SPORTS REPORTER

Defending champions Sheikh Russell and title-contenders Bangladesh Biman won their respective matches in the AB Bank Senior Division Table Tennis League at the Wooden Floor Gymnasium yesterday.

Mostofa, Mahbub and Kachi won emphatically against Mahbub, Mridul and Shanto of Engineers' Club while Manosh, Edison and Pappu of Biman also had a good outing against Ajax Sporting Club as both teams won 3-0.

Only Manosh was pushed in his match against Goutam as he won 11-2, 9-11, 8-11, 11-8 and 11-3.

In the other match, Mariners Youngs Club beat Mohammadpur Boys 3-1.

Lawson in Pak list

AFP, Sydney

Former Australian fast bowler Geoff Lawson will fly to Pakistan for talks on coaching the troubled national team following the death of Bob Woolmer, a report said here Saturday.

Lawson is among three on Pakistan's shortlist for the job, along with compatriots Dav Whatmore and former fast bowler Richard Done, the newspaper report said.

Former New South Wales and New Zealand coach Steve Rixon has told AFP that the Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) contacted him about the role but he had already made other plans.

Lawson said he also had been contacted, at short notice, about the job and was trying to obtain a visa from the Pakistan High Commission in Canberra. He was hoping to fly out this weekend "once the paper work has been done".

Chelsea owner Roman Abramovich, with new girlfriend Daria Zhukova in tow, was also there, according to The Sun, as was England boss Steve McLaren and a host of other high-earning English Premiership stars.

One visitor who saw Terry's marquee being prepared during a visit to the palace Thursday, was unimpressed, according to Britain's domestic Press Association news agency.

"There were pink Cadillac seats, purple carpets -- it all looked very tacky to me," he was quoted as saying.

One star who is not scheduled to attend, according to reports, is Real Madrid and England midfielder David Beckham. He is on club duty but The Sun said he will deliver a live video message to Neville from Spain.

Defar breaks 5000m record

AFP, Oslo

Jamaican 100m world record holder Asafa Powell and Russian world and Olympic pole vault champion Yelena Isinbayeva underlined their star credentials here Friday with crushing wins in their respective events.

Ethiopian Meseret Defar kept up the Bissett stadium's reputation as one where records will continue to be broken by setting the 53rd, smashing her previous world record mark in the women's 5000m by eight seconds.

Defar, the 23-year-old Olympic champion, timed 14min 16.63sec after some great pace-making by Russian Olga Komyagina and a final 800m in 2:12.51.

"Everything was perfect today," said Defar. "I knew I could break the record after 2km. The pacemaker was great and it was no problem to continue with the pace alone."

With a tailwind of 0.9m/s, Powell enjoyed a great start and raced home in 9.94sec, his 27th sub-10sec timing recorded over the blue riband event, and just one-hundredth off the world lead set last week by American Walter Dix.

"9.94sec was a good time for me today," the 24-year-old Jamaican said. "I ran 9.96sec here last year so I'm at the same spot. Things are looking good for me."

Powell, who missed the 2005 worlds through injury, confirmed that his sights were set firmly on the August 25-September 2 World Athletics Championships in Osaka, Japan.

"The world championships are the most important thing this year. I want to go the final and win a gold medal there," he said.

The Jamaican dominated a strong field that included double European sprint champion and Olympic silver medalist Francis Obikwelu, Trinidad's 2003 world silver medalist Darrel Brown and African record holder Olusoji Fasuba.

Obikwelu came second in 10.06sec with Fasuba promoted to third after Briton Marlon Devonish was disqualified.

Devonish, the Athens Olympics 4x100m relay gold medalist, was a last-minute inclusion after earlier clocking 10.20sec in the "B" race.

But he was disqualified from the main event for having run twice in the same day.

Isinbayeva, who has previously bemoaned the dearth of quality opposition in her event, entered the pole vault at 4.60m with only Poland's Monica Pyrek left in the competition.

Pyrek promptly crashed out at 4.70m while Isinbayeva had to settle for 4.85m.

In the tightly-contested high jump, Russian Yelena Slesarenko won with a season's best of 2.02m ahead of Croatia's Blanka Vlasic.

Elsewhere, Morocco's Adil Kaouch won the coveted Dream Mile in 3:51.14, a surprise winner over Commonwealth champion Augustine Choge of Kenya.

American Anwar Moore won the 110m hurdles in 13.26sec, edging compatriot David Payne by 0.01sec with Thomas Blaschke of Germany in third.

In the field, Phillips Idowu of Britain won the triple jump with a best of 17.35m, two centimetres ahead of Sweden's Olympic champion Christian Olsson.

Tero Pitkamaki of Finland claimed top podium spot in the javelin with 88.78m.

It was a good night on the track for American women, with victories for Stephanie Durst, Sanya Richards and Michelle Perry.

Durst won the 100m in 11.22sec ahead of Jamaican Sheri-Ann Brooks and Cydonie Mothersill of Cayman Islands. Perry won the 100m hurdles in 12.70.

Richards, who shared the Golden League jackpot last season with Powell and compatriot Jeremy Wariner, was untroubled as she strolled to victory in the 400m in a season's best of 50.26sec and, injuries notwithstanding, looks a good bet to go the distance this season.

and two to Middlesbrough (Aiyegbeni Yakubu and Fabio Rochemback).

The player and club involved in the 17th transfer were not identified. British Sports Minister Richard Caborn urged the FA and FIFA to crack down on agents who had not cooperated with the inquiry.

"While it's pleasing to hear that all clubs and officials have cooperated fully with the Stevens inquiry, I am deeply concerned that some agents haven't," Caborn said.

"It's now for the FA and FIFA to pursue these agents vigorously and they will have my support every step of the way. The role of agents in football will always be controversial and that's why they need proper regulation at national, European and international level."

The report was critical of Zahavi's failure to cooperate fully with the inquiry having initially failed to disclose his involvement in a number of transfers then refused to provide bank statements requested by investigators.

"There remain questions relating to his relationship with and payments to (British agent) Barry Silkman and Barry Silkman's failure to initially disclose his involvement in all the transactions in which he received fees," the report notes.

Shoaib fit, and back

AFP, Bhurban

Paceman Shoaib Akhtar regained full fitness to claim a place in Pakistan's 15-man squad for the upcoming tour of Scotland, selectors announced here on Saturday.

The 32-year-old missed the World Cup in the Caribbean due to a knee injury and was also left out of the squad for the three-match series against Sri Lanka in Abu Dhabi last month.

However, Akhtar bowled strongly at the team's tune-up camp for the tour of Scotland, where Pakistan play one-off limited over internationals against India on July 1 and against the hosts two days later.

The injury-prone fast bowler played briefly for Pakistan in their Test series against South Africa in January before breaking down once more. His last one-day international was against England in September.

Chief selector Salahuddin Ahmed said Akhtar's fitness is a good omen for Pakistan. "A fit Akhtar is an asset for Pakistan and we have watched him bowl so he was included," said Ahmed.

In October Akhtar was banned for two years and fellow paceman Mohammad Asif for one year after testing positive for the steroid nandrolone, but the bans were later overturned on the grounds that they took the substance unknowingly.

Both missed the World Cup as Akhtar was battling a knee and hamstring injury, while Asif had an elbow injury.

Akhtar said he was delighted to be back in the squad.

"I am happy and look forward to play for Pakistan once more. I have been bowling with full throttle and intensity and hope to do well," said Akhtar, who has 169 Test and 208 one-day wickets.

Former vice-captain and leading batsman Younis Khan also returned to the team after missing the Sri Lanka series due to his commitment with English county Yorkshire. Pakistan had a troubled World Cup where they were dumped out in the first round following defeats against the West Indies and minnows Ireland.

They also lost their coach Bob Woolmer who died in the team hotel after Pakistan's exit. Police launched a murder inquiry, but now say he died of natural causes.

Their captain Inzamamul Haq later announced his retirement from one-day cricket while his potential replacement Younis refused to lead the side citing personal reasons.

It forced the authorities to choose young Shoaib Malik as the new captain.

Pakistan is still searching of a new coach and hope to shortlist contenders on Sunday before taking a final decision later this month.

A vice captain for the Scotland tour will also be named on Sunday, after Asif's appointment as Malik's deputy for the Sri Lanka series raised eyebrows due to his involvement in the doping scandal.

A statement issued by WIPA said that the West Indies board had been advised that it had reached the decision "following intensive discussions with various stakeholders and likely selectees who have unanimously expressed deep concern about players' safety and the continuing volatile situation existing in that country".

"While we at WIPA acknowledge the importance of the development of cricket, we are, nevertheless, firmly of the view that the safety of players in an unsettled environment is of paramount importance."

"We have consulted with CARICOM (Caribbean Community and Common Market) and we have received assurances from the Zimbabwe board regarding player safety," Tony Deyal, the WICB's corporate secretary, told Cricinfo. "We also believe that we will be getting a guarantee from the Zimbabwe government."

"We have shared the information we have with WIPA and we would hope they share theirs with us. If they have information we don't have then we are prepared to review it."

A meeting between the board and WIPA is likely in the next few days to try to resolve the situation.

Dinanath Ramnarine, WIPA's chief executive, said that he was sympathetic to the disappointment of those selected at the cancellation but that "we want to assure the board that we will give every consideration to a similar tour in more favourable circumstances". He added that many sources both inside and outside Zimbabwe had been consulted before the decision was reached.

There was more confusion when Bruce Aanesen, the WICB's chief executive officer, told the Trinidad & Tobago Express that the trip was on. "That is still the plan (for) the team to leave on June 30. We did not get the response from the Caribbean heads of government until Wednesday afternoon of last week."

"On receipt of that when we agreed that we could go ahead with the tour in so far as the heads of government were concerned, we sent out a proposal to WIPA, the terms and conditions of the tour and I am waiting on a response from WIPA at the moment to proceed with announcing the team for the tour."

Cricinfo understands that those likely to tour have been contacted by WIPA in advance of this decision, although WIPA has yet to be informed of the exact squad members even though the board seems to have been in touch with them individually.

The news will be a serious blow to Zimbabwe Cricket. It comes hot on the heels of the decision by the Australian government to ban their side from touring Zimbabwe, and less than a fortnight before the ICC meets to consider the restoration of Zimbabwe's Test status.

UEFA-cup chasing Villarreal. With players injured, a call-up for Freddie Kanoute and controversy galore -- the finish looks set to be frenetic.

It has been a season of incidents -- plots and sub-plots intertwined amongst them. Final flings, full cycles and new force withstanding, when the dust clears Fabio Capello looks likely to be the man left standing with Frank Rijkaard and Juande Ramos in a heap -- which would mean Roberto Carlos bows out with a final hurrah alongside David Beckham.

And then again just like the last weekday, fate could deal its next eighteen second hand.

All in all, as it stands for Madrid, winning is all that's required. For Barcelona and Sevilla -- well they both need a miracle Trouble is, miracles have so far really been Real's thing.

"However, we must focus on our own game and get a good result."

"It would be very sad if Real Madrid slipped up but we did not take advantage."

"For Nastic, it's an important game, as they will want to finish [their stint in La Liga] on a high, and give their fans something to celebrate," he warned.

"We must prepare ourselves in the best possible way."
