Vow to fight anti-liberation forces

STAFF CORRESPONDENT
The leaders of different political parties and members of civil society at a discussion meeting yesterday vowed to work together against the anti-liberation forces. They also called for unity of the pro-liberation political parties and the initiative of the civil society to improve the political situation prevailing in the country. Ekattorer Ghatok Dalal Nirmul Committee arranged the discussion on 'The role of political parties and civil society in present perspective in the country' in remembrance of the five young men who sacrificed their lives in 1994 during a protest against Jamaat leader Golam Azam in Chittagong. Representatives from Awami League, Communist Party, Jatiya

Samajtantirk Dal (JSD) and members of civil society addressed the discussion. Professor Borhan Uddin Khan Zahangir chaired the discussion. The speakers blamed the pro-liberation political parties including Awami League for not taking any action against the collaborators immediately after the independence. But now the collaborators are part of the government and taking their revenge on the supporters of the Liberation War, they said. The speakers said they had talked against them a lot and it is the time to take to the street. Prof Borhanuddin Khan Zahangir said unity is the only way to get rid of the evil power of fundamentalists. He said division among pro-liberation forces is the main reason behind their gain. Justice K M Sobhan said if we have even a bit of humanity we should go for movement against the anti-liberation forces. Awami League presidium member Abdur Razzak said we all did some mistakes and now suffering for that. We are just talking but not working together. We all have to take to the street against the 'Rajakars', he added. Ajay Roy of Manabidhakar and Samajik Andolon, CPB general secretary Mujahidul Islam Selim, JSD president Hasanul Haque Inu, and Syed Shamsul Haque also addressed the meeting. Shariyar Kabir, the president of the Ekattorer Ghatok Dalal Nirmul Committee, conducted the meeting.
