'I can adjust'

INTERNET, undated

Michael Owen insists he can adjust his game to accommodate whoever is selected alongside him at the World Cup. With Wayne Rooney extremely unlikely to feature, Owen said: "I don't think it matters what type of style I play with. If you have quality enough to play in an international team, you should be able to adapt to whoever is playing alongside you."

Lara refuses to disregard tourists

REUTERS, Georgetown
West Indies captain Brian Lara declined to write off struggling Zimbabwe ahead of the next two one-day internationals in Georgetown this weekend.

The West Indies won the first two games in the seven-match series by five wickets and 98 runs respectively in Antigua last weekend.

Zimbabwe were also beaten by a University of the West Indies Vice-Chancellor's XI in a tour match in Antigua on Wednesday, but Lara refused to consign the visitors to the scrapheap.

"They are playing decent cricket," Lara told reporters. "I think they've got a couple of very good, talented players in the team and something that they can work on for the future."

"I still think they are an international team, we expect them to compete and that's what they are doing."

Persistent showers in the days leading up to the matches have left ground authorities with a difficult job in trying to get the playing area ready.

The rain abated on Thursday evening, but there were more showers early on Friday and a forecast for scattered weekend thunderstorms were further discouraging signs.

The West Indies had to cancel their Thursday afternoon net session at the Everest Club and Friday's planned training for both teams looked in grave doubt.

The hosts have omitted all-rounders Dwayne Bravo and Ian Bradshaw to bring in uncapped opening batsman Sewardine Chattergoon, left-arm spinner Dave Mohammed and paceman Tino Best.

Weak bid still the winner

Cricket

PTI, New Delhi

Indian Cricket Board on Saturday said the Asian bloc had managed to win the World Cup bid ahead of Australia and New Zealand despite none of the factors being in their favour.

Although BCCI President Sharad Pawar did not say what eventually clinched the deal in Asia's favour, he conceded that they were initially apprehensive of bagging the 2011 World Cup as the Australasian bid was "well prepared" and their own compliance document had missed the ICC deadline.

"I must say our position was weak. Australia and New Zealand had submitted their bid in time and it was well prepared," Pawar said in his first press conference after Asia won the rights to host the mega event.

"They had all the necessary guarantees from the respective governments. In fact, we learnt from them." Pawar also said the ICC had sent letters to the Board about the Compliance Document last year but full details were not known then and the correspondence was lost during the change of regime in the BCCI.

"It was only when we met with the PCB officials in Lahore that we got to know the full details, and we immediately sent a communication to the ICC," he said.

I S Bindra, former BCCI president, said although it was previously agreed in principle that Asia would host every third World Cup, there was confusion over from when this arrangement would come into play.

The Indian board also announced that it would spend substantial sums to renovate its grounds before co-hosting the 2011 World Cup, its president Sharad Pawar said on Friday.

BCCI is also in early discussions to build a new stadium in the national capital, he told reporters. The government has allotted 30 acres (12.14 hectare) of land for the purpose.

"I have to admit one thing, our stadium standard is not up to the mark," Pawar said.

"We have to improve our grounds, wickets and stadiums."

"Because of the good monetary support the board got, we are going to invest substantially and provide permanent international standard infrastructure in India."

Most Indian venues are owned by the government with poor seating and toilet facilities often making it a nightmare for the cricket-mad public which flocks in for every game involving the national team.

Mexico down Venezuela

REUTERS, Pasadena

A second-half penalty by striker Omar Bravo earned Mexico a comfortable 1-0 win over Venezuela in a World Cup warm-up match at the Rosebowl on Friday.

Brao beat Venezuela goalkeeper Renny Vega in the 58th minute after fellow striker Jesus Arellano had been brought down as he ran on to a well-timed pass from midfielder Antonio Naelson.

Mexico, whose best World Cup performances were quarterfinal appearances at the 1970 and 1986 events they hosted, dominated a match that attracted a crowd of 58,147.

The closest Venezuela came to scoring was in the 71st minute when a close-range shot from midfielder Jesus Gomez was superbly saved by diving goalkeeper Oswaldo Sanchez.

Mexico, who play Iran in Nuremberg in their opening Group D match at the World Cup finals on June 11, ended their U.S. tour with four wins and one defeat.

Their victories came against Norway, Ghana, Paraguay and Venezuela with the sole loss inflicted by South Korea.
