OPEN POSITION

Executive Director, Asian University for Women Access Academy

The Asian University for Women, based in Chittagong, is seeking applications from outstanding candidates for the position of Executive Director (founding) of its flagship Access Academy. The Asian University for Women Access Academy will provide preparatory and remedial courses in English, math, and computers and general empowerment to an initial class of 150 (which will grow to 300 in two years) exceptional young women from poor, rural, and stateless (refugee) communities in South and Southeast Asia — to prepare them for the rigors of undergraduate studies at the Asian University for Women that will open in September 2009.

The Executive Director of the Access Academy will be responsible for overall academic and administrative leadership of the Access Academy. She will be responsible for curriculum planning, teacher recruitment and training, student recruitment and overall administration of the program.

Planned to begin in March 2008 with approximately 150 students from Bangladesh and other parts of Asia, the Access Academy is AUW's flagship program. It is sponsored by the Goldman Sachs Foundation and has also received support from the Nike Foundation.

The Executive Director will be assisted by a professional staff responsible for student assessment and recruitment, faculty coordination, housing and lodging organization and other relevant matters.

The Executive Director will report to the Vice President for Academic Planning and will be a member of the Academic Council chaired by the Vice Chancellor.

Until such time the facilities planned for the Access Academy on the campus of the Asian University for Women become ready for occupancy, the Academy will be housed in rented facilities in Chittagong. The facilities of the old Chittagong Grammar School are being considered for academic facilities and a line of flats around it for housing students and faculty.

Challenges

- Develop a holistic curriculum in consultation with expert groups to build the academic foundation that will effectively prepare students for high performance upon enrollment at the Asian University for Women.
- Develop a process for recruitment and student evaluation for admission into the Access program.
- Launch a region-wide campaign for recruitment of the most talented students to enter into the program.
- Develop requisite faculty development and training programs in order to prepare faculty to effectively teach the curriculum.
- Recruit professional and administrative staff and faculty members. (Under a contract with US-based World Teach, 15 recent university graduates from the United States will be available to teach at the Access Academy).
- Assisted by appropriate professional staff, develop all logistical arrangements for academic programs, student room and board, student and faculty recruitment.
- Develop appropriate monitoring and evaluation indicators and processes to track progress in student and faculty performance, program administration, and other aspects of the program.
- Provide leadership in creating a Center for Learning Skills Development that will support all AUW students in improving their learning skills.
- Collaborate with AUW Vice Chancellor and the Vice President for Academic Planning and other members of the Academic Council in the development of the undergraduate program.
- Champion and lead the Access Academy locally, regionally and internationally.

Candidates with exceptionally strong background and proven track record in curriculum development, teaching English as a second language, administrative leadership, entrepreneurial skill and a deep commitment to advancement of women are urged to apply via email to Katrina.Kazda@asian-university.org. As a University leader, the Access Academy Director is expected to adhere to the highest ethical standards. Additional information on AUW is available on www.asian-university.org.
