'Ensure good governance to ease political situation'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Former minister Lt. General (retd.) Noor Uddin Khan has called for ensuring good governance to ease the prevailing political situation.

Giving priority to good governance will lead to proper political direction, paving the way for political practice in peaceful co-existence, he said, adding that it requires true and sincere patriotism to make any such effort successful.

In a statement on March 25, the retired general also called for unity which is the foremost prerequisite for development.

He called on all to rise above individual interests and work for the betterment of the nation.
