percent success and a total of 32,646 students achieved the highest grade point average five (GPA-5) this year against 30,490 of last year.
Schools in urban areas particularly those in metropolitan cities dominate the GPA-5 category this year. Among the top 10 GPA-5 securing schools under Dhaka Education Board nine are in the capital, in Chittagong Education Board six out of the best 10 are in Chittagong city, in Comilla Board seven out of the top 10 are in Comilla Sadar upazila, in Sylhet Board six out of top 10 GPA-5 securing schools are in Sylhet city and all the 10 best GPA-5 securing schools under Jessore Board are in Khulna city, Jessore and Kushtia Sadar upazilas.
Education Secretary M Mamtazul Islam said the percentage of successful students went down this year due to the long teachers' strike last year observed at non-government schools. Educationalists said students of urban areas and of solvent families made good the loss in lessons while students of rural areas and of poor families could not.

Educationist Prof Serajul Islam Choudhury said disparity in the quality of teaching in rural and urban areas is being seen, an alarming issue for a democratic country.
"A germ has already entered our society. Education has turned into a commodity where investment gets priority. For this reason, students of urban areas performed well in the SSC exams," he told The Daily Star.
This year the pass rate of the SSC exam has declined to 57.37 percent from last year's 59.04 percent. Among the 42.63 percent failed students, over 30 percent students did not pass in English, sources in the computer section of Educational Boards said.
Educationists said most schools in rural areas do not have sufficient teachers, especially English and Math teachers, and so the students of rural areas do not do well in those subjects.
Educationist Prof Maniruzzaman

Miah, former vice-chancellor of Dhaka University, said there is wide disparity between rural and urban areas in terms of availability of good teachers and infrastructure facilities.
"Particularly in rural areas the number of qualified English and Math teachers are inadequate therefore schools in rural areas have poor SSC result," he said adding that communicative English was introduced a few years ago but English teachers particularly in rural areas are not trained to teach the students.
Meanwhile, education ministry introduced a training programme English Language Development Project (ELDP), which did not run properly, teachers alleged.
Besides, students of different schools alleged that teachers of English and Science subjects encourage students to obtain private tuition and do not take classes regularly.
Selim Bhuiyan, chief coordinator of Shikhhak Karmachari Okya Jote, a combine of non-government teachers' and employees' organisations, said good teachers especially English and Math teachers have a tendency to move to urban areas as they can earn more through private tuition.

He said newly appointed teachers who have completed BA or BSc Pass Degree are very weak in English as the government withdrew compulsory English course since 1980.
Education Watch Report-2006, a survey conducted by Campaign for Popular Education (CAMPE), also pointed finger at the trend towards depending on private tuition. According to the report, 88 percent students of government high schools and 78 percent students of non-government high schools in urban areas have private coaching or tutors. Parents spend Tk 16,894 annually on an average to provide this private education.

Over 2,100 Biman staff Army assisting government

However, some others said they had no other option to respond to the VRS as the Biman authorities had pressurised them.
Besides, it was not clear what would happen if they did not respond to the VRS, they said.
"I feared that they would fire me if I do not respond to VRS. Then I would not get any benefit," said Golam Sarwar, a class four employee of the Biman.
The Council of Advisers on May 20 approved a proposal to turn Biman Bangladesh Airlines into a PLC by June.
Under the VRS scheme, Biman offered special packages to its employees whose service period exceeded five years.
Implementation of the scheme will require Tk about 297 crore and the World Bank has already provided the amount to the government, Dr MA Momen earlier said.
A company board would be formed comprising the organisations that will take all decisions regarding the Biman.
The caretaker government is set to complete the process of turning Bangladesh Biman into a PLC by June 30 and appoint an operator for managing the airline.
Biman Bangladesh Airlines will be renamed Bangladesh Airlines after its turning into a PLC.
The new operator must be a well-managed airline like Singapore Airlines or Thai Airlines but that will be appointed through open tender, said MA Matin, adviser for communications, shipping and civil aviation ministries.

The draft of the proposal for turning the public sector corporation into a public limited company was finalised at an inter-ministerial meeting yesterday. The proposal would be placed before the advisory council meeting on Saturday, Matin told the journalists after the meeting.
The inter-ministerial meeting also finalised the draft of the memorandum of association and memorandum of articles of the new company while the government would promulgate an ordinance in this regard after approval of the advisory council.
After becoming a public limited company the airline would be free from government control, he said. The airline will purchase new aircraft or collect aircraft on lease on the basis of the operator's suggestion for reviving the ailing organisation.
In the first phase the government will hold 100 per cent share of the new company but later up to 49 per cent share of will be off-loaded, Matin said.
Seven to eleven directors -- all from secretary-level government officials -- will operate the company that will be later registered with the registrar of joint stock companies.
The government would bear long-term and short-term liabilities of the Biman, and the new company would start with zero liabilities, the adviser said.
Civil Aviation Secretary Sheikh Altaf Ali and representatives from ministries concerned were present at the inter-ministerial meeting.
