

China reiterates opposition as EU, US begin moves on export limits

AFP, Beijing

China reiterated Friday its opposition to any measures by the United States and Europe to restrict its booming multi-billion dollar textile exports, seeing them as a violation of free trade principles and existing trade protocols.

"Our position is already well known," Zhang Lei, a spokeswoman at the Ministry of Commerce told AFP when asked about US and EU moves Thursday to start proceedings that could limit Chinese textile exports in an effort to protect their domestic industry.

Zhang made no further comment except to note statements earlier this week by senior officials that efforts to restrict exports were a violation of free trade, smacked of protectionism and threatened the principles of the World Trade Organization (WTO).

Both the US and EU governments are under pressure from their own industries after the ending of a global quota system on January 1 allowed a huge increase in Chinese textile exports into their markets.

For the EU, some Chinese garment categories have soared by as much as 534 percent since then, which is far beyond limits the European Commission considers tolerable.

US government figures show Chinese imports of cotton knit shirts and trousers, and cotton and man-made-fiber underwear growing by up to 1,500 percent since January.

"I think the (EU) investigation is unreasonable," Cao Xinyu, vice-chairman of the China Chamber of Commerce for Import and Export of Textiles, told AFP.

"First the basis for the calculation of the export growth is incorrect because the EU expanded after May 1, 2004, so they are comparing the condition of the 25 member states to the condition of the former 15 members."

According to official Chinese figures, textile exports to the United States totalled 3.5 billion dollars in the first quarter, up 70.5 percent from the same period last year, while exports to the EU were rose 48.3 percent to 3.9 billion dollars.

China said China would negotiate with the EU in an effort to minimize new restrictions but conceded that now that the initial investigation was underway, further talks could become meaningless.

US Congress passes 2006 budget

AFP, Washington

The US Senate and House of Representatives late Thursday passed a federal budget for fiscal 2006, which at 2.56 trillion dollars is tighter than the White House's budget proposal that already called for cuts across the board excluding defense and security.

The budget, which President George W. Bush is expected to sign into law, maintains the tax cuts introduced by the Bush administration after 2001 and extends some that are due to expire at the end of this fiscal year, in October.

The House of Representatives passed the budget proposal narrowly by 214-211 votes, the Senate by 52-47. Both houses are Republican-controlled.

The majority Republicans drew up the 2006 budget with an estimated deficit by the end of the fiscal year of 362.7 billion dollars, or three percent of the gross national product. They plan to narrow the budget deficit to 210.9 billion, or 1.3 percent of GNP by 2010.

The Bush administration in February put forth a slightly more extravagant budget proposal, estimating the 2006 deficit at 390 billion dollars.

Per Heisselberg, managing director of Maersk Bangladesh Ltd, a Denmark-based international logistics provider, and Tanvir Ibrahim, head (Sales Department) of GrameenPhone Ltd, sign a corporate deal on behalf of their companies in Dhaka recently. Other senior officials from both the sides were also present at the signing ceremony.

Shahriar Kamal, director of Concord Group, and Mohiuddin Monem, director (Operation) of Abdul Monem Ltd, shake hands after signing an agreement on Thursday in Dhaka. Under the deal, Abdul Monem Ltd will supply Igloo brand ice-cream products to Concord Amusement World - Foy's Lake, Chittagong.

International FXMarket

In the beginning of the week, the Japanese yen vaulted to a two-month high against the Euro and a one-month high against the dollar as speculation intensified that China might soon revalue its currency. The loss of Euro was fueled by a fall of the IFO institute's German business confidence data for the third consecutive month in April. The data fell to its lowest level in more than 18 months in a sign of continued weak economic growth.

The dollar rose to one-week highs against the euro and Swiss franc in the middle of the week after data showed new US home sales hitting a record pace, easing recent worries about a soft patch in the world's biggest economy. The dollar also rose almost 0.2 percent against the yen. Investors are also keeping an eye on revised US gross domestic product figures for the first quarter on Thursday. In the euro zone, growth remains sluggish and anxiety is high that French voters will reject the European Union's constitution in a referendum next month.

By the end of the week, the dollar steadied against major currencies on Thursday as markets looked for more clues on the US economy from first quarter growth data later in the session. The yen, meanwhile, hovered close to a recent 2-1/2 month high against the euro after the Bank of Japan forecast the end of deflation in a year's time. The US economy is expected to have slowed down slightly from the previous three months, although remaining above its assumed long-run growth potential.
