Farida Zaman holds her solo exhibit at Chitrak

Fayza Haq

Interview

ARIDA Zaman, who is holding her fourth solo exhibit at Gallery Chitrak has often used her childhood memories for her paintings. As a child she has travelled with her father to the different parts of the villages of Bangladesh as he was posted with the NSI. It is normal that some of her early memories should enter her work. She may not have taken whole scenes from these recollections but parts such as a situation of a foggy morning or the sun rising. Boats have repeatedly come into the timing, emotion and subjects of her paintings. Now too she travels with the Fine Arts Institute or in case of family trips to her home in Chandpur and her inlaws' home in Faridour. She has been to Chittagong and Sylhet too and there is an impact of these visits in her work. Farida savs. 'I like to travel by train most of all as I can see my surroundings on the way and get inspiration for my work. My subjects do not deal with the cities and so the villages are vital in my life. With all the restlessness of the metropolitan life my instincts crave for the peace and tranquillity of village life. I am not keen to bring in the turmoil and frustrations of city life in my paintings." Talking about her studies abroad at Baroda and Shantiniketan, Farida says," I have not consciously been influenced in my own style or technique by my environment or teachers although I've brought in fisher women whom I found at the places where I had studied. My teachers were Prof KG Subramaniam and during my Ph.D. at Santiniketan I had Kanchan Charabarty and Javanta Chakrabarty to help me. There were other artists too with whom I had the opportunity to be with and whose kindness and friendship I enjoyed. There might have been some elements in their works that I liked and there may be some of their influence there. So far I have dealt with aspects of fishermen's Asked to say a few words about her style and subjects, Farida says," I minimize and simplify. I see the stork ready to catch to fish or is sitting with the fish in its beak. There is a covered boat with lots of fish in black, red and violet and this depicts the dream of the fishermen. There are moonlit nights with water lilies and other water beings. The different colours are there to bring in the atmosphere such as the blue boy with the bird who could easily be the child of the fishermen. All throughout it is the atmosphere that I've tried to capture. The existence of my subjects is spun around fishing. In the 'Blue night' you see the fish under the water and some flowers floating above it. In 'Fish and crane' you see the happy go lucky heron catching fish with aplomb. 'What is new is that some of the approach of capturing the timing and segments of the life of the villagers and the nature that surrounds them has been dealt in a fresh way. I have focused on the emotions of people and the mood of nature around them'.

In her present exhibition Farida has brought in new elements like the rickshaw with a bird sitting on it. and women collecting flowers from the same pond that the fish are caught. There is the element of "Friendship" brought in with the introduction with two black cats with red and brown eyes. There are motifs in front and land at the back. Again, there is a girl having a watermelon done in shades of orange, red, pink and blue. We also find a girl with a cat done in black and orange. A couple is shown as sharing a watermelon piece done in shades of orange

The fact that my husband is an "There are scenes where you artist encourages me with my work although if I couldn't paint on my own he could not have persuaded me to do so. I've had to make a lot of sacrifices for my work and keep it up along with my housework and teaching. I do have a helping hand at home frequently but this does not leave me as much time as I would have wanted to dedicate to my painting. However, my husband has never hindered me in my work and we naturally criticize and appreciate each other's works as we sit together when the day is done'

Talking about how she goes about her work, Farida says', I have no problems in working at night with two lights on as I have got used to this. I work in the mornings too after the children have gone to study and I have some time before going to working and in the afternoons for two hours when people in our country usually rest. I devote the rest of my time to the household chores but my children help me in this."

Touching on her book illustrations, Farida says, "I have been illustrating books for children and youth since my student days and continue with it because I enjoy it and not just for the extra money. Sometimes, on special request, I also illustrate books for adults. Again, I like to write. There has been a book published from the Bangla Academy and this is called 'Adhonik Chitokolar Probhab' and this was based on my PhD thesis and elaborated on this. I'd like to write more but don't have the time.' Asked to comment on the women painters of the country, Farida says," I think individuals like Nasreen Begum, Rokeya Sultana and Kanak Chanpa Chakma are doing sincere and admirable work. There is Lipi, Shadhana, Nazlee and Dilara Begum Jolly in this category and of course Naima Haq has been doing good work for quite some time. I do not want to differentiate male artists from female ones but we must keep in mind that our women have to look after the home apart from painting and teaching."

Farida who has had four solo exhibitions in Bangladesh, has participated in about 30 group shows in places like Japan, China, Germany, UAE, South Korea, India Brazil etc. She has won eight awards including the 1st prize for painting at Baroda, India in 1977, the gold medal academy award from Mobile Young Artists' Exhibition in 1979 and the UGC scholarship under Bangladesh, Indian Cultural Exchange Program in
