

RABBANI MURDER

Accused sent to jail

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Ctg

The Divisional Speedy Trial Tribunal (STT), Chittagong yesterday rejected the bail prayer of another accused in the sensational Commodore Ghulam Rabbani Murder Case and sent him to jail.

Former chief security officer of Korean Export Processing Zone (KEPZ) Humayun Kabir Chowdhury surrendered before tribunal Judge M Hasan Imam yesterday, the first day of the prosecution witnesses' testifying before court, and sought bail but the judge turned it down.

The tribunal has so far sent six of the eight accused to jail. Two other accused, Saiful Islam alias 'Blai' Saiful and Noor Hossain, are absconding.

Earlier on October 11, principal accused in the case former KEPZ general manager Abu Naser Chowdhury surrendered before the tribunal only to be thrown into jail.

The plaintiff of the case, AKM Imtiazul Islam, testified before the tribunal yesterday, which fixed November 23 as the next date for deposition of the witnesses.

Armed assailants shot KEPZ Managing Director Commodore Ghulam Rabbani, also former chairman of Chittagong Port Authority and director general of Directorate of Shipping, at Bohadharhat Intersection in the port city on April 11.

He died from his wounds in Bangkok two weeks into the fatal attack.

Speakers tell seminar

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Speakers at a seminar yesterday said migrants play a significant role in global development.

They said if appropriate steps are taken, migration can be beneficial to all -- the sending countries, the receiving countries and the migrants themselves.

The seminar was organised by Refugee and Migratory Movements Research Unit of Dhaka University and the British Council in the city.

The speakers said massive development in information and communication technology has made it possible for permanent migrants to contribute to the development of their country of permanent settlement and their country of origin.

The Bangladeshi diaspora in the UK and the USA played an important role during the liberation war through international campaign and fund raising, said Prof Tasneem Siddiqui of Dhaka University.

Remittances of the migrants constitute an important source of foreign exchange earning. Seventy percent of total foreign investment in China came from the migrants, she added.

The Indian government has formally recognised the role of its diaspora in the country's economic development and in influencing public policies of host countries in favour of India during the crisis situation like nuclear explosion and Kargil war, Prof Tasneem added.

In a keynote paper, Prof Stephen Castles, director of Refugee Service Centre of Oxford University, said remittance of foreign currency, acquisitions of skill, and transfer of knowledge are the positive factors in development. These can be achieved through diaspora, he added.

Regional Representative of South Asia International Organisation for Migration Shahidul Haque and Prof M Jafar Iqbal of Shahjalal University of Science and Technology also spoke.
