

An unbearable traffic gridlock is a common phenomenon at some two-kilometre stretch from Dewanhat to Berek Building intersection at the Agrabad Commercial Area. Making the road off-limits to rickshaws and developing by-pass roads for long distant vehicles may help ease the traffic jam there.

Commercial city without terminal for vehicles

Drivers use 100 points on busy thoroughfares as parking lots, causing traffic gridlock

SHAHIDUL ISLAM

Amazing though it may sound, yet true it is, the port city has no terminal whatsoever for buses, trucks and other vehicles. And in absence of this, the drivers or owners of all modes of transport take extra freedom to park their vehicles on busy thoroughfares and streets creating gridlock that pushes the city dwellers into untold sufferings.

The drivers use no less than 100 points throughout the city as their haphazard parking space. These illegal and unplanned stands of bus, truck, human hauler, taxicab, minibus, private car, microbus, auto-rickshaw and tempo create a hazardous and chaotic situation on the city streets and also hinder smooth vehicle movement.

Bangladesh Garments Manufacturers and Exporters Association (BGMEA) First Vice President MA Salam raised the issue as one of the major obstacles for investment in the commercial capital at the concluding session of Chittagong Apparel, Fabric and Accessories Exposition (Cafaxpo) on Saturday.

"The road communications system in Chittagong is in so disorderly state that gives such an impression as if the entire city is either a bus stand or parking lot for trucks," Salam told the function. He also urged the authorities concerned to act in this regard.

Unwanted traffic congestion apart, the vehicles at these stands emit thick smoke and create noise pollution resulting in health hazards and various diseases.

A project taken some 20 years ago to establish a planned terminal for tank lorry, truck and inter-district bus has also been shelved. A project taken by Chittagong Development Authority (CDA) about 10 years ago for construction of new roads and expansion of older ones to lessen the gridlock also faces the same fate.

The CDA, however, bulldozed some wayside illegal structures and markets at Anderkilla and Sholoshahar recently to widen the roads for better traffic.

"The CDA deserves thanks for this and we hope that they will continue such commendable moves to give us at least some solace," Shawkat Hossain, a businessman of Chittagong Shopping Complex at Sholoshahar said.

However, illegal and makeshift parking lots are being erected at key points such as Bahaddarhat, Cinema Palace, KC Day Road, Dhaka Trunk Road, Oxygen Intersection, Mansurabad (near WAPDA colony), Kadamtali, Chittagong Port area, Laidighirpar, New Market, Station Road, Garibullah Shah Shrine, Dampara, Muradpur, GEC Intersection, Kathgar, Patenga, Pahartali, Dewanhat, Olonkar Crossing, Madarbari Strand Road, Barik Building, Chittagong Export Processing Zone (CEPZ), Port Connecting Road, Majheerghat, Kalurghat, Dhanialapara, Bayezid Bostami, Boxirhat, Asadganj and Khatunganj area.

Hundreds of trucks loaded with goods enter the city daily from other parts of the country but hardly find a space close to their destination and the drivers don't hesitate to make a halt on the busy streets. And, they often cause serious traffic jam on way to and from CEPZ, Shah Amanat International Airport, Chittagong Port, Customs, Bangladesh Shipping Corporation, Naval Base and Patenga Seabeach.

Runa Chowdhury enthralled the audience with Kathak at a classical dance evening organised by Alliance Francaise at its auditorium on Sunday.

CMCH Paediatrics Surgery Deptt stands high

It provides treatment to 4500 patients annually

ABDULLAH AL MAHMUD

With thousands of successful operations and treatment of patients, the Paediatrics Surgery Department at Chittagong Medical College Hospital (CMCH) stands high in the country's medical sector.

The department provides treatment to 4500 patients and operates on over 1500 of them annually.

It conducts critical operations needed badly for survival for children with congenital malformations.

Paediatrics Surgery Department, country's largest paediatrics department at government level, opened in 1993.

Different foreign organisations and specialists, particularly from Australia and the UK, came forward with their supports and expertise. The government provided the department with a Laparoscope's to conduct Minimal Invasive Surgery.

And the personality who, with all dedication and compassion for ailing newborn babies, brought the department at its present position is Professor Dr. Tahmina Banu, the first female paediatrics urologist of the country.

The Paediatrics Surgery Department had been far more advanced in complicated surgeries involving posterior urethral valve, intussusceptions, ambiguous genitalia and cloacae.

Till 2004, the Paediatric Department of CMCH was the country's lone centre for the surgery of Posterior Urethral Valve (PUV) responsible for blocking urethral system.

Dr Tahmina procured Neonatal Cystoscope for conducting PUV surgery at her department in 1997. On an average some 350 PUV operations are done at the centre a year.

Paediatric patients from across the country and neighbouring Myanmar come here for treatment.

Dr Tahmina said that one, out of 150 children, suffers from PUV disorder that, if remains untreated, leads to renal failure and consequent death. Proper treatment in childhood can bring down the number of kidney patients significantly in the country, she said.

Use of betel leaf is an appreciable cost reducing process

Professor Tahmina applies during colostomy. Colostomy is a temporary diversional opening (made on the belly of newborn babies without having anus) for passage of stools until the anal track is reconstructed through surgery after one or two months.

She said that after the colostomy is done they paste zinc oxide around the opening and place a betel leaf with a hole in the middle over it instead of daily disposable colostomy bag that costs Tk30 each.

Dr Tahmina was also a pioneering figure to conduct the Ambiguous Genitalia (sex disorder found in Hizra) determining sex and Estopia Vesicae at the CMCH.

She conducted strenuous surgery for Cloacae constructing separate urethral, genital, rectum and anal tracks of the patient.

Another treatment provided to the paediatric patients at the department is intussusceptions through hydrostatic reduction.

When the critical operation like Cloacae costs over Tk 1 lakh in a private hospital, it costs Tk 5,000 only for a patient at the department.

"The hospital provided me with 66 beds, officially only 15, while the departments of radiology and other diagnosis also helped me a lot," said Dr Tahmina.

US Ambassador Harry K Thomas Junior enquires about the condition of a trauma patient during his visit to Paediatrics Surgery Department at Chittagong Medical College Hospital (CMCH) on February 23. CMCH Director Brigadier General Ismail Hossain Siraji, right, and head of the department Professor Dr. Tahmina Banu, left, are also seen.
