Kuakata popular among tourists despite lack of basic amenities

AROOP TALUKDAR, Barisal

Kuakata, with its 18-kilometre long and two-kilometre wide shining sandy beach and glittering waves of the Bay of Bengal, has become one of the most attractive tourist spots in Bangladesh.

Though increasing number of tourists are crowding Kuakata, yet the seaside resort lacks the basic amenities for the tourists.

Another attraction of Kuakata is the Sundarbans which is very near to it.

The government took up some steps to turn this tourist resort into an attractive one.

Kuakata is situated in the lap of the Bay of Bengal with its scenic beauty and natural landscape. It is rare opportunity from where both the sunrise and sunset can be seen.

Rakhain tribal people and their strange way of living charm the tourists from home and abroad alike. The Kuakata sea beach is only 70 kilometres away from the Patuakhali district headquarters. It needs only three hours to reach the beach area from the district headquarters by road while it takes sometime more by riverine transport like launch or engine propelled trawlers due to zigzag river routes.

For the last few years tourists from different parts of Bangladesh including some foreign countries

Everyday many tourists come to have a look of the 'Buddha idol'.

With a view to retaining the cultural heritage of the Rakhain tribals the government sanctioned and spent Tk 11 lakh. 'Rakhain Cultural Academy cum Rest House has been constructed rear the Kuakata Duck bungalow. In that complex there are some shops run by the Rakhain girls, from where different sorts of handicrafts, toys and many other thing made of osyter and shells can be bought. Besides, tourists can also buy bed sheets, lungi, wrappers of various design made by the Rakhain women with their own weaving sets.

Meanwhile, after the inauguration of the 'Holiday Homes', many people are showing keen interest to open residential hotels, rest houses or cottages with modern amenities for the tourists around the seashore.

The two-story 'Holiday homes' were constructed on 5 acres of land with an expenditure of 1.34 crore taka by the Parjatan Corporation of Bangladesh (BPC). At the first floor of the Holiday homes there is a 50-bed dormitory. At the ground floor there is a restaurant with modern amenities.

In the dormitory, the rent per seat is Tk 150 while some well furnished rooms are being rented at Tk 500 per day. For the accommodation of tourists, there are two Duck Bungalows of the district council, one Duck bungalow of the Revenue are visiting Kuakata seabeach, specially in the winter season and also during the 'rash' festival.

'Rash' festival is a religions festival of the Hindu community when several hundred members of the Hindu community come here to observe the festival.

The long coconut garden along the sandy sea beach has created a natural heavenly landscape. Many tourists use to sit under the shadows of the coconut trees in the summer to get relief from the sun and for rest. The oldest 'Bauddha Bihar' Sree Mangal Bihar at Kuakata is another exciting feature of Kuakata.

Some 70 years ago an image of 'Lord Buddha' with 1.5 tons of weight and seven feet height was set up at Mulapara temple.

Vikku Ukhema set up the image at the temple. But the temple was damaged severely and was almost wrecked during the cyclones in the early sixties. One Bachiu Talukder, as caretaker rebuilt the temple. But unfortunately it was further damaged in the cyclone in 1965.

Afterwards, the image (idol) was replaced from Mulapara to Keranipara at Kuakata in Patuakhali. From then the brass made Buddha idol remained there and is being considered as one of the great attraction for the tourists at Kuakata sea resort.

board, one motel of BPC and a rest house of Local Government Engineering Department (LGED).

Besides, there are some privately owned residential hotels like Hotel Sunrise, Hotel Aman, Hotel Samudra Bilas, Hotel Saikat, Hotel Sharif.

More hotels, cottages, restaurants and rest or guest houses are supposed to be opened during the next winter. Travel from the capital Dhaka to Kuakata has become more easier for the tourists than ever before. A luxury bus of Bangladesh Road Transport Corporation (BRTC) is plying between Dhaka-Kuakata-Dhaka every day and the fair for each passenger is Tk 160.

Besides, there are some more passenger buses which ply between Barisal, Patuakhali and Kuakata. Except There are also launch services between Dhaka, Barisal, Patuakhali and Kuakata at different periods. A double-decker launch departs at 5 pm everyday from Dhaka.

However, during the inaugural ceremony of 'Holiday Homes' at Kuakata, it was assured that a stol air service between Dhaka and Kuakata will start soon, but it is yet to start. Despite various hazards many tourists are frequently visiting Kuakata sea resort.
