NGOs urged to play role without political bias

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Food Minister Abdullah Al Noman said non-government organisations (NGOs) should play more active role in development of the country without having any political bias.

He was speaking as chief guest at a workshop on 'Democracy and Development: Role of NGOs' organised by the Khan Foundation on Wednesday in the city. The Khan Foundation had been holding different programmes for ensuring people's participation in democratic process.

The food minister said economic development is possible only when democracy is practiced in the country.

Speaking as special guest at the workshop, Dr. Abdul Moyeen Khan, Minister for Science, Information and Communications Technology, said democracy can not be institutionalised unless it is established at the grassroots level.

He said the NGOs work more deftly than the government organisations through accountability and transparency.

Presided over by Advocate Rokhsana Khandaker, the workshop was moderated by Dr. Salahuddin Aminuzzaman.

The workshop focused on the role of NGOs in solving various problems faced by the poor people at union level. The powers of union parishes and their limitations also came up for discussion.

One hundred and fifty NGO representatives from 40 districts, journalists and members of the civil society participated in the workshop.
