Lara hates to be a liability REUTERS, Port of Spain

Former West Indies captain Brian Lara said he would retire from international cricket if he felt he was letting down the team but he wanted to play on for another five years.

"I do not want to become a liability to the West Indies cricket team and if I feel that is the case any time then I will make my exit," Lara told students in a question-and-answer session at a Trinidad school.

"But I would really like to play until at least the 2007 World Cup which will be played in the Caribbean."

The left-handed batsman, who holds the records for the highest scores in both test and first-class cricket, missed the team's current series against Pakistan in Sharjah after fracturing an elbow.

West Indies lost the first Test by 170 runs and on Sunday they were struggling to avoid defeat on the fourth day of the second Test.
