Relating flowers to human mind

Fahmida Khatun juxtaposes flowers and human characteristics side by side in her first solo

AINUL Gallery, at Institut of Fine Arts, University of Dhaka, seems to be clad in flowers dipped in exotic colours. Actually these are flowers painted by Fahmida Khatun. The first solo painting exhibition of Fahmida started on July 9 and will end on July 15. To Fahmida flowers can be a symbol of men and women around us.

A queer thing behind her selection of flowers as symbols is that, human being is as beautiful and as pure as flowers. ' It is true that the world is a place of misery and dishonesty, when the difficult and desperate situagoodness from someone, one had to act badly.'

late her this belief in her works. She changed the colours of some beautiful flowers, and on the original form of the flower splashed another shade to express different feelings and ideas. Some of the flowers painted are given melancholic and gloomy shades.

Krishnachura is given black colour instead of red, and remarkably the background is given a red shade; Shornochanpa is given blue strokes instead of cadmium yellow. In a painting titled Butterfly' a red Krishnochura is given blue shade. These pieces represent the miserable conditions wrung out the last bit of tions that one has to face, the loneliness and the solitude when friends dump someone. Some other pieces by the artist represent a different kind of mind.

'They represent good, festive and happy times of our life; we do not pass bad time over the years', added Fahmida.

Fahmida's selection of flowers side by side her artworks provides a sense of beauty and serenity special to the artist. The flowers selected for the paintings can be seen ornamenting green fields and dense forests. They are available at flower shops, and carefully trimmed gardens.
