

Rising rice price fuels spiralling inflation

Poor feel the pinch most; sales dip, industry fears backlash

Food price inflation trend

REJAUL KARIM BYRON

Food prices keep climbing steadily and alarmingly, triggering off a continued rise in general inflation and hitting especially the country's poor hard.

The Bangladesh Bureau of Statistics (BBS) in October recorded a recent new high of 10.46 percent point-to-point food price inflation that has significantly pushed down the sales of other consumer items. The city shopkeepers say their daily sales have dipped by at least one third.

Alarmed by poor sales of their products in the last few months, industrialists say if the trend continues the industrial sector will suffer a major setback.

Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI) President Kutubuddin Ahmed says, "If the inflation continues at this level, the cost of production will go up."

BBS sources and economists explain the inflation mainly by the increase in rice price following a poor Aman harvest due to this year's twin flooding. The hike in global rice prices leading to import shortfalls is also a major factor behind it.

The country's target for rice, and wheat imports this year was set at 30.54 lakh metric tons. In July to October, the country imported 10.01 lakh mts, more than 4 lakh mts short from what was imported in the corresponding period last year, 14.28 lakh mts.

The BBS in September recorded a 9.48 percent food price inflation compared to the price level in September last year. Back in June 2001-02 this

Rice goes too pricey in 2 months

Prices of different kinds of rice in the wholesale market have risen by Tk 60 to Tk 100 a maund (37 KGs) over the past two months, said both the wholesalers and retailers at different markets in the city.

At the retail market, prices of rice increased by Tk 1 to Tk 4 a kilogram.

The sale of most of the consumer items including cosmetics, on the other hand, has fallen significantly over the same period, said the grocery retailers at the Krishi, Karwan Bazar and Hatirpool markets.

"Our daily sale now is miserable after it has dropped by half of what it was before Eid," said a retailer at the city's Karwan Bazar. "I used to have a sales volume worth around Tk 7,000 a day, whereas now it comes between Tk 3,000 and Tk 4,000."

DISTORTION OF DRAFT JUDICIAL RULES

SC orders 9 officials in writing for names

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Supreme Court yesterday in writing ordered nine government officials facing contempt charges to name by January 17 the persons who instructed insertion of opinions in the draft rules on separation of the judiciary.

The order follows reluctance of the officials to comply with verbal orders for divulging the names during three consecutive hearings.

The court also ordered the nine officials to divulge through an affidavit the name of the person who ordered the November 1 inter-ministerial meeting at the establishment ministry, where the draft rules for execution of the court directives for separation of the judiciary were distorted.

The full court of the Appellate Division headed by Chief Justice Syed JR Mudassar Husain adjourned the hearing until January 17.

The court passed the order after TH Khan, the counsel for the respondents, told it during yesterday's hearing that he had received no orders in black and white for submission of names of the persons.

The nine bureaucrats were charged with contempt for distorting the court directives after the attorney general sought time for 20th time since December 1999 for implementation of the Supreme Court judgement on separation of judiciary.

Barrister Amir-Ul Islam, counsel for Masdar Hossain and others who filed a writ petition for separation of the judiciary from the executive way back in 1995, meanwhile, filed a petition yesterday for a court review of three sets of proposed draft rules on the judicial independence.

The law ministry prepared a set of draft rules, the establishment ministry made another through insertion of its comments, while the court earlier modified and endorsed the other set.

The petition also suggested the court refer all the draft rules to an independent and neutral body such as the Law Commission for necessary recommendations and proposals
