

Take state-of-the-art curricula for quality education

President asks university authorities

UNB, Dhaka

President Iajuddin Ahmed yesterday called upon the university authorities to take the state-of-the-art curricula for providing quality education to empower the students with latest knowledge.

"Universities should take the state-of-the-art curricula so that our students can work at the cutting-edge of technology," he told the 1st convocation of Northern University Bangladesh at Bangladesh China Friendship Conference Centre here.

Foreign Adviser Iftekhar Ahmed Chowdhury attended the programme as special guest while Bangladesh Bank Governor Dr Salehuddin Ahmed as the convocation speaker.

The president called upon the educational institutions to come up to absorb the needed changes and prepare the generation to meet the needs of the society.

He said universities have a great role to play for giving shape to new ideas suitable for the country. "The university education should empower individuals with the latest knowledge and skill to be professionals of high standard," he added.

The president said: "Apart from meeting the standard professional needs, education must have another purpose towards the development of a value system, which empowers individuals to understand their rights and accountability of the society, and gives them the identity with relevance to morality."

Iajuddin stressed the need for including arts and humanity into university curricula along with science and technology to make the students well-informed and competitive.

"Ethical values, which combine morality, integrity and honesty, should be incorporated in the learning process so that the students can acquire these noble qualities along with their academic lessons," he said.

About the role of the teachers in ensuring quality education, he termed teachers as 'social engineers' and the 'real makers of the nation'.

Iajuddin also highlighted the role of parents and the community for providing standard education with moral values.

"The parents and community will have to ensure the students an atmosphere, in which they can identify the ideals and can see a future, which is decent, bright and assured," he added.

He hoped that all concerned, including the authorities of both private and public universities, would put in their best efforts to maintain the highest standard of education at the higher level so that students do not lag behind when it is compared with other countries.

Congratulating the graduates, he said, "The country and the people of the soil have sacrificed enough for bringing you to this position and it is your turn to repay the debt by discharging your services with utmost sincerity and dedication."

He called upon them to uphold truth, justice and honesty while discharging duties wherever they are assigned.

The president also thanked the university authorities, guardians as well as the fellow faculty members for providing right directions and proper guidance to the students.

The road in front of Dania University College at Jatrabari in the city goes under water even after a little rain, causing suffering to students as well as pedestrians. The picture was taken yesterday.

Govt plans to import edible oil

UNB, Dhaka

The government is planning to import refined edible oil as it found its present price in the country excessive compared to that of the international market.

An official release yesterday said concerned agencies have been asked to find out whether any person or quarter is involved in the artificial price hike of the edible oil.

"Legal steps will be taken if any one or quarter is found involved in it as the import and supply of edible oil are satisfactory," the release added.

It said the government is also considering reducing the import duties on crude and refined oils to a reasonable level to stabilise the market.

Besides, the release said the situation to open and settle LCs, X-bonds and in-bonds and other indicators is in a better position compared to the last year.

'Withdraw ban on Hasina's return'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Different organisations yesterday condemned the embargo on the return of former prime minister Sheikh Hasina to her home.

Leaders of the organisations urged the caretaker government to withdraw the embargo immediately and take effective measures so that Hasina, daughter of Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, can return home.

The Pachattur Ghatak Dalal Nirmul Committee termed the embargo 'unconstitutional' and said the caretaker government has violated citizen's as well as human rights of Hasina.

"All moves including issuing embargo on Hasina's return, and filling false case and issuing warrant against her are tantamount to violation of human rights," said Nirmul Committee Joint Convener Faruque Ahmed in a statement.

He said the embargo on Hasina is an anti-democratic move and it will push the nation towards a deep crisis.

Bangladesh Awami Hawkers League President SM Zakaria Hanif and General Secretary Sheikh Ayub Ali protested the embargo on Hasina and said this move has created confusion among the countrymen.

In a joint statement they urged Chief Adviser Dr Fakhrudin Ahmed to withdraw the embargo considering the national interest and image of the country.

UK VISA APPLICATION

New system from today

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The UK High Commission (HC) to Bangladesh introduces a new visa application procedure, including collection of biometric data of the applicants, from today to reduce identity fraud in immigration system.

The new system will involve collecting digital photograph and fingerprint of visa applicants using high-tech scanners. Sheilani Nandy, second secretary (Immigration) of the high commission, told a group of journalists during their visit to a visa application centre (VAC) at Saimon Centre in Gulshan in the capital yesterday.

From now on UK visa applicants will have to pay visa fees at designated branches of Brac Bank, and the receipt will have to be attached with the application form.

Bangladesh will be the first in South Asia and 64th country in the globe where biometric system is being introduced with no additional cost and no extra time, he added.

"The new system will help genuine Bangladeshi applicants. It will protect them from identity fraud and help us recognise genuine applicants so that we can facilitate their legitimate travel to the UK more easily," said British High Commissioner Anwar Choudhury at a press conference on April 17.

Under the new system, applicants will have to go in person to visa application centres located in Dhaka, Sylhet and Chittagong to submit their applications, along with biometric features, said the high commissioner.

Our staff correspondent from Sylhet adds: The new process is part of a worldwide UK policy aimed at reducing fraud in immigration process.

Second Secretary (Immigration) of the British High Commission to Bangladesh Derek Jones told a press conference at the local VAC yesterday that the new system will help genuine Bangladeshi applicants.

"It will protect them from identity fraud and help us to recognise genuine applicants so that we can facilitate their legitimate travel to the UK more easily," he added.

The official said collecting biometric data involves taking a digital photograph of each applicant using a high tech electronic finger print scanner.

"The technology is nothing to be scared of and we hope Bangladeshi people will feel comfortable with it very quickly," he said, adding that the images will be stored in a database in the UK.

Derek said the process of issuing visa for the UK had been made simple and transparent.

"The UK authorities are not to reduce the number of visitors, rather we need more visitors and students. But things will now be transparent and fraudulent cases will be detected easily," he added.

Derek said, "Nearly half of Bangladesh's total visa applications are made from Sylhet region and these are handled by our commercial partner the Visa Facilitation Service (VFS)."

Later, the officials showed the newly set up machines for collecting biometric data and electronic finger print scanner at the VAC.

Govt employee caught while taking bribe

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Rapid Action Battalion-4 (Rab) yesterday caught a government employee in the act of taking bribe at Senior Finance Controller's Office (Navy) at the capital's Lalasharai, Mirpur 14.

The arrestee, M Shahadat Hossain, 41, son of late Najim Uddin Khan from Shibchar of Madaripur, is an auditor at the pension department of the office.

Rab sources said M Mahmudul Haq, a retired chief petty officer of the navy, went to withdraw his pension funds last week when he was told by auditor Shahadat that Haq 's pension would be processed faster if Haq paid him Tk 4000.

Haq later notified Rab-4 of the incident. To be able to bust Shahadat during the act, Rab made photocopies of Tk 3,000 and asked Haq to go to Shahadat's office and pay him the amount.

Yesterday afternoon, Haq entered Shahadat's office at Room 19 of the Senior Finance Controller's Office and handed over the money to Shahadat.

Soon after Shahadat put the money inside his drawer, undercover Rab personnel entered the room and detected the same notes that they had given to Haq.

After quizzing, Shahadat confessed to receiving the money as bribe from Haq, said Rab sources.

A case has been filed under the Emergency Power Ordinance 2007 with Kafrul Police Station.

Couple commit suicide in city

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Three people, including a couple, committed suicide in two separate incidents in the city yesterday.

The couple Shahazul, 30, and Shahnaz, 20, who were married a year ago, committed suicide by jumping under a Tongi-bound container-laden train in Banani rail gate area at about 11:25am.

"When I saw the couple walking along the rail slippers cheerfully about half an hour ago, I asked them to keep away from the rail tracks. Little had I thought that they could commit suicide. Yet, when the train neared, the man suddenly jumped under the train holding the woman in his arms," said Azizur Rahman, gatekeeper of Banani-Kakoly rail gate.

Jahanara Begum, sister-in-law of Shahazul, said he talked to her over cellphone in the morning and said he was very frustrated.

Relatives could not confirm why the couple committed suicide.

Shahazul had been living in his in-law's residence at Ibrahimpur in the city for the last thirty days.

In another incident, Giasuddin, 27, a garment worker living at Jurain, committed suicide by poisoning himself following a dispute with his wife over some private issues.

Giasuddin took poison at 2:00pm at his home after he returned from his workplace.

His wife Shikha Begum with the help of neighbours took him to Dhaka Medical College Hospital where the doctors on duty declared him dead.

"Gias had an illicit relation with a neighbouring woman and he used to beat me over this issue," alleged Shikha.

However, their neighbours alleged that Gias was frustrated with his wife's suspicious character and complaints regarding their lifestyle.

Sign UN Convention on persons with disabilities

Speakers urge govt at discussion

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Speakers at a discussion yesterday urged the government to sign and ratify the UN Convention on the rights of Persons with Disability (PWD) to ensure accountability of the state in establishing their rights.

They also asked for the amendment of the existing disability act in accordance with the UN Convention for mainstreaming the persons with special needs.

The discussion titled 'The rights of PWD in Bangladesh in the light of UN Convention on PWD' was organised by Action on Disability and Development (ADD) at the National Press Club in the city.

ADD, that works with PWD to promote their human rights, organised the discussion to create awareness among people about the Convention and to sensitise civil society to help implement it.

In his welcome speech

Mozammel Haque, advocacy coordinator of ADD, said the adoption of UN Convention for PWD on December 13, 2006 is the reflection of everlasting desire for mainstreaming 65 crore people with disabilities around the world.

A total of 81 countries, excluding Bangladesh, have already signed the convention, he said, adding that the government has taken initiative to sign the Convention.

Highlighting different aspects of the Convention, Mozammel said the Convention will uphold economic and social rights of PWD ensuring their equal access to health, education and employment.

Enam Ahmed Chowdhury, former chairman of Privatisation Commission, said changes in attitude and behaviour to PWD are needed to flourish their latent talent to help overall development of the country.

Rasheda K Choudhury, director of the Campaign for Population Education, asked for the formulation of a proper policy in accordance with the UN Convention to bring PWD to the mainstream of education and development.

She also urged media to highlight the success story of PWD to motivate the government to invest for their empowerment.

Ana Campbell Johnston, programme coordinator of ADD, UK, spoke about the challenging life of indigenous PWD in Chittagong Hill Tracts.

She said the implementation of UN Convention is essential to ensure the accountability of the government in establishing the rights of PWD.

Dr Shirin Sharmin Chowdhury and Dr Noyeem Ahmed of Supreme Court Bar also took part in the discussion presided over by Mosharraf Hossain, country representative of ADD.
