Mother, two daughters burnt alive in city fire

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

A mother and her two daughters were burnt alive in the city's Mohammadpur area in the early hours of yesterday.

Noor Jahan Begum, 26, and her daughters -- Reeta, two and a half years, and Reema, six months -- died in the fire that broke out in their shanty at Ring Road at about 1:20am.

Fire fighters retrieved the situation at about 2:45 before it could worsen. They did not find any victim, though. Police recovered the bodies from the burnt-out shanty at about 5:00am and sent them to the Dhaka Medical College Hospital for autopsy.

Locals suspect that some hoodlums might have set fire to the shanty to evict them from the plot. The victims' relatives said the landlord, Monir Hossain, asked them to vacate his house, but they asked for some time before they could shift to another place.

Police said investigation into the incident is on. A case was filed with Mohammadpur Police Station.

Indian team in city to join Liberation War festival

BSS, Dhaka

A delegation from the Indian state of Tripura, led by the state's Education Minister Anil Sarkar, arrived in Dhaka yesterday to take part in the Bangladesh Muktiyoddha Utsab (Liberation War festival).

Ministry of Liberation War Affairs and Bangladesh Muktiyoddha Sangsad accorded a warm reception to the members of the delegation, a PID handout said.

The three-day festival will be inaugurated today.
