Timber lifters rule reserve forests in coastal belt

Block raids by army suggested

UNB, Noakhali

A section of people logged thousands of trees worth Tk 32 crore in a number of shoals in Noakhali during the last three years, clouding the prospect of developing mangrove forests in the coastal areas.

Officials in Noakhali feel that the authorities need to conduct block raids by the army to recover thousands of sophisticated arms and ammunition from the criminals to save the reserve forests in the coastal belt.

Official sources said Forest Department planted huge saplings in Char Jobbar, Char Alauddin, Char Habibia and Char Bata in 1969 to develop mangrove forests to help project the ecosystem.

They said some 2200 saplings were planted on each acre of land in the shoals while a large number of trees grown naturally. Saplings on over 50,000 acres of land were planted in Char Jobbar alone.

Apart from maintaining the ecological balance, the coastal forest helped over 30,000 families to graze their cows, collect honey and firewood.

Logging of trees in the shoals started in the 1990s. Trees on Char Alauddin and Char Bata were indiscriminately felled in 1997.

Trees worth over several crores of taka felled on about 10,000 acres of land in Boyarchar and other coastal areas.

There is an organised gang of 1000 people who also sell lands of the shoals to landless people at Tk 5000 to Tk 6000 per acre after logging trees.

They said over 60 officers and employees of the Forest Department were injured in attacks by timber lifters when they tried to prevent them from logging trees in the shoals in the last three years.

A forest officer, Abul Kashem, was shot dead in December 2001.

These days, police can hardly arrest any timber lifter as information passed to them through mobile phones before launching any drive. They always monitor the activities of police and forest officials.

Terrorists ransack 10 houses at Rupganj

A CORRESPONDENT, N'ganj

Armed terrorists ransacked 10 houses at village Rupshi in Rupganj thana of Narayanganj Monday morning.

Mymensingh Ananda Mohan (AM) College, one of the two top listed university colleges of the country has been facing various problems including shortage of teachers, library facilities, class rooms and furniture.

Established in 1908 on 15.75 acres of land after the name of the golden son of greater Mymensingh Ananda Mohan Basu, the college was nationalised in 1964. Now the college has been conducting honours and masters courses in 18 subjects including English, Sociology, Social Welfare, Geography, Political Science, Islamic History, Islamic Studies, Botani and Zoology.

But many important departments are being run amid shortage of teachers which frequently hampers the academic activities.

The college is being run with the staffers of 1984 though the number of students have increased several times during the past few years. The sanctioned posts for every department are four. A department which conducts honours and masters courses needs a teaching staff of 12. The total sanctioned posts of the college are 159. Of which, 26 are lying vacant for long.

Now over 15 thousand students are continuing their studies in this college. But due to lack of teachers some departments such as Philosophy, Geography, Sociology, Social Welfare, Islamic Studies and Islamic History are now facing serious problems.

Only one teacher is running the Sociology Department, two teachers are running the Islamic Studies Department and three teachers each are running the Geography and Islamic History Departments. There are four teachers in Social Welfare and Philosophy Departments.

All the departments conduct honours and masters courses with around, 900 students in each department. The studies of students are being hampered greatly because of the problems.

IU VC's obstinacy

IU CORRESPONDENT, Kushtia

The vice-chancellor (VC) of Islamic University (IU) did not place any wreath at Muktabangla (a liberation war memorial on the campus) on the Independence Day.

Teachers and students of the university protested the vice-chancellor's apparent disrespect towards the liberation war martyrs.

Immediately after the guard of honour by the cadets of Bangladesh National Cadet Corps (BNCC) on March 26, the vice-chancellor, Prof Mustafizur Rahman, left the Independence Day procession without placing wreath at the memorial, witnesses said.

However, IU Treasurer Prof

Mosharraf Hossain placed the wreath prepared after the name of the vice-chancellor.

Different teachers' and students' organisations protested the VC's attitude.

In different press releases, the Islamic University Teachers Association (IUTA), Bangabandhu Parishad, and left-leaning Shapla Forum criticised the VC's act.

Bangladesh Chhatra Union and Bangladesh Chhatra League protested the VC's act.

Jatiyatabadi Chhatra Dal (JCD) Organising Secretary Humayun Babor Feroz said, "The VC's act has hurt the national sentiment."

The traditional weaving industry of Jhenidah has been facing extinction due to various reasons. The reasons include lack of patronisation of the government, shortage of fund, lack of marketing facilities and higher production cost. In the meantime, many weavers have left their forefather's profession finding it unprofitable and taking up new profession. A few others who still stick to their age old pursuit are passing very hard time.
