SIRAJGANJ PLANT

Complaints slow down re-tendering process

SHARIER KHAN

Despite a sense of urgency of the government, the second re-tendering of the Sirajganj 450 MW power project is unlikely to see the light before February or March due to a number of complications arising out of allegations of foul play.
Following a report in The Daily Star on relaxation of bid criteria in five areas to accommodate lower quality offers in October, an industry insider lodged a written complaint to the prime minister questioning the transparency of all power projects -- especially the Sirajganj scheme.
This letter, followed by notes from the World Bank on the same issue and a directive of the Prime Minister's Office (PMO), has put the Power Cell in a defensive position.
Cell sources said the PMO has asked the Power Cell to have the relaxation of the Sirajganj bid criteria approved by the power ministry. The WB on the other hand suggested that the Cell hire a consultant to handle the bid so that no-one can question the latter's neutrality.

"We will hire a consultant and have the bid criterion approved from the ministry. If everything goes well, the re-tendering of the project may take place around February or March," said a competent Power Cell source.
Earlier on November 19, Brian Lee, posing as an industry operator, wrote a letter to the prime minister saying all the leading independent power producers (IPPs) of the world are staying out of Bangladesh because of lack of transparency, confusing and ambiguous documentation, and delay in taking decisions.
"Since Your Excellency assumed power, not a single IPP project has materialised. This is largely due to the ineptitude of the agencies and their attempts to corrupt and slant the procurement process toward their individual choice of vendors," Lee said, adding that corruption has gripped the process of the Sirajganj project, which is discouraging competent bidders from taking part in the tender.

He pointed out that the original Sirajganj bid criteria sought for quality bidders, but the proposed relaxation of bid criteria will allow almost anyone to qualify in the tender. The previous criterion sought the qualified bidder to have construction, operation and maintenance experience of at least one combined cycle plant of 300 MW. But the new criterion allows bidder to show two plants of two sites totalling 300 MW plant.
"This is analogous to saying that if you can own and ride 20 motorcycles, you are qualified to drive a truck! This is a trickery of the Power Cell to bring an unqualified party to the table.
"It is widely known that the Westmont Group and Hosaf Group had lobbied earlier for this dilution in the past without success. They

Diversify goods to boost export under Safta

PM urges at opening of trade fair

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Prime Minister (PM) Khaleda Zia yesterday urged exporters to diversify export products maintaining international standard to boost the country's exports to neighbouring countries under the agreement of South Asian Free Trade Area (Safta).
She said the South Asian leaders have given their commitments to perform their trade under the Safta agreement from January 1, 2006. The agreement was finalised in last November's South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (Saarc) Summit in Dhaka.
The PM said, "Under Safta, the export and import volume will increase among the South Asian countries, where immediate export diversification is needed for us to keep up a balanced trade."

Speaking as the chief guest of the inaugural ceremony of Dhaka International Trade Fair 2005 (DITF-2005), she asked businessmen to be aware of the conspiracy and propaganda against the country. She also urged them to work hard to protect the country from those conspiracies.
Khaleda Zia formally inaugurated the DITF-2005 at Sher-e-Bangla Nagar fair ground following the inaugural ceremony held at Bangladesh-China Friendship Conference Centre.
Export Promotion Bureau (EPB) and commerce ministry organised the eleventh DITF as their annual event to help local entrepreneurs expand their business globally.
Commerce Minister Altaf

Hossain Choudhury, Commerce Ministry Advisor Barkat Ullah Bulu, Commerce Secretary Faruk Ahmed Siddiqui and EPB Vice-chairman Mir Shahabuddin Mohammad were also present.
Speaking at the inaugural ceremony, the commerce minister said export diversification is the key to enhance export volume as well as strengthening our economy.
He said export from Bangladesh grew to $8.65 billion in the 2004-05 fiscal year which is 13.83 percent increase in comparison to the previous fiscal year.
The minister said, "As the government gave facilities like cash incentive and low interest bank loan to the exporters, I am confident

Kanchan strikes twice to take Bangladesh to Saff semifinals

AL MUSABBIR SADI, from Karachi

Rokonuzaman Kanchan struck either side of the break as Bangladesh stormed into the semifinals of the Fourth SAFF Championship with an authoritative 2-0 win over Nepal in a Group B match at the People's Complex Stadium here yesterday.
India also moved to the last four from the same group after beating Bhutan 3-0 earlier in the day.
Level on six points, Bangladesh are ahead of India by virtue of a better goal difference and the two regional rivals meet in the group decider tomorrow.
After a cautious start, Diego Cruciani's charges took control of the midfield and began to slice the rival defence regularly. But Farhad's seventh minute placing shot went wide after the striker got a through pass from Alfaz inside the box. In the next two minutes, two more crosses tested Nepalese goalkeeper Bikash Malla who pulled off a fine save halfway through the first session to thwart a powerful freekick by Arman.
The break came in the 27th minute when Matiu Munna cut back a low cross from the left. Farhad missed a shot but his effort unsettled the nearby defender who mistimed to clear and handed the ball to Muktiyoddha striker Kanchan who made a clinical finish with his favourite left-footer.

The lead gave Bangladesh time to relax before the break, reserving their energy against a very speedy Nepalese midfield.
Nepal's pace, however, never looked threatening for Bangladesh's tidy defence and the tight midfield led by Ariful Kabir Joy, the skipper who put up another encouraging show.
The only chance Nepal had was in the 56th minute when Basanta Thapa had only the goalkeeper to beat after a rare defensive error, but the veteran's long range effort was stopped well by Bangladesh custodian Aminul. Two minutes later, Bikash made a one-handed save to deny an angled drive by Alfaz for a corner.
Four minutes from time, Matiu Munna again came alive with a

Hamas won't renew truce with Israel

US shrugs off move

AGENCIES, Washington

The head of the Islamist group Hamas's political branch, Khaled Meshaal, said Friday the group would not renew its fragile truce with Israel when it expires at the end of the year.
"We will not enter a new truce while our people are surrounded and are preparing for a new round of conflict," Meshaal told a rally at the al-Yarmouk quarter in Damascus, home to the largest Palestinian community in Syria.
"We have had enough of the truce while our prisoners are still held," he told the meeting marking 38 years since the creation of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

The United States shrugged off the Hamas announcement. "We've always made clear that truces are good only insofar as they go, and that's really not very far," said deputy State Department spokesman Adam Ereli in Washington.
He accused Hamas of pursuing violence against innocent civilians and urged the Palestinian Authority to take action against it and another group, the Palestinian Islamic Jihad.
Meshaal's announcement came amid heightened violence in the Gaza Strip and West Bank, with Israel carrying out lethal raids following Monday's suicide bombing in the northern Israeli city of Netanya in which five people died.

"There's no question of agreeing a new truce and there's no point in negotiating, because the policy of procrastinating over applying agreements pushes us not to renew the truce," he said.
Palestinian groups agreed to the truce at a meeting in Cairo in March, but it has been far from watertight since then, with militants retaliating for targeted assassinations of their leaders carried out by the Israeli military.
"The Palestinian gun will always

Identify source of terror fund

Urges Economic Association

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Bangladesh Economic Association (BEA) has expressed deep concern over ongoing militant activities, saying corruption, criminalisation of politics and black money are the roots of this new phenomenon.
"Security of the common people has totally collapsed and the overall situation is now extremely vulnerable," Qazi Kholiquzzaman Ahmad, president of BEA, told a press briefing at the Jatiya Press Club yesterday.
Stressing the need for identifying the source of militants' funds, he said it is essential to identify their godfathers and are with whom they have connections.
It is not possible to suppress militants without addressing their roots, he observed. Corruption by helping a few people become richer has aggravated the overall situation, he added.
"The government has failed to prove its sincerity in chalking out a plan of action and addressing the issue," Kholiquzzaman said, adding, these are the indications that Bangladesh is moving to be identified as a failed state.

"It is the perception of the outside world. We can change it by our work but unfortunately things are not moving towards that direction," the BEA president added.
Speaking at the briefing, BEA General Secretary Abul Barakat said it is being claimed that the ruling coalition has no links with militants, but some leaders within the alliance are disputing the claim.
"It is very clear that the ruling coalition is divided on the issue of militancy," he said.
He cast doubt over the sincerity of the government in crushing the militants as it had earlier claimed the media hyped up the militancy issue.
