Hollywood Homicide (IMDb rating 5.2)

On HBO, April 30 at 09:30 pm Directed by Ron Shelton Genre: Action/Comedy/Thriller/Crime Harrison Ford, Josh Hartnett, Lena Olin, Bruce Greenwood, Isaiah Washington, Lolita Davidovich

When not solving murders in Tinseltown, Detective Joe Gavilan and his rookie partner Kasey Calden both moonlight in other fields: Gavilan sells poorly real estate, and Calden aspires to become an actor. Assigned to the vicious in-club slaying of a promising young rap act, the two detective delve into the recording industry where they hope to find answers - ideally ones that also come with property buyers or auditions

On Star Movies, May 03 at 08:20 pm Directed by Tom Hanks Genre: Comedy/Drama/Music Tom Everett Scott, Liv Tyler, Johnathon Schaech, Steve Zahn, Ethan Embry, Tom Hanks, Charlize Theron, Chris Isaak

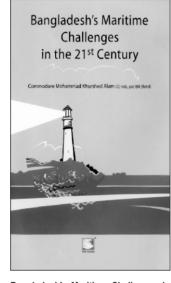

Recounts a fable of a pop rock band immediately after the Beatles took America by storm in early 1964. Jazz aficionado Guy Patterson, unhappily toiling in the family appliance store, is recruited into the band the Oneders (later renamed the Wonders) after regular drummer Chad breaks his arm. After Guy injects a Merseybeat rhythm into lead singer Jimmy's ballad, the song's undeniable pop power flings the Wonders into a brief whirlwind of success, telling the tale of many American bands who attempted to grab the brass ring of rock and roll in the wake of the British Invasion

Grosse Pointe Blank (IMDb rating 7.4) 10:30 pm Directed by George Armitage Genre: Comedv/Crime/Romance/Thriller John Cusack, Minnie Driver, Alan Arkin, Dan Avkrovd, Joan Cusack

Martin Blank is a professional hitman who starts to develop a conscience, which causes him to muff a couple of routine assignments. He is sent on a mission to a small Detroit suburb, Grosse Pointe, and, by coincidence, his ten-year high school reunion party is taking place there at the same time. On the advice of his secretary and his psychiatrist, he attends the reunion. Hot on his tail are a couple of over-enthusiastic federal agents, another assassing who wants to kill him, and Grocer, an assassin who wants him to join an 'Assassin's Union.'

A History of the Uncon-In this brilliant synthesis, Frank Tallis argues that the unconscious--along with quantum physics and the gene--is one of the three big ideas of twentieth-century science. Closely associated with the psychoanalysis of Sigmund Frend, it seemed to have fallen from scientific Frank Tallis favour midway through the last century, but now it has staged a major comeback. New research in neuroscience. psychology, artificial intelligence, and evolutionary theory has shown not only that the unconscious exists but that no account of the human mind can be complete without an understanding of this essential part of us. Hidden Minds traces the history of our fascination with the unconscious, from St Augustine, who wrote, "I cannot grasp all that I am," to contemporary scientists. Drawing widely on philosophy, literature, art, and the latest research, the author discusses the various efforts over the ages to explore, comprehend, and unlock the creative potential of the hidden mind, whether through reason, drug use, hypnotism, automatic writing, lucid dreaming, subliminal stimuli, psychological experimentation, surgical intervention, brain scans, or the talking cure. His survey offers colorful, sometimes astonishing examples, while it lays out and to the populace at large; The actual threat of WMD and the some of the functions of unconscious processes in our daily lives. It scenarios that India needs to guard against; Whether India faces a also leads to a startling conclusion: that Freud may have been right greater WMD threat from state or non-state actors; The possible in his assessment of the importance of the idea of the unconscious. Lucid in its explanations comprehensive in scope, and always thought-provoking, Hidden Minds is science writing, and history -- at take in international for a while addressing international initiatives deal of literature exists on international regimes and their attempts to curb the proliferation of WMD. For a number of years the national effort seemed to be confined to relying solely on these international regimes to ensure the safety of the nation. This book is groundbreaking in that it concentrates more on the protection of society and the armed forces against both state and non-state actors armed with WMD, and less on the international regimes. Additionally, the book offers protect the people of India from WMD agents, while suggesting a counter-proliferation strategy. With contributions from leading analysts in the field, some of the important issues that are discussed here include: The danger that WMD pose to governments these threats; The position that the Indian government needs to to prevent the use of WMD. Matir Moina (The Clay Bird) Directed by Tareque Masud

Cast: Jayanto Chattopadhyay, Rokeya Prachy, Nurul Islam Bablu, Russell Farazi Price: (DVD) Tk. 150.00, (VCD) Tk. 80.00

Set against the backdrop of the turbulent period in the late 1960s leading up to Bangladesh's independence from Pakistan, Matir Moina (The Clay Bird) tells the story of a family torn apart by religion and war. A young boy, Anu, is sent off to a strict Islamic school--a madrassa, by his deeply religious father Kazi. As the political divisions in the country intensify an increasing split develops between moderate and extremist forces within the madrassa, mirroring a growing divide between the stubborn but confused Kazi and his increasingly independent wife. Touching upon themes of religious tolerance, cultural diversity, and the complexity of Islam, Matir Moina has universal relevance in a crisis-ridden world. Winner of several internationally prestigious awards including the FIPRESCI International Critics' Prize for Best Film at the 2002 Cannes Film Festival, and the Best Screen Play Award at the 2002 Marrakech Film Festival (Morocco), it is a must-see film.
