

No credible election without participation of major parties

Says Canadian envoy

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

There cannot be a credible election without the participation of major political parties, Canadian High Commissioner Barbara Richardson said yesterday.

Expressing concern over the current political situation, she said the Canadian government is worried about the recent developments in the country.

The political problems could be resolved, but the diplomats do not have the solution, she said, adding that it is the leaders of the country who have the solution.

The Canadian envoy said this while exchanging views with women journalists at a city hotel. Bangladesh Centre for Development, Journalism and Communication (BCDJC) organised the meeting.

As a development partner, the Canadian government is concerned over the political violence in the country and it does not want the democratic process to be hampered, Barbara said.

The diplomats cannot interfere in the internal affairs of any country; they merely listen to the politicians and provide information and suggestions, she added.

She expressed her hope that the country's leaders would find out a solution to the prevailing crisis.

Consensus and willingness among the political parties is a must for resolving the political crisis and the leaders should take decisions through understanding, she said.

About the issue of army deployment, Barbara said they (the army) need to be careful and should use their power only when necessary.

"We urge the authority to use the power appropriately," she added.

Barbara also said the Bangladeshi are innovative, courageous and dedicated. They want their leaders to find out the solution and the Canadian government supports Bangladesh in its efforts to reduce poverty, establish good governance and uphold the democratic tradition.

BCDJC President Nayeemul Islam Khan moderated the meeting.

Metropolitan Magistrate Mohammad Mizanur Rahman passed the order after Advocate Mohammad Sanullah Miah filed the case with the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate's (CMM) Court, seeking an arrest warrant against Quader in connection with the statement.

In his complaint, Sanullah mentioned that Quader at a press conference at AL central office on Bangabandhu Avenue on January 7 made a statement, saying that sons and daughters of Tarique and former state minister for home Lutfuzzaman Babar go to school in the vehicles of Rapid Action Battalion (Rab).

ZIA KILLING

'Grand alliance a union of masterminds'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT,

Rajshahi

Rajshahi City Mayor and BNP candidate for Rajshahi-2 (City and Pabna upazila) constituency Mizanur Rahman Minu yesterday alleged that the grand alliance of Awami League chief Sheikh Hasina, former president HM Ershad and Liberal Democratic Party Chairman AQM Badruddoza Chowdhury is 'basically a union of the masterminds behind the killing of President Ziaur Rahman'.

"If we (BNP-Jamaat alliance) are elected again, we will ensure proper trial of Zia's killing by suing the three masterminds together," he said while addressing a press conference at a city restaurant.

"Hasina returned home from abroad 17 days ahead of Zia's killing while Ershad was the chief of army and Chowdhury was staying just beside Zia's room at Chittagong Circuit House," Minu said, adding, "Some of the unruly members of the army were punished, but the trial of Zia's actual killers is yet to be held."

Minu claimed that a congenial atmosphere for holding polls has been prevailing all over the country, and "We have already formed many committees even at ward level to motivate voters to go to polling centres and trained up workers to resist the anti-election forces."

While replying to some questions Minu was visibly embarrassed over his government's failure to bring natural gas to Rajshahi, setting up of agro-based EPZ, power outage and price hike of essentials.

In a written statement, Minu claimed that he had initiated 20 development projects for Rajshahi in last five years.

He also pledged to implement 20 more development projects including widening of city roads, supply of natural gas through pipelines and setting up of 30 MW power plant.

About Jamaat candidates at his and other constituencies in Rajshahi, Minu said they could not withdraw their nomination papers in time.

Speaking on the occasion, Jamaat City Secretary Abul Kalam Azad said his party is not contesting for any seat in Rajshahi.

"Our leaders could not withdraw nomination papers for want of time," he added.

Rajshahi Chamber of Commerce and Industries President Lutfar Rahman, BNP leaders Ekhlaq Hussain, Kamrul Monir, Shafiqul Haq and Mosaddek Hossain Bulbul were present at the press conference.
