Asean economic ministers mull integration in Vietnam meet today

AFP, Hanoi

Economic ministers from Southeast Asian nations gather in Vietnam Tuesday to hold talks on integrating their economies and conduct a dialogue with the European Union.

The ministers from the Association of Southeast Asian Nations are expected to update themselves on the status of free trade agreements the region is engaged in as well as hold talks on regional integration, said an Asean trade official who asked not to be named.

The ministers meeting at Halong city, 170 kilometres (106 miles) east of Hanoi, are expected to examine preparations for the implementation of the Asean-China agreement on trade which will start on July 1.

The agreement was signed in Vientiane last December, during the last summit of the organisation.

According to the agreement, starting from July 1 2005, China and the Asean countries will start cutting tariffs on certain types of goods to between zero and five percent by 2010 for Southeast Asia's six more economically advanced members and by 2015 for Laos, Vietnam, Cambodia and Myanmar.

The official also said the ministers could discuss progress in the Asean-Japan FTA talks after a recent senior officials' meeting in Tokyo.

Also expected on the agenda is initial discussion of the Asean-South Korea framework agreement for an FTA after the two sides agreed last year in Laos to start FTA talks this year.

"I also expect the usual review of progress in the Asean Free Trade Area," the official said.

This would include the recent decision by Vietnam to compensate Thailand for delaying import tariff cuts on motorbike parts and completely built cars, he said.

EU Trade Commissioner Peter Mandelson will take part in the Asean-EU consultation in Halong.

Ernest Bower, the former president of the US-Asean business council and now a partner of the Washington-based consultancy BrooksBowerAsia, said "Asean needs to refocus the AFTA commitment.

"Economic integration is an achievable goal," he said.

"The ministers have before them a roadmap that allows for leadership by more advanced (and) prepared countries to be 'pathfinders' and for other members to join later and benefit from the experiences of the leaders."

He said the question was one of political will and focus.

Bower also said there was no doubt the Myanmar issue was affecting the region's competitiveness.

"It is legitimately an issue that impacts trade and investment," he said.

China watching EU moves on textiles

REUTERS, Beijing

China is watching moves by the European Union that could lead to formal curbs on its textile exports, the Commerce Ministry said Monday.

The EU urged China on Sunday to cut its textile exports or face formal curbs on products such as T-shirts and trousers, which have leapt in some cases by more than 500 percent since the end of a global quota system.

EU Trade Commissioner Peter Mandelson announced plans for a probe into nine categories of Chinese textile products and such probes.

"We have been watching the EU's moves," said a spokeswoman at the Commerce Ministry. The ministry would issue a statement once the EU introduced formal trade curbs, she said, declining to give specifics.

"There is still room for discussion," she added.

EU governments were divided on how to respond to the surge in cheap Chinese imports with Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands and Germany cautioning against protectionism.
