Scrap non-tariff barriers to reap Safta benefits

Says foreign affairs adviser

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Foreign Affairs Adviser Iftekhar Ahmed Chowdhury yesterday said non-tariff barriers among South Asian countries have to be removed to make real gains from the South Asian Free Trade Agreement (Safta).

Iftekhar said this at a roundtable titled 'Expectations from the 14th Saarc Summit' organised by South Asian Free Media Association (Safma) at the Press Club yesterday.

Indian Deputy High Commissioner to Dhaka, Sarvajit Chakravarti, said people and transport connectivity would be the main theme for the 14th South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (Saarc) summit to be held in New Delhi next week.

"For the Safta commitments to fully translate into real gains for businessmen, entrepreneurs and ultimately consumers across South Asia, all forms of non-tariff and para-tariff barriers have to be dismantled," Iftekhar Ahmed Chowdhury said.

He said many goods from Saarc countries cannot reach each other's markets because "of a range of difficulties they meet on account of harmonisation of measurement, standards, [and] testing quality."

"To a considerable measure, our exporters quite often experience such difficulties with our largest trading partner in South Asia, i.e. India," he said, adding, that ensuring equitable distribution of benefits and opportunities is a central prerequisite for integrating South Asian nations.

Iftekhar said connectivity is crucial to facilitate trade among Saarc member states and is required to move on to a deeper cooperation such as a Saarc Customs Union or an Economic Union.

He said a Saarc Regional Multimodal Transport Study (SRMTS) has already been conducted, but implementation of its recommendations would depend on national

ADB lauds anti-graft steps

Suggests timely decisions on FDI

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The Asian Development Bank (ADB) Country Director Hua Du yesterday lauded the caretaker government's measures to contain corruption and improve law and order.

"There might be some isolated incidents of businessmen being harassed but we see an improvement in overall law and order situation," she said adding, "We are no more frightened of walking on the streets now."

The caretaker government seems to have every intention of taking care of the people, she said speaking at the launch of Asian Development Outlook 2007 at its Dhaka mission.

Du suggested that the government take timely decisions on issues regarding foreign direct investment (FDI).

Citing the example of Indian conglomerate Tata's investment proposal that has been hanging on for over two years now due to the government's indecision, she said, "Business is business. You would have to decide whether to grab it or not."

She, however, believes that FDI will definitely pick up as the conditions for business and investment are improving.

Chief Economic Analyst of Dhaka Mission Rezaul Karim Khan presented the highlights of the ADB's flagship annual economic publication launched simultaneously in all 53 member states.

Exercise to test Asia's readiness for bird flu

AFP, Manila

Asean, Cambodia and the World Health Organisation will conduct a two-day exercise next week to test Asia's ability to stem a bird flu pandemic, the UN health agency said here yesterday.

The exercise involves a mock scenario in which a strain of bird flu with the potential for a human pandemic is discovered in Cambodia.

Tamiflu and protective equipment such as goggles and masks have to be swiftly dispatched from a stockpile managed by a private contractor in Singapore to Cambodia.

The exercise will be run from the WHO Western Pacific office in Manila and would be the first-ever test of the region's capability to "respond rapidly to signs of a pandemic and to snuff it out," the WHO said in a statement.

The drill will be a test of rapid containment, involving risk assessment, communications, and decision-making. No supplies will actually be moved, it added.

The WHO says there have been 281 cases of bird flu infection

Tax evasion should be dealt with seriously

ICC-B tells Fakhruddin to slap hefty penalty and charge taxes on offenders

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The government should provide an 'exit route' for businesses that have evaded taxes, allowing them to settle their offences by paying back taxes with heavy penalties, the International Chamber of Commerce-Bangladesh (ICC-B) said yesterday.

In a memorandum to the Chief Adviser, the chamber said tax evasion by business should be "dealt with seriously." It could be addressed through the payment of income tax at regular slab, plus a heavy penalty to "deter future recurrence."

It also stressed that in the past it had become "entirely infeasible to pursue completely legitimate business or even personal activities," without monetary involvement.

However the chamber expressed its concern over the proposed amendment of Anti-Corruption Commission (ACC), under which ACC has been given the power to arrest suspects and freeze assets, which is also made non-bailable; without court's order.

"We are afraid, this provision of law in every likelihood may turn into a tool for harassment of any person and may be counter-productive," it said.

Currently section 21 of the ACC Act states that an ACC assigned official needs the court's permission to arrest a person suspected of holding moveable property in their name or others that is not compatible with their declared sources of income.

The chamber also urged the government to make public only those names against whom there are specific charges.

During the meeting with Chief Adviser Dr Fakhruddin Ahmed the ICC-B welcomed what it described as the bold steps initiated by the caretaker government under the leadership of the chief adviser for tackling corruption. It also applauded the reconstitution of the Election Commission in order

Anti-graft steps will boost funding: WB

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The level of international assistance for Bangladesh will go up in synchronisation with strengthening of the ongoing anti-corruption drive of the government, a visiting World Bank (WB) mission leader said yesterday.

"We are very optimistic [about the ongoing drive]," Sadiq Ahmed, visiting WB sector director said. "One of the key element of WB assistance is anti-corruption. The WB Board has approved an anti-corruption strategy. Bangladesh government's measures are very positive. This would definitely generate a positive impact [from the WB side]," he added.

The WB director was talking with the reporters after a meeting with Finance Adviser Mirza Azizul Islam.

"We have not imposed any new condition. We have discussed implementation of the issues that the government previously agreed to do," he said.

The WB mission talked on various issues, including power procurement.

Corruption in the power sector led to unsuccessful purchases and due to corruption, financing has become difficult, Sadiq noted. "We have talked about how to ensure corruption-free procurement."

The WB delegation also discussed how to make the new public procurement law effective and how to apply that in the power sector. "We just want to see that these procurements follow a transparent process," he pointed out.

High levels of subsidies in power, petroleum and aviation were also discussed. "The power sector alone is given Tk 1,200 crore subsidy each year," Sadiq said adding that the customers should know that this subsidy cannot continue forever.

Regarding hike in the prices of energy or power, he noted that the
