Two Bangladeshi films go to 36th Int'l Film Festival Rotterdam

Dolly Zahur and Amirul Islam in Nironor

Rokeya Prachi in Swapno Danaye

CULTURAL CORRESPONDENT

TWO Bangla feature films, Nironor directed by Abu Sayeed and Swapno Danaye directed by Golam Rabbani Biplob, have been nominated for screening at the 36th International Film Festival Rotterdam, Netherlands. The festival is scheduled to be held from January 24 to February 4.

Cast of the award-winning film Nironor includes Shabnoor, Ilias Kanchon, Litu Anam, Dolly Zahur, Jayanto Chattopadhyay and Amirul

Islam. Swapno Danaye features Mahmuduzzaman Babu, Rokeya Prachi and Fazlur Rahman Babu, among others. The story of Nironor is based on noted author Humayun Ahmed's work Janam Janam. The festival at Rotterdam is one of the most consistently innovative film events in Europe. Annually screening around 450 films (including 200 features) at venues throughout the city, it also offers assistance to up-and-coming filmmakers.

Both films are produced by Impress Telefilm Ltd and sponsored by Banglalink.

Tradition 'Homeguti Khela' retains age-old appeal

AMINUL ISLAM, Mymensingh

Some local games have retained their appeal through the ages. The two-century-old traditional Homeguti Khela was inaugurated at the vast field of Boroihata of village Laxmipur in Phulbaria Upazila recently. Over 20,000 people from far and wide were present to enjoy the game, which is held annually. Local Union Parishad chairman Ashiqul Haque Ashiq inaugurated the game and Abu Siddique Abu conducted the game.

The game, traditionally held at Phulbaria Upazila, is a special attraction for the people of the region and its adjoining areas of Mymensingh and Tangail districts. Homeguti Khela (Home means concealing the guti, a brass ball) is played in the afternoon on the last day of Bengali month Poush. The day, locally known as Pahura or Poush Sangkranti, is held with great festivity.

People from several villages participate in the game. People from Muktagacha and Sadar Upazila also participate in the annual feature.

The guti usually weighs 30 kgs and the group that can conceal the guti and thus outwit other teams, is the winner.

Villagers in Laxmipur, before the game

The winning team is accorded a reception at Laxmipur village where the game starts. Last year the game continued for eight hours. The game has a record to continue for 10 days without any interval.

The game is played within 8-10 km from its starting point at Boroihata in Laxmipur village. At night thousands of torch lights are used to search for the guti.

During the British Raj, the zamindars introduced the game at the same spot marking it the zero point as both sides of the place were divided into two parts as 'Taluk' and 'Pargana', said game committee sources. With a view to nurture team spirit among the subjects, the zamindars started the tradition. At one point the guti was made of wood and afterwards it was given the shape of a ball (made of jute). However, six years ago chairman of Deukhola Union Parishad, Ataur Rahman Hadi took the initiative to give the guti its current shape.

"Though there is no reward for the game, we participate in the game to continue our ancestral tradition," said Giasuddin, 55, of village Nayavilla, also a Homeguti player for the last 40 years.

Abhishek and Aishwarya put end to rumours, get engaged

REUTERS, Mumbai

Two of India's leading film stars, Abhishek Bachchan and former Miss World Aishwarya Rai, are finally engaged after months of feverish speculation about their relationship, their families said yesterday.

The hush-hush romance of Rai and Bachchan, son of legendary actor Amitabh Bachchan, had transixed the Mumbai-based film industry, despite denials by the couple of sharing anything more than a healthy friendship.

Last Sunday evening -- one of the most auspicious days in the Hindu calendar -- Bachchan and Rai were engaged in a private ceremony in which Abhishek reportedly placed a diamond ring on his girlfriend's finger.

"No date for marriage has been fixed yet," the senior Bachchan told reporters, adding that his son had proposed to Rai in New York last week after the world premiere of their latest film entitled Guru.

Rai and Bachchan left Mumbai shortly afterwards for a film shoot in Rajasthan. Members of the Bachchan family also left for Ujjain to offer prayers at a revered temple, television reports said.

Rai, 33, and Bachchan, 30, have worked together on at least five films, and both have been in the past romantically linked to other Bollywood stars. Bachchan was even engaged to Bollywood star Karisma Kapoor in 2002, but the marriage was called off.

Speculation of a romance gained ground after their families visited several temples over the past few months to pray for the two lovers whose stars were reportedly not in harmony, a key ingredient to any engagement in astrology-mad India.
