JMJB waits for patrons' signal to re-emerge under new name

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Bogra

The banned Islamist militant group Jagrata Muslim Janata Bangladesh (JMJB) will turn underground and carry on its operations undaunted by the absence of its operations commander Bangla Bhai, who slipped into India Thursday night.

Sources said, before fleeing the country, Siddiqur Rahman alias Bangla Bhai gave minute instructions to leaders and operatives of this outfit on how to continue working to bring about an Islamic revolution.

The JMJB men are now awaiting the nod of certain political figures in the government to resume their activities, said a top JMJB leader of Naogaon region.

FAILURE TO DISPEL 'ANTI-BANGLADESH PROPAGANDA'

Govt mulls recast of foreign ministry

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The government is contemplating steps to recast the foreign ministry for its diplomatic failure to handle the 'propaganda' against Bangladesh and the ruling coalition, highly placed sources said.

Top policymakers believe the ministry has miserably failed to uphold Bangladesh's image abroad when an anti-Bangladesh campaign is being carried out globally.

Moreover, the existing set-up of the foreign ministry has proved to be ineffective in pursuing economic diplomacy and presenting Bangladesh and its causes properly to the international communities, the sources said.

The policymakers are also unhappy with the performance of the foreign minister. "He (FM) is busy with his own business, rather than leading the foreign ministry," a government high-up told The Daily Star yesterday, wishing anonymity.

A number of senior ministers who so far have backed M Moshed Khan are unlikely to support him in his continuing office as the FM, sources said. "But everything depends on the prime minister. And she will take the final decision," said a policymaker.

He said the government has already started the process of recasting the ministry by sending Shamsheer Mobin Chowdhury to Washington as Bangladesh ambassador and appointing Hemayet Uddin the new foreign secretary.

A few more changes are on the cards, he told The Daily Star.

It has already been reported that most of the Bangladesh missions

Gives away nat'l agriculture awards

UNB, Joydevpur, Gazipur

Prime Minister Khaleda Zia yesterday called for creating a 'new awakening' and 'silent revolution' in agriculture with the united efforts of government, farmers and agriculturists.

Addressing the Conference of Agricultural Workers 2005 on the premises of Bangladesh Agricultural Research Institute (BARI), she said that in the modern world biotechnology, genetic engineering and geographical information management technology have revolutionised agriculture.

The PM said farming system would have to be developed, appropriate and technology-based, to cut poverty to half by 2015 as per the UN Millennium Development Goals.

Borders remain tense over fencing

BDR-BSF meet ends in stalemate

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Situation in bordering Ramgarh of Khagrachhari remained tense as a meeting between Bangladesh Rifles (BDR) and Indian Border Security Force (BSF) at Subrum in India ended inconclusively yesterday.

The talks took place in the wake of Friday's exchange of gunfire between the two sides in Ramgarh. The incident occurred when the Indian side made an abortive attempt to fence the border 150 yards off the zero point.

BDR sources said the battalion commander level flag meeting held at Subrum ended fruitlessly with both sides making allegations against each other. BDR could not elicit any assurance from its counterpart that they (BSF) would cease fencing that has been stalled for the last few days.

Meanwhile, a tense situation was prevailing at Singimari of Lalmonirhat, Chakpara of Chapainawabganj and at Chuadanga border over fencing and probable push-in bids by India.

A top official at the BDR headquarters said BDR personnel have been kept on alert. They are patrolling the bordering areas round the clock. He, however, said that the situation has not deteriorated further. "Though the meeting at Ramgarh has ended in a stalemate, we are determined to foil any Indian attempt to erect fence 150 yards off the zero line," he said adding such attempts violate the Indo-Bangladesh Boundary Accord, 1974, commonly known as the Mujib-Indira treaty.

He said Bangladesh would raise the issue in the upcoming deputy director general-level meeting between BDR and BSF. The issue would top the agenda at the meeting slated for Agartala on March 14-17.

It will be discussed also at a director

In its annual International Narcotics Control Strategy report-2005 released in Washington, the State Department said seizures of heroin, phensidyl and pethidine point to growing narcotics abuse in Bangladesh.

There were unsubstantiated allegations of opium and cannabis production in the Bandarban

Corruption charge against PM's APS shelved

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The corruption allegation against one of the assistant private secretaries to prime minister (PM) has been shelved at the dictate of the higher authorities considering the image of the Prime Minister's Office (PMO) as well as that of the government.

Highly placed sources at the PMO said the issue has been permanently covered up and instruction given to authorities concerned not to proceed with the matter anymore as it might embarrass the government further.

"We'll take part in the privatisation process of the country's nationalised commercial banks.
