800yr-old temple unearthed

Relic raiders steal 4 statues

At least four statues and other priceless antiques, found in the recently discovered Shiva temple that was built in 1213 AD, at Pirapat village in Khaloo Upazila reportedly went missing some time Friday night.

Officials at the Archaeology Department and local people said some miscreants might have entered the temple Friday night by cutting an 18-foot-long tunnel. The Hindu devotees last said their prayers at the temple on Thursday.

Regional Archaeology Office sources said higher authorities have been informed of the incident and requested to declare the site protected for a preliminary excavation.

The department is going to declare the temple of Lord Shiva a protected site soon, according to the field officer of the department.

Thananirbali Officer of Khaloo Upazila Shafiqul Islam told The Daily Star that if the department fails to declare the site protected, the local authorities would take up steps to excavate the site to meet the local people's curiosity.

The Bangladesh Sangbadpatra Parishad (BSP) and the Newspaper Owners' Association of Bangladesh (Noab) yesterday asked the government to withdraw the duty on newsprint imported for the newspaper industry or to fix a five per cent import tax on it.

The organisations also proposed the cancellation of the National Board of Revenue (NBR) circular that asked the newspaper houses to use locally produced newsprint for publishing newspapers.

A delegation of the two organisations placed the demands at a meeting with the NBR Chairman Khairuzzaman Chowdhury at the latter's office.

Practise democracy within parties first

Barisal seminar urges politicians

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Barisal

Speakers at a roundtable yesterday urged politicians to practise democracy within parties first.

No reforms will serve any purpose unless the political parties themselves maintain the norms of democracy, they said at the roundtable seminar held at the social welfare auditorium yesterday.

Organised by an NGO, Shushasone Janya Nagorik (Sujon), the seminar presided over by Prof Syed Aminul Haque focused on the political reforms in Bangladesh and their reasons.

Dr Badul Alam, member secretary of the NGO, raised a point on the election reforms in Bangladesh.

The seminar observed that the political parties in Bangladesh consider election only as a stairway to power and that most political leaders are after their own interests rather than serving the people, which has reduced the possibility of giving democracy an institutional shape.
