Akram has missed seven of Pakistan's last 11 Tests and bowled only 16 deliveries in the Dhaka test against Bangladesh last month due to hamstring injury.

Akram said he would like ultimately to claim more than 450 wickets.

"In Dhaka I missed four tests and could have added to my wicket tally, but 450-plus would be a good finish," said Akram, who currently has 414 wickets from 104 Tests.

Kiwis suffer Bond blow

REUTERS, Christchurch

New Zealand's injury woes have continued as Shane Bond was ruled out of at least the first two one-day internationals against England with a stress fracture of his left ankle.

A downbeat chairman of selectors, Sir Richard Hadlee, said the prognosis for a quick return was not good and the young Canterbury speedster could be out for up to six weeks.

If Hadlee's worst fears prove true, Bond would miss the entire test and one-day series against the touring England side.

The New Zealand selectors have called up untried Northern Districts fast bowler Ian Butler to take Bond's place.

The inexperienced Butler, who impressed in two one-day warm-up matches against the tourists at the weekend, is regarded as a genuine prospect while only in his debut season of first class cricket.

Bond, who played well for New Zealand A in India last year, was called into the senior side for the final two tests against Australia in November.

He was the top wicket-taker in the recently completed one-day triangular series involving Australia, South Africa and the Kiwis, claiming 21 wickets.

His loss is a huge blow to New Zealand's chances in the one-day series.

"It is the biggest call I have had to make since I've been a selector," Hadlee said. "The one-day game has changed with the allowance of one bouncer an over and we wanted genuine pace to open the bowling.

"Bond was sensational in Australia and we believe Butler is the next best bowler we have available in New Zealand. He is certainly as fast as Bond."

Hadlee said the selectors had taken advice from Bruce Blair, Butler's provincial coach, who said the 21-year-old was better than his other fast bowlers, who include the recalled Daryl Tuffey.

Bond had been suffering his ankle injury for two weeks, Hadlee said.

The medical staff of New Zealand Cricket examined Bond on his return from Sydney on Sunday after New Zealand had lost the triangular series final to South Africa and the bad news was conveyed to Hadlee on Monday.

"I was sitting down having a cold beer and a plate of fish and chips at Summer when I got the call," Hadlee said. "It's safe to say the beer tasted sour and the fish and chips went cold."

New Zealand lost a lot of bowlers to injury last season and the trend appears top have continued into this one with Dion Nash and Shayne O'Connor both out.

"It's an occupational hazard as a selector," Hadlee said. "But I can tell you that this latest one is devastating to Bond and to the team."

New Zealand meanwhile dropped wicketkeeper Adam Parore from the team for first two matches.

Big-hitting wicketkeeper-batsman Chris Nevin was named in place of the experienced Parore.

Nevin is likely to open the innings with Nathan Astle, who struggled with various opening partners in the recent triangular one-day tournament in Australia.

Other changes from the team that played in Australia are the exclusion of opening batsman Mark Richardson, all-rounder Scott Styris, left-arm medium-fast bowler James Franklin.

Winter Olympics Strobl, Pechstein steal the show

AFP, Salt Lake City

Proof that the Olympics operate under their own laws was supplied Sunday as downhill racer Fritz Strobl won alpine skiing's greatest prize for Austria and Claudia Pechstein rewrote the record books to win gold for Germany.

Neither was supposed to win here and nor was Simon Ammann, a 20-year-old from Switzerland who won a gold medal in ski jumping.

Less of a surprise was Finn Samppa Lajunen's Nordic combined gold medal, the Scandinavian nation's first in the event since 1948.

And teenager Kelly Clark left room for no surprises at all when she gave the United States their first gold of the Games Sunday in the women's halfpipe snowboarding.

Strobl and Pechstein probably have little in common except the joy of throwing what for both of them may be the last roll of the Olympic dice at the Salt Lake City Games -- and winning.

Pechstein, 30 later this month, was expected to play second fiddle to her younger teammate Anni Friesinger, 24, virtually unbeatable in the run-up to the Olympics.

Instead she set a 3,000m world record and added a third gold medal to those she won in the 5,000m races in Nagano in 1998 and Lillehammer four years earlier.

Eng have a point to prove

AFP, Christchurch

England captain Nasser Hussain is determined to prove his side's fightback in the recent series against India was not a one-off and is demanding more of the same from his players.

Hussain's side came back from 3-1 down to draw 3-3 with India and enter the five match one-day international series against New Zealand brimming with confidence.

The two teams meet for the first time in Christchurch on Wednesday, when Hussain will be looking to continue the current reversal of his team's one-day international fortunes.

England have won eight out of their past 11 matches and are slowly putting last year's nightmare run of 11 consecutive defeats behind them.

Hussain's inexperienced team will be taking on a New Zealand side that has lost their last five matches, and have been shorn of their prize fast bowler Shane Bond.

The 26-year-old has been ruled out of the opening match on his home ground at the Jade Stadium with a suspected stress fracture of his left foot and is facing a six-week lay off.

Bond took 21 wickets during the recent tri-nation series with Australia and South Africa, and his loss has come as good news for England.

"It's disappointing for the game but not too disappointing for us that he's injured," Hussain said on Monday.

"We have heard a lot about him and he looks like a great prospect. The first two games are crucial because they have played some very good cricket recently up until the last week or so."

AKM Moasir, a divisional engineer of Bangladesh T & T Board, receives the prize for the best player of the BTB Officers Club's Victory Day badminton tournament from State Minister for Youth and Sports Fazlur Rahman during the prize-giving ceremony on February 4.
