all of you Help us save some lives

Bangla Desh, Bangla Desh Where so many people are dying fast And it sure looks like a mess I've never seen such distress Now won't you lend your hand? Try to understand Relieve the people of Bangla Desh

---Extract from the song Bangladesh

HE song 'Bangladesh' created history when Beatle member George Harrison performed it thirty years back on August 1, 1971 at the Madison Square Garden in

New York City. 'Concert for Bangladesh' gained immense attention of the Americans, not to speak of the world about the harsh plight of the Bengali community and a total amount of approximately nine million dollars was procured from the charity programmes in aid of the helpless refugees who were sheltered in India during the ravaging bloodshed of our War of Independence.

Today the legendary musical prodigy is no more there to captivate us with his magical voice and macho guitar performance, Bangladesh Muktijuddho Smriti Jadughar held a video show of the event 'Concert for Bangladesh' in honour of the late singer at its auditorium on Wednesday in the city.

'Bangladesh' was one of the several famous numbers composed by Harrison for 'Concert for Bangladesh' and at that time he was at the prime of his career. The great Indian sitar maestro Ravi Shankar requested Harrison to help raise funds for Bengali refugees stationed in India and there was no shortage of eagerness in Harrison's mind, too. Superstars like Bob Dylan and Eric Clapton joined in to make the event a grand success

Harrison's fondness for the subcontinental style was not a sudden fixation but reeled in his soul since 1965, particularly on the set of the Beatles' second film 'Help' where the artist discovered a marvelous Indian string instrument, in fact, the Sitar !

It was in the year 1966 that Harrison stepped upon the Indian soil only to learn the basics of the instrument of his dream under the celebrated sitar whiz Ravi Shankar

The close bond of mutual alliance between the musical genius of two different tradition went on smoothly though Ravi often tried to stay away from the Hippie culture of the 60's probably more for misinterpreted attitudes of the Indians against Western rock tradition.

However, Harrison maintained his deed interest in Indian culture to learn the musical nuances of the subcontinent. The outstanding album 'Chants of India' is Harrison's tribute to Indian culture and music.

This was not the end of Harrison's love for India. There were more surprises for his fans and admirers to come. George Harrison, in his bid to explore the mystique entity of a creative being, knocked at the doors of Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

'George was easily the most naive of the Beatles, but he was also the most sincere. The others were out to have some fun but George was serious about India and the Maharishi', said Saeed Naqvi to BBC News Online. The Indian journalist once got the opportunity to share an apartment with Harrison at the Maharishi's retreat on the banks of River Ganges in Rishikesh where they were attending a course on transcendental meditation. 'I remember his spending hours outside the Mahar-ishi's room, playing sitar
