'Conservation of biodiversity a must for food security'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Environment-friendly cultivation practices and conservation of ecological balance are a must for achieving food security for all, speakers at a discussion said yesterday.

The number of hungry people in the world is 84 crore and 300 crore people, out of 500 crore in the developing world, are deprived of fundamental rights to food, water, shelter and health care, said Agriculture Minister MK Anwar.

The agriculture ministry organised the discussion in the city on the occasion of World Food Day-2004. The slogan of the day is 'Biodiversity in Food Security'.

To attain food security, there must be a consistency between the demand and supply in keeping with the people's purchasing capacity, the ministers said.

He underscored the diversified cultivation of crops to ensure food security.

Prof AKM Nazrul Islam of Dhaka University presented the keynote paper.

Conservation of biodiversity is a prerequisite for food security, said

Syed Ataur Rahman, additional secretary of the agriculture ministry.

Prof Lutfur Rahman of Bangladesh Agricultural University identified population explosion, unplanned development, silt deposition in rivers, unusual floods and absence of protective measures as some of the factors contributing to the loss of biodiversity.

"A total of 162 plant species and 200 forest species are used for food and other purposes," he said.

The government must take into account nutrition quality, water supply, market opportunity, land reform and investment to harvest handling and IT system to ensure sustainable food security by 2020, he added.

Producing food items of livestock origin is an important means of ensuring food security, said Prof Fazlul Haque Bhuiyan. "The government must protect all the indigenous sources of food generation."

"Instead of imported genetically modified (GM) technology and hybrid crop species, we have to make use of local and environment-friendly species through our own research work," said State Minister for Agriculture Mirza Fakrul Islam Alamgir.

"By resorting to indiscriminate and excessive extraction of natural resources, we are virtually destroying the biodiversity and ecological balance," said Fisheries and Livestock Minister Abdullah Al Noman.

"Unplanned and indiscriminate cultivation of some exotic species has led to the extinction of a number of indigenous crops," he said.

Deputy Minister for Food and Disaster Management Asadul Habib Dulu, Agriculture Secretary ASM Abdul Halim, and Representative of the Food and Agricultural Organisation (FAO) Bui Thi Lan also spoke.

'Ban use of toxicants in food'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Speakers at a rally yesterday urged the government to take immediate steps to ban the use of toxic substances in food items.

They said a section of unscrupulous businessmen mix the poisonous ingredients in foods for extra profit.

The rally was organised by Bishmukta Khabar Andolon (BKA), a movement for poison-free food, with the cooperation of Janauddog at Shahbagh in the city.

Representatives from Green Force, Muktijoddha Sangsad, and Grambangla Unnayan Committee also attended the rally.

BKA Convenor Abu Naser Khan said various chemicals and toxicants are being used for ripening the fruits artificially.

As a result, common people are suffering from various diseases like cancer, liver cirrhosis, high blood pressure and heart diseases, he

Court hours during Ramadan

BSS, Dhaka

Chief Justice J R Mudassir Hossain yesterday rescheduled the office timing for the High Court Division and the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court during the holy month of Ramadan.

According to the new schedule, the appellate Division will remain open from 8:00 to 2:00 pm from Saturdays to Wednesdays and from 9:00 am to 1:00 pm on Thursdays, an official release said.

Timing for the courts of the High Court Division: from 10:00 am to 3:15 pm (with 15 minutes' break from 1:15 pm to 2:00 pm) from Saturdays to Wednesdays.

Besides, offices of the High Court Division will remain open from 9:45 am to 3:30 pm (with a break from 1:15 pm to 1:30 pm) from Saturdays to Wednesdays and from 9:45 am to 2:00 pm without break on Thursdays.

Qulkhwani

BSS, Dhaka

Qulkhwani of Hazera Khan, wife of late Amir Ali Khan will be held at 4 pm today at Apartment No-6/A, of 98/7, Bara Maghbazar in the city.

Relatives and admirers have been requested to attend the qulkhwani.

Hazera Khan died on Thursday.

Abu Naser said excessive use of pesticides and chemical fertilisers in growing foods and vegetables also poses serious threat to public health.

"Consequently we, as a nation, are going down in terms of our intellects and physical health," he asserted.

Executive Director of Grambangla Unnayan Committee AKM Maksud protested the introduction of genetically modified (GM) food in the country.

He said Europe has not accepted the GM food as its impact on health is yet to be ascertained.

Maksud warned that if the government remains unaware, the multinational companies will slowly patent our indigenous crops, and in that case we shall have to buy seeds from them at higher price.

Bishwasahitya Kendra Coordinator Golam Kibria expressed his concern at the failure of Bangladesh Standard Testing Institute (BSTI) and other government bodies concerned to ensure the food security of the people.

"We shall launch a greater movement if the government does not take immediate action against the unscrupulous businessmen and protect the people's rights," he added.

An evil circle, comprising politicians, bureaucrats and businessmen, is running the country for their greed and selfishness, said engineer Shahidullah of Oil, Gas and Port Protection Movement.

BKA Secretary Khandaker Reaz Hossain, Shajhan Mridha Benu, Sharifuzzaman, and Abdul Mannan also spoke at the rally.

Earlier, a human chain was formed protesting the mixture of poisonous chemicals in food items.

Price spiral of essentials protested

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Main opposition parties and social organisations yesterday protested the price hike of essentials in the holy month of Ramadan.

They also condemned the government for its failure to contain the price spiral.

The parties included Awami League (AL), left 11-party alliance, and Jatiya Samajtantrik Dal (JSD).

Expressing grave concern at the skyrocketing of essentials the opposition parties decided to stage demonstrations in Dhaka and elsewhere the country in protest at the government's indifference to the acute problem.

The party leaders urged the people to join the demonstrations against the current steep rise of prices.

They said the government is also indifferent to the problems of thousands of people in northern districts who are passing their days in Monga (famine like situation).

The AL will stage demonstrations in Dhaka and other parts of the country to protest the price hike of essentials on October 20.

In a statement yesterday, Obaidul Quader, acting general secretary of the AL said "Public life has become a misery. The government has no control over the market."

He said the wrong economic policy of the government, unabated corruption and extortion by the alliance men and business syndicates are mainly responsible for price spiral.

A meeting of the left 11-party alliance yesterday decided to bring out a procession from the city's Muktangon to Bahadurshah Park to protest the price spiral on October 19.

Speakers at the meeting said the alliance government has totally failed to run the country.

They also criticised the government decision to seize unlicensed rickshaws when the rickshawpullers are stifled by present price hike of essentials.

Presided over by Rashed Khan Menon, the meeting was also addressed by Shahidullah Chowdhury, Saifuddin Ahmed Manik, Haji Abdus Samad and Dilip Barua.

The JSD will also stage demonstrations in the city on October 20.

Awami Jubo League, youth front of the AL, will hold a rally in protest at the price hike at 10:00am today in front of its office at Bangabandhu Avenue.

Progressive Student Alliance, a platform of left-leaning student organisations and some social organisations including Projonmer Chetona and Toxin-free Food Movement have also protested the sharp increase of price of essentials.

One gets life for keeping illegal arms

CU CORRESPONDENT

A court in Chittagong yesterday sentenced one person to life term for possessing illegal arms and ammunition.

Judge Abdur Rahman Patwary of Chittagong District and Sessions Judge's Court sentenced Emdad alias Emdaidhya to life term imprisonment.

The prosecution story in brief is that police after gunfight with robbers arrested Emdaidhya on October 1, 2003 from East Kadarhill under Boalkhali police station in the district.

Later, police recovered huge arms and ammunition following his confessional statement. Emdaidhya is wanted in 10 cases, sources said.
