50 pc students from schools, 20 pc from madrassahs fail in evaluation test in class six

AKTER FARUK, Barisal

About fifty per cent students who crossed the primary level failed in the newly introduced evaluation test in class six.

The percentage is 20 among students who came from madrassahs, sources at the district education office said.

The present government introduced the test at the beginning of secondary (SSC) level to evaluate the standard of education at primary level.

The test, based on the syllabus for Class V, was held on February 16.

A total of 28,089 students of class six at different high schools in the district, who crossed primary schools and madrassahs, took part in the test.

Among them, 15,756 passed and only 5 per cent got 60 per cent and above marks. Some examinees got zero.

Over 31 per cent got up to 19 marks, 21.11 per cent got 20-29, 27 per cent got 30-40 and 13.78 per cent got 45-59 marks.

The result has been sent to the Directorate of Primary Education.

Of the students, 5,542 were from 82 schools and madrassahs in the Sadar upazila.

Many of the students who failed were from some reputed government and non-government schools in Barisal city.

They include six from Government Zila School, 71 from Government Sadar Girls School, 30 from Udayan Missionary School, 35 from BM School, 19 from Jagadis Swarashati Girls School. These high schools have primary sections also.

When contacted, Barisal District Primary Education Officer A B M Iqbal Bashri, however claimed that the bad result in the evaluation test was due to the fact that children were not in touch with books for about three months after their annual examination in class five, held in November.

The standards of questions were also higher those in their respective schools and madrassahs, he said.

He claimed that the question for students coming from primary schools was tougher than that for students coming from madrassahs.

But Barisal District Education Officer Mokammel Huq differed with him. Huq said the questions were easy and any examinee could easily get at least 33 to 40 marks.

The questions for both school and madrassah students were set by the same persons.

"How a student gets zero after spending five years at school?" he posed the question.

Challenging the disability

116 cured, rehabilitated last year by a local NGO

JAHANGIR ALAM, Netrakona

Physical disability is not a problem. The main problem is ignorance and superstitions about disability and creating confidence among the victims.

Once this is done, they overcome disability and can start a new life.

This has been proved by Sabolomby Unnayan Samity (SUS-school for self-reliance), a local NGO, which treats and rehabilitates disabled people.

Specialist doctors treat the disabled through physiotherapy at the SUS health centre at Netrakona town. Once cured, SUS trains them in various vocations and gives them loans for self-reliance.

Last year 116 physically disabled people were cured at the centre and 23 of them were given Tk 6000 loan each.

Two legs of seven-year-old Suma Akhtar became paralysed for unknown reasons. She can walk and play, her parents said.

The SUS launched its noble initiative in 1998 with 53 disabled people. Now, 643 people come to it regularly from different areas of the district for treatment of physical disability and training.

Of them, physical fitness is developing in 174, SUS officials told this correspondent during a recent visit.

They come to the health centre two days a week for physiotherapy as per advice of specialist doctors and nurses.

SUS has given tools including wheel chair to 38 disabled people free of cost.

Ninety-six disabled children are getting education along with therapy at the centre.

Its aim is to create confidence among the disabled, remove superstitions and wrong ideas about disability, create awareness about their rights in the society and to make them self-reliant by providing training on different vocations and loans.

SUS now runs its activities in 131 villages in five upazilas-- Netrakona Sadar, Atpara, Madan, Kendua and Purbadhala.

To create awareness, SUS men arrange community meetings, discussions on disability at educational institutions, meeting of guardians of the disabled persons and group theatre.

For better treatment, SUS has so far referred 53 patients to the CRP in Dhaka, Mymensingh Community Centre for Handicapped and Dhaka Medical College Hospital.

It trains the disabled in poultry, sewing, handicrafts making and rehabilitates them by providing loans. SUS Executive Director Begum Rokeya said their efforts have created confidence among the disabled who visit the centre.

Confidence building and removing superstitions is the prime task, she said.

"A new life starts once a disabled person believes that the disability can be cured".

She said they are planning to expand its activity.

Criminals say goodbye to crimes

Unique role played by Nilphamari SP, local UP Chairman, Gameen Bank

EAM ASADUZZAMAN, Nilphamari

Kisamat Dogachhi, known as a village of thieves, thugs and criminals for over 100 years, will now have a different identity.

Eighty-five thieves of the village along with their 10 sardars (leaders), who were criminals for generations, have vowed to lead honest life.

The credit goes to Nilphamari Police Superintendent Chowdhury Abdullah al-Mamun, Gameen Bank AGM for Nilphamari Zone Jahangir Hossain, Area Manager Altaf Hossain and Tupamari Union Parishad Chairman Babul Chowdhury.

The 85 made the public pledge at a solemn function on Kisamat Dogachhi mosque premises on Monday, where Gameen Bank gave loans to wives of all of them for income generating activities.

Besides the SP and Gameen Bank officials, Nilphamari thana OC Ziaul Kabir, local UP Chairman Babul Chowdhury, Headmaster of Nilpamari Girls High School and local elite were present at the function attended by a large crowd.

Babul Hossain told the function that more thieves would surrender soon.

The village is only six kilometres from the district town.

"We ruined our lives but we want to see our children as good citizens", Tojam told this correspondent at the function.

Many of Tojam's former gangmates including Azira, Ripon, Sumon and Tasir expressed the same sentiment. Their fathers and grandfathers were also known criminals in the area.

Some of them said good sense started haunting their minds when their children started going to school under government grants.

"On return from school, my son wept and said he was called son of a thief by classmates", lamented Tojam while talking to this correspondent.

"Others hate our children at school and do not mix with them, Samad said.

It was learnt from the villagers that some of the children guard their fathers at night to prevent them from going out for stealing.

UP Chairman Babul Chowdhury played a key role when some of the thieves told him that they want to lead a normal life.

Babul consulted with the SP.

"After joining I came to know about the village of thieves" the SP said talking to this correspondent.

"I instructed my force to keep an watchful eye on the village. I also thought about alternative professions if they give up crimes".

The SP talked to officials of a number of local NGOs for loans if they return to normal life. But none agreed to operate in the village of criminals.

Only Gameen Bank came forward, the SP said.

The SP in his speech at the function said that every body has equal rights in the society if that person abides by law.

"I want to consider the matter from humanitarian ground", the SP added. "Their children have the right to be educated and grow up as good citizens", he said.

Gameen Bank AGM Jahangir

Hossen said his bank accepted the SP's proposal to help criminals bring back to normal life.

If they repay loans properly, they will be given bigger loans and their children will get scholarship and education loan, he said.

UP Chairman Babul Chowdhury said he would personally supervise that the loans are properly utilised.

"I want to erase the ill reputation of my village".

At the function, Tk two lakh 81 thousand was distributed among wives of the 85 former criminals.

The women promised that they would buy rickshaws, rickshaw vans, start groceries, cloth business and rear cows and goats.

While taking the loan money, Joy Mala, wife of Shamaj, expressed the fear that her husband could be victim of false cases in future.

In reply, the SP said in such a case, he would order proper investigation to find out the truth.

Farmers protest lease of railway lands to absentee landlord

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Kishorgonj

Several thousand people of Pasda, Patuakandi and Hajirgol villages in Majikapon union under Kishorgonj Sadar upazila have been holding gatherings and processions in the area for the last three days for cancellation of lease of about 40 acres of railway land under their possession to an absentee landlord.

Locals claimed that the villagers have been cultivating the lands for about 90 years. The Railway Department recently leased the lands to one Jamilur Rahman who lives in Dhaka.

They said bloody clashes may erupt any time as the lessee is trying to evict the farmers with the help of police and hired hoods. He has brought in goons from Dhaka, they claimed.

Jamilur Rahman come to the area with police on March 31 to take possession of the lands but they were forced to retreat as the villagers faced them with lethal weapons. Since then, hundreds of farmers are guarding the lands by turns.

During a visit to the area yesterday, locals said they will sacrifice file, not the lands because these are means for their livelihood.

Freedom fighter Sirajul Islam Master said that the then railway authorities acquired the lands from villagers in 1920. In 1966, the then governor of East Pakistan gave the local people permission to cultivate the lands. Since then, they are cultivating the lands, he said.

Baharuddin, a local leader of Communist Party of Bangladesh (CPB), said the railway authorities had acquired the lands for its use. If they decide to lease the lands, farmers who cultivate those should get those.
