life like Begum Akhtar's seems stranger than fiction as it is dipped in solitude and tear. The story of her life enchanted the audience of the city as Professor Rita Ganguly presented it with her captivating performance and melodious numbers. Indian Council for Cultural Relations and the High Commission of India, Dhaka, presented a play based on the life and times of the legendary singer Begum Akhtar titled Dastaan Kehate Kehate by Professor Rita Ganguly and her group Kaladharmi on September 13 at National Museum auditorium in the city. Her eyes glinted with mischievous smile of a little girl, and evolved a distinct style of renher voice trembled as she knitted words with the playful innocence of a child, clever and fickle. She was half stammering, the way a frolicsome child speaks. She waved her palms like a butterfly; the way children do in excessive gaiety. The same actress cried when she was giving the account of the death of her beloved guru Begum Akhtar. And the audimusic.

ence joined her in the mourning. The musical drama was concise. The spectators traversed the colourful life of Akhtari Bai Fayzabadi in a short period of two hours and the detail presented throughout the piece seemed to have captured almost all the significant bits of the life of this legendary singer. Endowed with a rich voice, Professor Rita Ganguly has dering ghazal and thumri, and is known as one of the foremost performers of the light classical forms of Hindustani music; her intimacy with music influenced her performance on stage. The pitch, high and low of her tune was intertwined with the everchanging mood of the life-story of the malika of semi-classical

The majestic beauty of Urdu poetry swept the audience off to a dreamy land. It started off a beautiful cycle: the more the audience heard the excerpts of ghazals, the more the predominantly Bengali audience struggled to understand their meaning; the more they understood the bits of ghazals, the more they were drawn to their rendition. So organised were the rendering that each curtain that was drawn from the life of Begum Akhtar illuminated a new part replete with beauty and philosophy.

Akhtari Bai's life and times are well documented by many; G N Joshi's article on Akhtaribai in his book Down Memory Lane; Sheila Dhar's account in her marvellously funny book Here's Someone I'd Like You to Meet; and the very well made documentary, Hai! Akhtari!. Professor Rita Ganguly's musicaldrama Dastaan Kehate Kehate(a play based on the life and times of the legendary singer Begum Akhtar) is not only stepped with newness but also saturated with dramatic actions that arouse tear and mirth. It is a tragedy soaked with strance and massive changes. A life that goes solitary over thorny deceit and stony injustices. What was she not? A theatre performer, a film actress, a loving wife, a dedicated guru, a devoted worshiper, a women of perilous beauty who was raped when passing adolescence, a mother who failed to taste her motherhood. All these complex and subtle emotional crises were performed superbly by Rita Ganguly. She was not only narrating the history of her life but also giving it a feminist interpretation. Throughout her life Begum Akhtar was cheated by men, by her father, and later her husband, Barrister Ishtiaq Ahmad Abbasi.

Professor Rita Ganguly, an eminent theatre director, musician and dancer, was nurtured in a highly educated and cultural family. Trained originally in Dhrupad by Gopeshwar Bandopadhyaya of Vishnupur Gharana at Shantiniketan, she was a serious student of kathakali as well. A recipient of two-time national scholarship for Kathakali and Bharat Natvam and third time for her music, the maestro also got a Ford Foundation fellowship. The king of bhav Shambhu Maharaj trained her in the bhav. Pt. Mani Prasad of Kirana Gharana moulded her voice to traverse the octaves of Khaval Later, she learnt the nuances of the Patiala Gharana and gazal gayaki from Begum Akhtar. She pioneered the course on mime and movement as a Professor at the National School of Drama of Delhi.

Kaladharmi, a registered non-profitable organisation was established in 1973. The group is said to have made a lasting impact on the development and growth of the Indian performing arts through its National Festival.

An evening of rare retrospection

Anisul Islam Hero and his troupe present Bharata Natyam in the city

CULTURE DESK

T was quite a singular evening for the audience who attended the program, 'Chhanda the Rhythm', one of Bharata Natyam, at the Goethe-Institut on September

A total of eight to nine ritualistic segments of the artistic dance acts were performed before the audience. Vandana (Adi O Aunto), Pushpanjali followed by Alarippu, Keetanam, Jatiswaram, Tillana, Utpatti, Envy and Colour through their depiction brought much enlightenment among the audience.

Two main categories of dance, nritta, or abstract dance for the sake of its own beauty, and nritva, an expression of a mood or story through pantomime and a rich language of gesture, have been well-represented in this style. The solo dancer presented dances related to specific musical forms and she needed continuation from items of abstract dance (nritta) through others which have introduced portions of drama (nritya), to the culminating padas and javalis in which full attention has been given to the interpretation of a poetic text through gesture and bodily expression A few of the more interesting segments like Alarippu and Jatiswaram seemed to have found finer appreciation at the performance of Sristi. Pushpanjali, followed by Alarippu, has been since ages a body-language icon of opening the petals of a flower. Gentle movement of the eves, neck and shoulders gave the artiste complete control of her theme with variations in speed of body movements.

> On the other hand, Jatiswaram has been transformed into an item of Nritya or 'Pure Dance' that created lines and patterns in space. enhancing the notes' moods.

form, seemed to be the most challenging item in the Bharatnatyam repertoire. Expression of pure rhythm has become the most vital feature here. Danced in fast tempo, the form has had single line of rhythmic syllables those have been repeated within a specific time

Various characters, meeting at single point, formed a fresh dimension, thus, gave rise to the term Utpatti, meaning, basic germina-

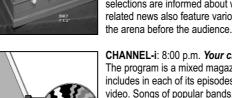

Envy has been a basic instinct in almost every living creature, not to speak of man. Through a dance form, envy showed pangs and cruelty of the human community.

The final segment of the dance was Colour. Here some ten artistes performed contemporary dance with joyful moods, in addition, represented the prime colours of nature, embedded in black, a root of
