Exhibition

A palette of imagination

Twelve young painters' exhibition at the Russian Cultural Centre ends tomorrow

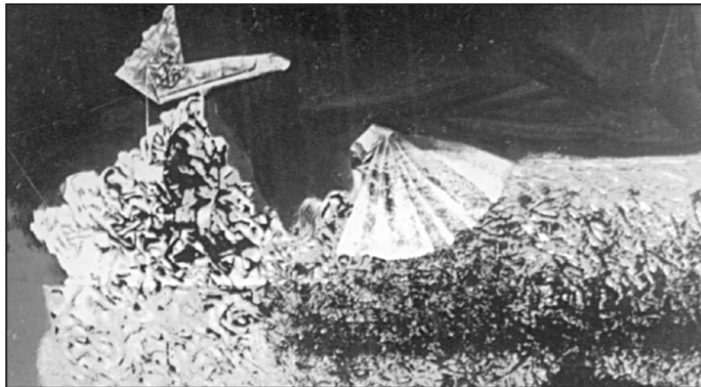

SAIFUL ISLAM

A group art show featuring works by 12 young painters represents a kaleidoscopic view of life. The exhibition, on view at Russian Cultural Centre, also showcases a panorama of varied imagination and distinct aesthetic beliefs.

An artistic representation of contemporary Bangladesh, the exhibition has for its theme from sack bags representing rural Bangladesh to newspaper cuts representing the cosmopolitan Dhaka with all its bizarre daily life.

The Nature of Syed Zahid Iqbal seems like a pallid tree, newspaper cuts (paper collage) teaming on the surface creates the texture of the bark of a tree.

Some of the works in abstract vein veers on numerous subjects and reminds of many things, as if the painters want the viewer to look for a theme.

'Soul' by Safin Omar

The blood feuds around the globe, the dismayed and frustrated youth, the unhappy family, natural disaster changing the patterns of earth, the suppression of free speech, and the violence against women are some of the featured themes of the show.

The works by Sayedur Rahman are poignant expression of the artist's rejection of all the things that has long been disturbed and muddled the humanity. The skeleton and bones scattered around, and the empty bold coloured backgrounds of his canvas might remind one of the poems of the war poets, the post world war poets of the English literature. Only the soldiers suffer, only the innocent suffers who has nothing to do with the war, and the soldiers are never sure, they fight without a cause, they kill without determining the reason of their murder.

In contrast to Sayedur Rahman's morbid, macabre, and gloom canvas, Fahamida Akther Kakoli's works, composed of frolicsome colours, are pleasing and soothing. The Reminiscence seems to be a patchwork of fancy and imagination or a weaving of colourful dreams. As if a child has upside down its palette of colours on the paper, but the maturity of the artist is clearly visible.

Nadim, in his two paintings, sees at a situation from two different points of view: one is from an old man's point of view,

'Flute of Bengal' by Bikash

waiting for someone, leaning over his shabby umbrella, counting moments and looking vaguely at the distance. At the background the squares of different colours are interesting, the painter might have planned the four stages of life, the order gradually moves upwards, the motion is anti clock wise. And gradually it moves towards the zenith, the colour is deep here, the youth paralleling the sunshine, then it is faded orange, at the end of it the ash coloured square signifies the end of life. Firoz's drawings also feature the fragments of life, but from a different perspective and they do not focus on the individual as Nadim's works do. The other work, 'Waiting' by Nadim seems to focus on the life of two reclusive persons finding peace and psychological shelter on the lap of serene and luscious greenery.

Shahabuddin's 'Lire', featuring a journey back to the womb, stands out for its unique theme.

The marvelous young group of painters -- Mohammad Fokhrul Islam, M.d. Anisuzzaman Anis, Mohammad Shahabuddin, Shahjahan Ahmed Bikash, Firoz Mahmud, M.d. Safin Omar, Sayedur Rahman, Syed Zahid Iqbal, Fahamida Akther Kakoli, Kazi Sayeed Ahmed, Sarkar Nahid Niaz (Nipu), Nadim Islam -- has expressed itself in popular and varied mediums including oil, paper collage, oil on sack, mixed media, drawing, acrylic, and wood cut.
