World Cancer Day was observed yesterday in the country as elsewhere in the world to create awareness among the people and highlight the preventive measures.

In the city, the day began with a colourful rally from Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujib Medical University (BSMMU) in the morning.

Different social and voluntary organisations including Bangladesh Mahila Samity, Rotary Club and Bangladesh Childhood Cancer Society (BCCS) took part in the rally.

Paediatric Haematology and Oncology Department of BSMMU and ASHIC Foundation jointly organised the rally supported by Sanofi-aventis Bangladesh.

Special foods, warm clothes and toys were distributed to cancer-affected children and patients at different hospitals and cancer shelters in the city.

Later BCCS and Paediatric Haematology and Oncology Department of BSMMU jointly organised a press conference on 'Childhood cancer campaign in Bangladesh-My child matters' in collaboration with the International Union Against Cancer and Sanofi-aventis Bangladesh.

Addressing the press conference, National Professor Dr MR Khan said in most cases people are affected by cancer due to lack of early diagnosis.

Cancer is curable if diagnosed during early childhood, he added.

Prof Khan emphasised the need for training of doctors and decentralisation of their posts so that cancer-affected patients across the country can get treatment easily.

He also urged the civil society to provide financial assistance for the treatment of cancer-affected patients as higher cost leads many to premature death.

Prof MA Mannan, president of BCCS, stressed the need for mass awareness about the cross-infections of child patients to prevent different germs carried by the visitors.

Prof Mannan, also the BSMMU pro-vice chancellor, asked for formulating a national policy for the treatment of childhood cancer.

Dabir Uddin Ahmed, head of Oncology at Sanofi-aventis Bangladesh and Salma Chowdhury, coordinator of ASHIC Palliative Care Unit also spoke at the press conference.

This year the slogan of the day was 'Today's children, tomorrow's world' focussing on cancer prevention.

Cancer is a leading cause of death around the world, and according to a World Health Organisation (WHO) survey, around 7.6 million people died of cancer in 2005.

It also estimated that 40 percent of all cancers is curable.

Dr Arefin, also former Duta

"The corrupt PSC members and officials must be brought to justice through a judicial inquiry. The government needs to remove the incumbent PSC members immediately and start investigation," Dr Anwar said.
