She, however, said the HC verdict made all concerned alert, and some remarkable decisions and steps have been taken by the government and NGOs in this regard.

These included formation of taskforces at national, district and upazila level for speedy release of children, empowerment of district women affairs officers as jail visitors and upazila social welfare officers as probation officers, amendment of penal code to raise the age of criminal responsibility of a child from seven to nine years, and formation of children council in Kishore Unnayan Kendra, she added.

Habibunnesa said, "Parliament, government and judiciary should wake up now and review the implementation mechanism immediately to save our future generation from further damage.
