Swapper Bilat: Written and directed by Giasuddin Selim, the TV play follows the fortunes of a young man, Abul Hossain. Hossain's idea of heaven on earth is 'Bilat'aka London and he spends considerable time coming up with plans that would enable him to move to London. Hussain's object of affection is Huur-e-Jannat. All is well until Jannat's London-based cousin comes to Dhaka. His wife has recently passed away and his mother wants him to remarry -- the bride of choice being Jannat, of course. The drama unfolds with Jannat in the centre. Tarin, Fazlur Rahman Babu and Chanchal Chowdhury play the lead roles.
This programme has a social perspective as well. It is one of the three TV dramas produced by the Refugee and Migratory Movements Research Unit (RMMRU) to promote safe migration. RMMRU has produced the drama under the Awareness Campaign against Irregular Migration project that is supported by the British High Commission, Dhaka.
The play will be aired on the night of Eid at 8:15pm.

Bonophul-er Ghran: Directed by Amitabh Reza, famed for his popular TV commercials, the play features film actress Purnima, Azad Abul Kalam and Shahana Sumi. The play revolves around Harun, an uncomplicated rural man living with his family. Harun's parents have been trying to get him to marry for quite a while now and a potential bride's family is coming over to talk to him. But perhaps fate has other plans. Harun comes across Ayesha, his ex-wife. Ayesha is a jatra artiste. Harun married her during the days when his obsession with jatra was in its peak. But the stigma that is attached to female jatra artistes in rural areas becomes an issue. The play will be aired on the 3rd day of Eid at 8:15pm.

Bajo Ebong Bajao: The musical programme features Nazrul Sangeet with the sangat of sitar and sarod.
