Introvert and mind-expanding

Hiranmay Chanda's recent exhibition of paintings at Vintiane, Laos

FAYZA HAQ

OING by Hiranmay joint exhibits at Dhaka, one gathered that had a poetic imagination and superb skill with his brush; whatever he had done pleased both the eye and the mind. His intricate work on burnt clay tiles, in his solo, had particularly pleased the viewer because of the play with colour and also due to the fact that work had a strong heritage base. The forms that he had used had been taken from the surrounding countryside; and included subjects such as fish, cocks, dogs and many other fauna -which he had combined with flora where necessary. His works at the group exhibition at La Gallerie, AF, had followed an abstract logo so that his works there tended to blend and mix with those of others and did not make such a unique impact as his earlier work on clay tiles at Alliance Française Hiranmay Chanda's water gouache on tiles, six in all -- which went as a part of a joint venture with 25 of his works, along with those of another participant, Sackda Bophoampahalak's 30 drawings on Buddhist temples -- were undoubtedly superb in rendering. In one of his paintings there was the bending white flecks with more indigo ones at the back with flecks of indigo, paler blue were admirable for their lyrical presentation. Next, there were the three floating rectangular waves, orange, sky-blue and lemon vellow -- bearing simplified forms of Bangladeshi boats, seen almost like fallen leaves. The one of top was carefully merged with olive-green subtle forms, the one in the middle bore a simplified black oar, while the last one in the forefront had dark surrounding shades of russet. To complement this was a cow in a simplified shape in shades of blue and black with an a lemon-yellow hen in front and more animal forms plus sweeps and twirls that suggested fish and waves of tree branches and grass. Flecks of bluegreen on pale jade completed this composition. Yet another one present buffaloes seen in the spoon position, with the heads on either sides and the body side by side river-side. This is done in gentle curls and sweeps of soft green, beige, shades of blue, brown and some dramatic black are all seen in "Boat for lovers" (acrylic) In the forefront is the elongated crescent shape of the boat in the overt portrayal of a highly romantic imagination. This composition is labelled

"Boat for lovers" (acrylic).

Moving on to another creation of man seen against nature is "Living" (acrylic) and her one accosts a woman seated on a small hillock while the head of a pet goat is brown and emerald green. The backdrop and forefront of the surrounding village is brought in gentle impressionistic swirls and sweeps of emerald, indigo, jade, topaz and egret white sweeps that intermingle and juxtapose with one another to bring in the essentials of the Bangladeshi countryside. A concept of a local city -- complete with a mosque in the middle in glue and white, outline with black, a rickshaw in the font with its driver -done in gray, black and washes of rust, two people ambling along in front in twisted images in shades of beige, pale blue and gray with beige faces outlined with black are presented in "City" (acrylic). A rectangle with an amalgamation of gray and beige soft rectangles with the clouds above in curls of white, beige and pink: with more high-rise buildings included in the left and right in the centre of the composition like mush rooming rectangles of high rise buildings; and some more figures to the left in shades of gray and touches of black presented a perfectly balanced creation. It is evening, going by the colour of the sky, and despite the hotch-potch of houses and people along with vehicles, there is a pervading element of peace and coexistence. Hiranmay finds beauty in what we consider as an overcrowded and polluted environment. We move on to "Moon and nature", in acrylic, which brings in the opal moon with min-expanding delineation of the sky with swirls blobs, semi-circles of opalescent greens and blue, with one form merging gently but carefully into splashes. These outline the subject and the other human forms. Once again, we confront man set against nature and living in harmony, as Hiranmay Chanda sees life. Abstract inner though, brought in for further experimentation, are seen in "Introvert Exostence-2" (acrylic). The thoughts, apparently both dark and pleasant ones, going Hiranmay Chanda says about his own work, "The theme of my painting is the relationship between nature, adult modern life and childhood. Nature is mankind's best friend. During the times of both joy and sorrow, we tend to return to the contemplation of nature as our friend. Under the limitless bounty of nature, we absorb feelings that everyone in the world are basically friends. In the competitive modern world, we tend to forget the happiness of our childhood and youth. However, when one is feeling alone and lonely as an adult, such feelings and thoughts can return to one and make one fell better. These feelings and thoughts are universal and are experienced by everyone, whatever be one's nationality"

Hiranmay Chanda, born in 1964 at Jessore, has an MFA from the Fine Arts Institute DU. His international exhibitions include the latest one at Laos in the end of 2002 and another joint venture at Senftenburg, Germany in 1998; a solo display at Moscow (USSR) in 1982; along with the fifth and 6th Asian Art Beinnale, Bangladesh in 1993 and 1991.

His other exhibitions include 13 solo and group shows called "For Peace and Progress by 'Charcoal" in 2002; one at "Gallery-21" in 2002; 14th National Art Exhibition, Bangla desh Shilpakala Academy in 2001; "Decorative Fantasy" a solo at Alliance Francaise in 2000; the joint venture on the occasion of silver jubilee of the Fine Arts Institute, DU, at "Gallery -21"; on Tagore's sons at "Gallery-21" in 2000; 12th, 11th and 9^t Young Artists' Exhibition; Bangladesh Shilpakala Academy and the '94, '89; 12th, 11th and 9th National Art Exhibition, Bangladesh Shilpakala Academy; Exhibition for Berger Young Painters Award (1996) etc.

Hiranmay Chanda's four awards include the one of Political Poster Competition, Moscow and three other from Dhaka
