The nation today badly needs more enlightened people to show lights amid darkness all around, said the speakers at a prize giving ceremony in the city yesterday.

They said reading books can help build such enlightened people.

The prize giving ceremony was organised by Bisaw Sahitya Kendra (World Literature Centre) at the Institute of Fine Arts of Dhaka University.

Speaking at the inaugural session Bisaw Sahitya Kendra Founder Prof Abdullah Abu Sayeed said, "Man needs dream to be a great man and we want to evoke the dreams through the books written by great people."

"When you read books, environment around you also becomes better. It also makes your life full of joys," he said, adding that reading extra-curricular books beside textbooks make people broad-minded.

"When you will become good and honest men, the whole nation will be enlightened," Prof Sayeed, known as the 'maker of the enlightened people', told the students on the first day of the two-day ceremony.

Popular science fiction writer Prof Muhammad Zafar Iqbal said reading textbooks can enable a man to earn, but the greater identity of a man is found in his greatness.

"In the context of present reality today, we badly need great men," he said.

Pointing to hundreds of students, former governor of Bangladesh Bank Lutfar Rahman Sarker said, "It appears that we are walking in a garden and we have innumerable lights in our midst. We must always uphold the lights and multiply those in hundreds."

Singer Bangladesh Limited Managing Director Mahub Jamil said the nation needs more enlightened people to show lights to the countrymen and lead the country in future.

"What should be the goal of education- earning money or becoming great men?" questioned Real Estate Housing Association of Bangladesh President Engineer Abdul Awal, and then he himself replied, "We should be great men."

Architect Mobashwer Hossain said the students of Bangladesh had achieved many awards, but the award winner students could not work for the country when they became adult.

"The injustice and corruption we are facing today are created by the educated people of the country," he added.

"I believe that the prize winning students will not be the part of those people who contribute to corruption," he said at the ceremony organised in cooperation with the daily Prothom Alo and sponsored by Dejuice of Grameen Phone.

The awards- books- were given to around 4000 students of 61 schools who performed better in the evaluation of Bisaw Sahitya Kendra that conducted the book reading programme for 140000 students last year.

The Kendra has been running the programme for the last 23 years.

Another 1800 students will receive prizes today at 3:00pm.

Delta Life Insurance Limited has provided the books being awarded to the students.

Former advisers to caretaker government Mujibul Haque, Hafizuddin Khan, novelist and Prothom Alo Deputy Editor Anisul Haque were among others to give away the prizes.

Teenagers vow to fulfil dreams of war heroes

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

In a pleasant spring morning of yesterday, school-going boys and girls of the capital thronged into Dhanmondi Women's Sports Complex and took oath amidst great enthusiasm to fulfil the dreams of war heroes.

"With due honour we will remember the heroic and supreme sacrifices of our valiant freedom fighters, ... uphold the spirit of the liberation war... work to preserve the correct history ... and strive from our respective positions to attain their unaccomplished tasks," pledged the youth standing on their feet and stretching their hands forward.

The oath-taking ceremony was conducted by Deputy Commander in Chief of the Liberation War Air Vice Marshal (Retd) AK Khondokar at the Mukti Utsab (Celebration of Freedom) where Sector Commander CR Dutta and Trustee of Liberation War Museum Mafidul Huq were also present.

The Utsab started with national anthem followed by oath-taking ceremony and daylong cultural programmes performed by the students themselves.

Celebrities like Bappa Majumdar, Mita Huq and Khairul Anam Shakil could hardly outshine the young performers.

At the Utsab, there were two galleries displaying photographs of liberation war and war heroes, genocide, diaries of slain freedom fighters and newspaper clippings of 1971 to remind the youth that the freedom that they are enjoying now was not easily gained.

While visiting a gallery, one of the participants Swapan, 15, a student of class ten of Ucep School, said, "I have a feeling that all the things happened before my eyes."

Solaiman Hossain, who accompanied his daughter at the programme, said the galleries spoke everything and there was no need to explain anything to her.

With a view to inculcate the spirit of the liberation war into young minds, Liberation War Museum had been organising such programme every year since 1997, said Trustee of the Museum Dr SarwarAli.

This year around twelve thousand students from 45 schools of the city participated in the Utsab, which is an outreach programme of the Museum.
