Katharine Hepburn dead

AFP, New York

Katharine Hepburn, a Hollywood icon who won a record four Oscars, died Sunday at the age of 96 surrounded by her family and friends, her entourage said.

In fading health for several years, Hepburn died at her home in Old Saybrook, Connecticut on Sunday afternoon.

Tributes immediately poured in and Broadway announced that the lights would be dimmed on the US theatre capital on Tuesday night.

Hepburn's career spanned six decades during which she became one of the most-acclaimed actresses of all time. She was outspoken and her longstanding affair with Spencer Tracy brought drama and controversy to her life.

They made nine films together and remained a couple until Tracy's death in 1967.

But no woman has matched the four Academy Awards she won and the American Film Institute counted her among the greatest film icons.
