SUPERKIDS

While your kids are aged between two to four years, they have no choice but to wear what you make them wear. After they blow out their fourth candle, you can kiss your status of fashion guru goodbye. The kids take the rein. Suddenly their word is law: Barbie and Spiderman are the catch phrases and what these characters wear literally becomes a mandatory uniform for the kids...much to the chagrin of the parents, who have to struggle to keep up with the trends. By the time they are seven, eight or twelve it is a different story altogether. In tune with the rising demand for children's clothes and accessories, a lot of boutiques and stores catering to the little style-philas have mushroomed all over the city. So sit back and enjoy the ride, while we take you on a tour of all the kids wear hot spots in this festival season.
